Lindy and Norfolk Go-Betweens Again Confer

Today

Once Things Start.
Desert Flowers and Music.
Giving Away the U. S. A.
Bonfils on Gold and Silver.

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, April 12.

THINGS GROW rapidly in America once they start. In 1880 this was a little town of 10,000 inhabitants, half Mexicans.

Five or six thriving cities were competing for domination in the West, paying no attention to this little "Town of the Angels." Los Angeles and its metropolitan area today have a population equaling all of them combined.

NOT VERY LONG ago the father of the Reserve Board head, Eugene Meyer, Jr., who lived and had land here, decided he wanted to go ahead more rapidly. He sold his Los Angeles land, joined the important firm of Lazard-Freres in New York and made a great fortune. He said to the writer:

"If I had kept my land in Los Angeles and taken my ease, I should be worth more than I have now, with all my hard work."

YOU WILL probably come out here, later this year, for the Olympic games. If you motor out, come by way of Barstow and through the Cajon Pass. The writer took that route yesterday morning.

You come through a desert brilliant with wild flowers, endless varieties of blossoming lupin, sage brush and cacti, and rising toward the snow-covered tops of the southern Sierras you pass the strange Joshua trees on the upper desert, heavy with white flowers, then down to San Bernardino and the orange groves.

Trees are thick with blossoms, air heavy with their perfume. Signs along the way would interest easterners:

"Fresh eggs, extra large, 20 cents a dozen." "Strawberries, two large baskets for 25 cents."

The strawberries grow beside the road between Azusa and Arcadia, heavy bright red crimson rows of fruit.

The sign on an airfield invites you to fly for fifty cents, another sign reads:

"Ten gallons of gasoline 88 cents."

Prices are reaching bottom here.

THAT MOJAVE Desert, high above the Pacific, of which you have read in this column, is far from lonesome, thanks to radio. On Thursday the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra sent through the air a magnificent program that included Schubert's Unfinished Symphony.

Next morning came the General Electric's admirable concert for school children, Walter Damrosch conducting. And on Sunday another General Electric concert, with instrumental and vocal selections from Goetterdaemmerung, including prelude and an excellent voice singing the Liebes Tod.

Thanks to radio, intellectually the greatest of all human discoveries next to the telescope, the man on a mountain-top or in the heart of a desert can enjoy everything worth while in civilization, and escape the racket.

WISE EASTERNERS, tired and sick of talk about the depression, would do well this spring or summer to cross the continent and see for themselves what their country really is, and how little it ought to depend on Wall Street, bulls or the bears, what the French do about their gold, the Germans about their debts, or the English about their pound sterling.

THERE ARE things in this world worth while, outside of bank balances, ticker quotations and "graphs" that tell what is going up and down.

Mr. Whitney, head of the New York Stock Exchange, questioned on bear raids and the ridiculously low prices of stocks, tells the Senate investigators:

"I believe the public today is trying to give these United States of ours away."

Whoever has SEEN the states would not be inclined to give them away, or exchange them for any dozen other countries, in spite of the fact that our government is not perfect.

THE SENATE'S investigation hasn't helped stocks and their prices much yet. Steel and some other stocks went to new low prices yesterday.

However, the actions of frightened speculators, stampeded by conspiracies of bears "hammering" prices, have no meaning as concerns ultimate values.

Many who now think, foolishly, that the end of the world has come, will before long be wondering why they hadn't brains enough to make a fortune when the chance was before them.

F. G. BONFILS of the Denver Post discusses gold and silver, paying no attention to the statement of Wall Street authorities that such matters should not be discussed.

He quotes the Christian Science Monitor, which says:

"All the gold produced in the world in 438 years would make a block 38 feet square. Nearly two billion people are tied by the leg to this golden fetish."

He also quotes Sir Basil Blackett, director of the Bank of England:

"Banks keep gold merely because they think that the people think they ought to keep gold."

Bonfils says:

"A billion yellow people with white money (silver) are debarred from commercial relations with 100 million white men with yellow money (gold)."

CURTIS TRIP IN PLANE VEILED IN SECRECY

Dean Also Refuses to Talk On Kidnapers' Break; Burrage Absence Mystery

NORFOLK, Va., April 12.—(AP.)—The Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock today said he had been advised that his two associates in negotiations for the return of the stolen Lindbergh baby conferred yesterday with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Dean Dobson-Peacock said he had heard from John Hughes Curtis, who left here Sunday by plans, but he declined to reveal details of information had been given him.

He said he had not heard from Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, the third member of the trio, whose absence from Norfolk since Saturday was first reported to have no connection with the negotiations. He would not state where the conference with Col. Lindbergh took place.

SILENT ON 'BREAK'

Dean Dobson-Peacock refused to comment on a report that the negotiators were aware of a break among the kidnapers and that Col. Lindbergh had been warned that trickery might be attempted in payment of the ransom.

Both he and Curtis apparently were deeply concerned when interviewed shortly after they learned of the unsuccessful payment.

The negotiators, however, have refused to say whether the persons with whom they are dealing are the same as those to whom the ransom money was paid.

Study of Lindy Case Begun by Grand Jury

FLEMINGTON, N. J., April 12.—(AP.)—The Hunterdon County April grand jury was sworn in today and began immediate consideration of the Lindbergh kidnap case.

Sculptor Completes Tomb for 'Unknown'

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—The marble tomb beneath which sleeps America's unknown soldier was completed today at Arlington National Cemetery.

After six years, a design commemorating "Peace, Victory and Valor" was finished on the monument by Thomas Hudson Jones, New York sculptor, who completed his task after the marble was set last December, while a sentry paced his post beside the tomb.

Zionist Leader Ill From Poisoned Food

DURBAN, Natal, Africa, April 12.—(AP.)—Dr. Chaim Weizmann, prominent Jewish leader, and 30 other guests at a banquet in his honor, were suffering from ptomaine poisoning today.

Dr. Weizmann's condition was not serious, but he was confined to his room under a physician's care. Mrs. Weizmann also was among the victims. An investigation was begun to ascertain the cause of the trouble.

Gibbons to Speed East, Go on Air

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—(Universal.)—Floyd Gibbons, famous headline hunter, and war correspondent for Universal Service, will leave here for the East tonight. Next Friday he will resume his broadcasting in Cleveland and on Saturday will be guest at a Chicago Press Club banquet. Between those dates he hopes to attend a luncheon in his honor to be given in Toledo by the Toledo Blade.

Snow, Rain, Cold Mar Diamond Inaugurals

Associated Press.

Plagued by snow, rain and cold weather, baseball's major league campaigns faced an inauspicious start today.

Only at Philadelphia, Cincinnati and St. Louis was there anything resembling "baseball weather."

Snow ushered in the season in Detroit and caused postponement of the opener there between the Tigers and the Cleveland Indians, and rain caused postponement of the game scheduled at Boston between the Washington Senators and the Red Sox.

The outstanding game in the National League drew fair weather, the temperature being 42 at St. Louis at 8 a. m. for the opening game of the world champion Cardinals against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Larry French was expected to toe the slab for the Bucs, and Flint Rhem was virtually certain to carry the mound burden for the Redbirds.

Dog Saves Family In Braddock Blaze

A barking of "Lindy," an Eskimo dog, awakened the family of Thomas Davis when fire in the Monarch Wall Paper Company, 713 Braddock avenue, Braddock, spread to their second floor apartment early today.

The blaze started in the rear of the paper store and spread to the second floor. Davis, his wife, Margaret, and their sons, Thomas, Jr., 13; Mike, 12, and Jack, 11, fled to safety.

Harris of Georgia Has Sinking Spell

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—The condition of Senator Harris, of Georgia, suffering from heart trouble, was much worse today, and he is not expected to recover.

Mercury to Hover Below Freezing Here Tonight

Snow flurries, accompanied by near-record April cold, alternated with sunshine today as the Weather Bureau predicted a drop in the mercury to between 25 and 30 tonight.

Below freezing temperatures and heavy frost were reported throughout the middle west, as far south as Texas, with the result that little prospect of warmer weather was held out for tomorrow here.

Flowers and shrubs held back by March's severe cold have made little progress since February and will suffer little by tonight's freeze, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said.

From St. Louis, where the Pirates and Cardinals clash in the season's baseball opener today, clear skies and a temperature of 42 were reported this morning.

RADIO PRIEST MAKES PLEA FOR BONUS

Father Coughlin Says Quick Aid to Banks, Railroads Changed Legion Sentiment

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—A fervent plea for payment of the $2,400,000,000 World War veterans' bonus was made to the House committee today by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, the "radio priest" of Detroit. He asserted it would not only relieve needy veterans, but would stimulate industry and finance.

Explaining the opposition of the American Legion convention at Detroit to cash payment at this time, he made plain the Legionnaires who voted had money to pay their hotel bills, while the poorer former service men could not attend the convention.

BANKER'S WARNING

Payment of the bonus by printing money would be dangerous to the financial stability of the country, Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank in New York, said in a letter presented to the committee by Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, to show that cash payment would produce inflation of the currency which, he said, is desirable, but which Mitchell says would be disastrous.

The bill, Mitchell said, opened the way to a paper money inflation of unlimited possibility. Once the government embarks on the use of the printing press, he said, there is no logical stopping place.

Mitchell said the effect of the bill "would be gravely damaging both to the credit of the United States government and to the stability of our monetary system."

Father Coughlin in his testimony asserted:

"I believe the veterans would have stuck to their promise to President Hoover if circumstances had not changed. When Congress quickly passed the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction finance bill to aid banks and tottering railroads, the mental attitude of the American people and the American Legion underwent a change. This statement is based on 1,500,000 letters which reflect the change to which I am referring.

"They said 'If the government can pay $2,000,000,000 to the bankers and railroads, why can't they pay the soldiers?'"

USES FOR BONUS

He said most of the bonus money would be used to pay grocer, butcher and doctor bills, continuing:

"It would be $2,000,000,000 sent into channels of trade and commerce.

"We have given financial blood transfusions in the last two years and we will soon have a corpse on our hands for we have given the last transfusion in the last financial construction corporation and it did not correct our basic trouble."

He asked the committee to remember the revolution of France as well as the Revolutionary War in this country. In concluding he said that he did not appear as a representative of the Catholic Church, but spoke for himself.

Stevens Defender Attacked by Vets

GREENSBORO, N. C., April 12.—(AP.)—A near riot during which guns were brandished by participants, but not used, broke up an American Legion meeting last night when a friend of National Commander Henry L. Stevens took exception to the Legionnaires' criticism of Stevens for his stand against cash bonus payments.

The friend, whose identity was not learned, was rushed by the Legionnaires when he branded several of the evening's speakers "liars."

Gamaliel Bradford, Biographer, Dies

WELLESLEY, Mass., April 12.—(AP.)—Gamaliel Bradford, 69, internationally known biographer and author, died last night at his Wellesley Hills home.

He spent 14 years of painstaking research on his work, "Lee the American," and his "The Soul of Samuel Pepys" brought him international recognition.

MASSIE WILL TAKE DEATH BLAME

Hawaii Prosecutor Ready To Meet 'Unwritten Law' Plea; Witnesses Testify

By GILBERT PARKER
International News Service.

HONOLULU, T. H., April 12.—Convinced that the secret of the "honor" defense of Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue and her three American compatriots has been solved, the prosecution today was ready to drive home its closely woven murder case.

Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, in a moment of emotional rage, fired the shot that killed Joseph Kahahawai, according to the defense plans as learned by the government, a source close to the prosecution revealed to International News Service today.

Mrs. Fortescue, Lieut. Massie and two naval enlisted men are on trial accused of the second degree killing of Kahahawai, suspected Hawaiian ringleader of a gang of five hoodlums that attacked Mrs. Thalia Massie, daughter of Mrs. Fortescue and wife of Lieut. Massie.

ALIENISTS ON HAND

Two eminent psychiatrists from the mainland—Drs. Edward H. Williams and Thomas J. Orbison—will be called by the defense next week in an attempt to prove that Lieut. Massie was morally if not legally justified in killing Kahahawai, Prosecutor Kelley believes.

With an end to proving that the shooting of the Hawaiian was premeditated, and not the result of momentary rage, the prosecution announced that eight more important witnesses will be paraded to-

SON OF HOOVER FINED ON SPEED

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—(INS.)—Allan Hoover, young radio engineer and son of President Hoover, visited Traffic Court today.

He had received a ticket of admission. It said something about moving along 38 miles an hour in a 20-mile zone.

A busy municipal Judge snapped:

"Guilty or not guilty?"

Young Hoover replied:

"Guilty, your honor."

The Judge said:

"Seven dollars—see the clerk."

Nicholas, En Route To Paris; Keeps Wife

BUCHAREST, April 12.—(AP.)—Prince Nicholas, who has refused to renounce his morganatic wife at the demand of his brother, King Carol, left today by automobile for Paris. It was announced yesterday that he had been given a year's "furlough" abroad.

HUSBAND TAKING BLAME

MRS. THOMAS H. MASSIE . . . MOTHER, HUSBAND ON TRIAL

Young Mrs. Thalia Massie, central figure in the Honolulu case, whose husband, according to the prosecution theory of Defense Counsel Darrow's unrevealed plans, will take the blame, pleading that he alone did the killing—in a moment of emotional insanity when his mind pictured the brutal five-man attack on Mrs. Massie.

Aged Woman Slain, Stepson Shot in Auto

LEXINGTON, Mo., April 12.—(AP.)—A 72-year-old woman was shot to death and her stepson was wounded dangerously as they slept in a small automobile last night a few feet from Highway 24, two miles west of Lexington, in a section known as a "bootleggers' paradise."

The victims were Mrs. Harry A. Roberts and C. J. Dutton, of Kansas City.

Authorities advanced the theory the shooting had been done by liquor runners who objected to their presence there.

Mary Astor Expects Stork in August

HOLLYWOOD, April 12.—(AP.)—A new member of the family of Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Thorpe is expected in August. Mrs. Thorpe, known to film as Mary Astor, said today she expected the birth of the child to take place in Honolulu where she will go following a cruise of the South Seas.

Miss Astor and Dr. Thorpe were married at Yuma, Ariz., last June 29. Her first husband, Kenneth Hawks, film director, was killed in an airplane crash January 2, 1930.

VOTE MACHINES HELD FAULTY

The County Commissioners today instructed the county solicitor's office to notify the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, of Baltimore, makers of the county's 1,100 voting machines, that the 300 or more machines which the company have reconstructed in accordance with orders from Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish are not satisfactory.

The law department was told to ask the Poole company to stop its present repair work at once, correct the defect in the "repaired" machines and then reconstruct the 700 or more not yet "repaired" to meet the specified requirements.

The Commissioners' action followed a letter submitted by John W. Vickerman, direction of the Election Bureau. The letter was written by H. W. Wood, a voting machine expert in the county employ, who reported that by holding down the "straight party" lever of the "repaired" machines, they could be made to jam and candidate buttons in more than one column could be turned. Wood also wrote that once the machines had jammed, services of a mechanic were required to start them again.

EXPLOSIVES FOUND IN RUINS

Cripple, Woman Carried Out Of McKeesport Apartment; Revenge Plot Suspected

An aged woman and a cripple were carried to safety and four families were forced to flee when fire destroyed a two-story brick apartment house at 908-912 White street, McKeesport, early today.

An immediate investigation began when Raymond Ritter and George Hall, two of the building's occupants, told police the fire started in an empty first floor apartment in which, they said, they found gasoline, dynamite and a fuse, according to McKeesport police.

BLAMED ON GASOLINE

Firemen said after an examination they believed the fire was caused by gasoline. Dynamite that had been found in the building was dragged to the street and the fuse extinguished before it could explode, they declared.

After the fire was extinguished two kegs of gasoline were found in the basement.

Police also were investigating reports that Dr. Noah Sunstein, owner of the building, had been threatened by depositors of a closed bank.

Hall and Ritter went into the cellar to investigate what they thought was a gas leak after Antonio DeAngelo had complained of the gas odor, police reported.

RESCUES MOTHER

They said they ran to the first floor when the found gasoline dripping through the flooring. The fire had started, they said, and Ritter rushed to carry out his 65-year-old mother from their second floor apartment.

Other occupants of the building were awakened. DeAngelo carried out Edgar Pasters, a cripple, and saw to the safety of his wife, Margarite, and his 12-year-old son.

Frank Sample carried out his wife, Nettie. Their five small children fled from the building.

Mrs. William Curran and five children rushed out of the blazing apartment on the second floor. Her husband was away looking for work, she said.

Dr. Sunstein estimated the loss on the building at $28,000 and the personal property loss to occupants at $7,000.

Closed Banks to Pay $2,213,000 in April

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—(AP.)—Depositors of closed banks in the state will receive payments aggregating $2,213,000 this month, Dr. William D. Gordon, secretary of the Department of Banking, has announced. The names of the banks have not yet been made public.

These payments will be made to 78,373 depositors in 20 banks.

Minnesota Triplets Wed in One Ceremony

CLEVELAND, Minn., April 12.—(AP.)—In a triple wedding, the 19-year-old Pufpaff triplets, Marie, Lucille and Alma, became brides today.

Friends and relatives crowded a church as Marie became the wife of Frederick McNamara; Lucille, of Ernest Vogel, and Alma, of Nick Prom. All the husbands are farmers.

Court House Bomb Threat Joke to Officials

If Allegheny County's Courthouse is to be blown up it will be amid the laughs and wisecracks of Commissioner C. M. Barr and other County officials. For he is not treating seriously a letter received by the commissioners this morning purporting to come from five college graduates, demanding $5,000 in lieu of which they would blow up the center of County officialdom with an infernal machine already planted in the building, according to the letter.

Although he thought the whole thing a joke, Commissioner Barr turned the letter over to post-office inspectors and asked police, County detectives and tipstaves to be on the alert. A letter received by the Sun-Telegraph telling of the "plot," was also turned over to federal authorities.

Ray Sprigle, director of property and supplies, said:

"These letters evidently were written by nuts."

The letters charged that "there has been going on in this city a lot of crooked work . . . while men like myself and my friends with college educations are starving."

Wednesday was given as the deadline to pay the $5,000.

Sprigle said the basement of the Courthouse has just been cleaned for the first time in 28 years and no bombs were found.

SENATE RUNS INTO 'BLIND ALLEY' IN BEAR RAID SEARCH

PROBERS SEEK UNTERMYER'S SERVICES

Committee Adjourns Until Monday; Whitney Raps Administration Statements

International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 12.—After running into a "blind alley" in its search for bear raiders, the Senate Banking and Currency Committee today suspended its stock market inquiry until next Monday in order to employ special counsel. The committee will offer the post of counsel to Samuel Untermyer, famous New York attorney. On Monday the names of short sellers will be presented.

This decision was reached after the committee [illegible] evidence [illegible] from Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange.

Whitney [illegible] there had been bear [illegible] in recent weeks during which the shrinkage in stock values amounted to $8,000,000,000.

RAPS STATEMENTS

On the witness stand again today Whitney reiterated for the second time that the New York Stock Exchange did not favor nor encourage administration statements that a new era of prosperity had dawned. Senator Brookhart (Rep.) of Iowa asked:

"Did not the stock exchange promote and encourage statements that a new economic era had arrived and prices would never go back?"

Whitney replied:

"No, sir, that is not so."

Brookhart asked:

"But was it not the policy of the stock exchange to promote the inflation?"

Whitney snapped:

"It was not."

"Well, you did nothing to stop the volume of business?"

"That is none of our business. We are a market place in which we endeavor to offer a place for trading under strict regulations."

SHORT INTEREST REDUCED

Whitney cited statistics to prove that short interests were not responsible for the collapse of stock prices. It bore out his contention that bear raiders have not been active in recent market sessions.

Whitney told of a reduction of 429,500 shares in the interests of short selling between April 1 and April 7. He said the short interests totalled 3,270,000 shares on April 1 and but 2,849,000 shares on April 8.

He produced a chart showing that "the declining market was followed by a decline in short interests" from January, 1931, down to the present. He conceded though that at certain periods the short interests grew more active while prices boomed temporarily.

25,000,000 INVESTORS

Whitney estimated the number of persons who have invested in stocks or securities totalled 25,000,000. Senator Norbeck (Rep.) of South Dakota interposed:

"In that case there has been a loss of $1,500 to every shareholder in the United States."

Senator Brookhart insisted all speculative markets should be closed in order to stamp out all gambling. Whitney said:

"Then your investors would go to England or Canada to speculate and pay his taxes there."

Senator Glass (Dem.) of Virginia asked Whitney whether he regarded speculation as gambling. Whitney said:

"No, I think it's perfectly legitimate. I regard betting on a horse race as gambling."

Glass said:

"My bishop says that isn't. My bishop says that an element of acute knowledge is involved in betting on a horse race. You can look up the records of the horse, see what stamina it has, what jockey is riding. Under such conditions, my bishop says betting on a horse race is not gambling but speculation."

CHAPTER II

Alice was so drowsy at school that afternoon. It was a warm spring day and she just couldn't keep awake. The sun was streaming in the window and the voice of the teacher became fainter and fainter. Alice wasn't quite sure what the teacher was saying. Her voice became less and less distinct. Its pitch became higher and higher. Alice's head sank forward on her desk. Teacher went on through the lesson. "Baa-Baa-Baaa," she seemed to be saying. The teacher had turned into a sheep.

The lesson went on just the same. Alice did not pay much attention to it. She rarely did. You see Alice wasn't quite as good a little girl as she should have been. Then she noticed there was a visitor. They didn't have many visitors so Alice suddenly became very interested.

She had seen the visitor some place before. It was such a strange creature that she shouldn't have forgotten it. Why, yes of course, it was the Mockservice Corporation.

The last time she had seen it the Mockservice Corporation was weeping very sorrowfully, but this time it was quite cheerful, cheerful at least for a Mockservice Corporation. It was gazing at the teacher. Earnestly it seemed to be listening to every word.

The lesson dragged on. Alice wasn't listening very carefully, but suddenly the Mockservice Corporation gave a start. It interrupted with a loud rap of its knuckles on the arm of its chair.

The door opened. In walked a dignified and important looking little rabbit. He was carefully dressed. His hair was perfectly marcelled. His tie was adjusted with the utmost precision. Spats showed below his well-pressed trousers. Below the spats were no highly polished shoes. No one can make shoes to fit a rabbit.

Alice thought it very impolite the way the Mockservice Corporation and the rabbit whispered together. She wanted to know who this important-looking rabbit was. She wanted to know why the Mockservice Corporation called it and why the rabbit came so quickly. She'd called lots of rabbits. She had even coaxed them to come to see her, but the rabbits always disappeared into the bushes with a few frantic jumps, so that not even the saucy end of tail could be found.

She was startled by a harsh cough behind her. She turned quickly and saw the Gryphon. Alice thought afterwards that this was very puzzling, but at the time nothing seemed strange—even though the Gryphon was much too old and too stupid to go to school.

"Who is that?" whispered Alice.

"Which?" asked the Gryphon.

"The rabbit," Alice replied.

"Oh, that fellow," the Gryphon answered, "is the public relations counsellor."

"And what is that?" Alice asked.

"Sh-Sh-Sh-just listen and maybe you will find out," the Gryphon replied.

At that moment the rabbit returned. Alice hadn't noticed that he had gone out, but since he was coming into the room he must have gone out. Under his arm was a nice new book. He went up to the teacher.

"I think that you will find this gives you a much better picture of the public utility situation," he said. "Mr. Mockservice Corporation himself assisted in the preparation of this text book and it will explain to the kiddies why the utilities are always right."

Alice gave a start as the Gryphon burst into a loud, unpleasant laugh. The laugh slowly changed into a giggle and she found that the mean little boy behind her had been tickling the back of her neck and that she was laughing herself.

U. S. SKIMPING TO PAY EUROPE —JOHNSON

Senator Says $250,000,000 Cuts by Government Go To International Bankers

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, today shouted to the Senate that it was making up through 10 per cent reductions in departmental appropriation bills $250,000,000 "we're paying to the international bankers and to Europe."

His statement came during debate on the $45,000,000 Interior Department bill, in which he reiterated in effect his previous attacks upon the moratorium granted by America last year to debtor nations.

His assault grew from a campaign by Senator Walsh (Dem.) of Montana to restore $27,000 cut from funds for irrigation works on the Flathead Indian reservation in Montana.

Meanwhile an early showdown on federal pay cuts was assured today as a new protest came from the American Federation of Labor characterizing such a step as one presaging a breakdown in the American standard of living.

At about the same time President Hoover called the Special House Economy Committee to meet with him again tomorrow to discuss further the general economy program by which it is hoped the government will save more than $200,000,000 in the next fiscal year.

The House Rules Committee agreed for the economy group to bring its wage cut proposal to the floor during consideration of the legislative supply bill which carries congressional salaries.

The Federation of Labor protest was made in a formal statement by William Green, its president, saying a federal wage slash would be followed by one by industry.

NORFOLK AIDES AGAIN CONFER WITH LINDY

Grand Jury Starts Study of Mystery; N.Y. Police Wait Order to Hunt Swindlers

Trenchard read that part of the statutes referring to kidnaping.

The grand jurors then retired and Attorney General William H. Stevens joined them after announcing that he was going to give them all the information now in the hands of the authorities concerning the kidnaping of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's baby on March 1.

N. Y. Police Await Lindy Word to Hunt Swindlers

NEW YORK, April 12.—(INS.)—Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney and his 18,000 patrolmen and detectives are grimly waiting for the word that will start them on the search for the men to whom Prof. John Condon, acting for Col. Lindbergh, gave $50,000 for the return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby. Until that word comes the police and District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin are adopting a "hands off" policy.

If either Lindbergh or Condon were to sign a complaint against the men who have apparently double-crossed the colonel, McLaughlin, Mulrooney and every law enforcement agency in New York City would be thrown into feverish activity.

McLaughlin indicated that both Lindbergh and Condon refused to believe that they have been duped. They feel that some unforseen hitch has developed in the return of the baby and as soon as the difficulty is obliterated the child will be brought back to the home from which it was taken just 42 days ago.

CONDON OPTIMISTIC

The indication that a hoax has been perpetrated upon Condon and Lindbergh is strong, but "Jafsie," the professor intermediary, reiterated today the optimism which he voiced yesterday, adding that "an important break is near."

He refused to comment beyond this but his confidence gave rise to a report which gained credence in the light of a conference held at the Seventy-second street apartment of the Morrow family late yesterday and attended by Col. Schwaarzkopf, Condon, members of the Morrow family and, it was believed, Col. Lindbergh himself.

Condon refused to say whether further conferences were planned for today and he maintained his silence when he left his Bronx home this morning. Since he entered the case he has been attended by a former boxer, Al Reich, who, 10 years ago, was considered one of the cleverest big men in the ring. Reich is acting as his chauffeur and bodyguard.

He accompanied Condon when the latter made his famous journey to Woodlawn Cemetery on the night of April 2 to hand over the money.

Woman Sought After Dealer Spots Lindy Bill

HOPEWELL, N. J., April 12.—(AP.)—A chic woman in a green town car became a quarry in the great Lindbergh kidnaping hunt today.

On the highways of many states, police sought her after a bakery proprietress in Greenwich, Conn., spotted a $20 bill she proferred in payment for a strawberry pie as part of the $50,000 ransom mulcted from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The hunt was intensified when detectives recalled that a green sedan was seen near the Lindbergh home on Sourland Mountain on March 1, the night of the kidnaping of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

NEW THEORY OF SWINDLE

This development, and a theory that the person who took Col. Lindbergh's $50,000 without returning the stolen child was an estranged member of the kidnap gang who no longer has the baby in his possession, stirred the mystery to a new boiling point.

According to the story told police headquarters in New York, the $50,000 was turned over by Dr. Condon after a series of meetings with a mysterious emissary, one of them near a cemetery. The New York Daily News says that when the baby was not returned, Col. Lindbergh and aides returned to the cemetery scene in the Bronx, and, using surgical plaster, took casts of the emissary's footprints to aid in the hunt.

The Daily News says that the tokens given Col. Lindbergh during the negotiations as proof that the baby really was in the possession of the persons demanding $50,000 were two safety pins such as had been used to pin the baby's blankets to its crib.

3 IN NEBRASKA VOTE TEST

LINCOLN, Neb., April 12.—(AP.)—This was Nebraska's primary election day, and the popularity of three prominent Democratic presidential aspirants was being tested. With the weather fair, party leaders predicted a voluminous vote.

Attention was focused on the Democratic preference polling because there was no contest among the Republicans. President Hoover did not enter, and only the name of former Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland appeared on the ballots.

But aligned in the bid for Democratic favor for the first time on any one primary ticket were Speaker John N. Garner of Texas, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, of Oklahoma.

Of 11 candidates for the six Democratic delegates-at-large, six have expressed preference for Gov. Roosevelt. Ten more delegates will be seated by districts.

Interest in the primary was fanned by the gubernatorial races. On the Democratic ticket, Gov. Charles W. Bryan, brother of the late William Jennings Bryan, was opposed by William Ritchie, Jr., Omaha attorney and cousin of Gov. Ritchie of Maryland.

Men 'Swap' Wives In Snarl Caused By Cupid

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 12.—(AP.)—When Malcolm E. Parrott, a businessman, fell in love with Mrs. G. Minard Smith, it was quite all right with Mrs. Smith's husband. He was in love with Parrott's wife anyhow.

So last week Mrs. Parrott and Mrs. Smith, next door neighbors, obtained Mexican divorces from their husbands. And last night at Sharon, Conn., they traded husbands. Mrs. Smith became Mrs. Parrott and Mrs. Parrott became Mrs. Smith. And to show there were no ill feelings, each couple attended the other. Afterward they all left for a honeymoon together.

Smith, sales manager for a large lumber company, obtained custody of his son.

HOOVER FEELS TRADE PULSE

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—President Hoover will continue in close touch with business leaders throughout the country in an effort to better economic conditions, but he has no intention of making any dramatic move for a White House conference with groups of leaders at this time.

Various questions have been directed at the chief executive as to whether he intended to hold a series of economic conferences in th Capital.

Mr. Hoover feels that economic conferences in one form or another are being held almost constantly between various government departments and business interests.

He intends for such conferences to continue and will receive reports upon them. He also will confer with individual leaders directly and by telephone.

SEEK NEW BEER VOTE IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—A petition to force a vote in the House on the O'Connor-Hull bill to legalize 2.75 per cent beer was filed in the House today by Representative O'Connor (Dem.) of New York.

It requires 145 signers to discharge the Ways and Means Committee and to force a House vote on whether it will consider the bill.

O'Connor told the House he expected the 145 signatures in time to bring the matter to a vote April 25 or May 9. He said:

"The move is supported by both anti-dry blocs in the House."

Fingerprint Traps Man in Girl Murder

WHITING, Ind., April 12.—(INS.)—A tell-tale fingerprint was credited today with having led to the arrest of Glenn Shustrom on charges of having attacked and murdered 12-year-old Susan Alberta Knight.

Shustrom confessed, according to police, when he was confronted with the identification of his fingerprint which was discovered on the girl's bed. He was placed in jail to await filing of murder charges.

Donates to Pinchot, Loses Capitol Job

HARRISBURG, April 12.—(INS.)—With a wave of dismissals sweeping the capitol prior to the coming primary and a flat demand being made in some departments for a 2 per cent political assessment, state workers were faced today with the possibility of losing their jobs after contributing to the Pinchot campaign fund.

The first such actual case reported today to newspapermen was that of Charles Yohe, Harrisburg, a capitol guide. Three days ago he sent a check for $26.40 to the Independent Republican Campaign Committee in Philadelphia. Last night he was notified by letter that, "effective immediately your services are no longer required."

Ex-Syria President Escapes Assassin

BEIRUT, Syria, April 12.—(AP.)—Soubhi Barakat, former president of Syria, escaped injury today, but two of his companions were wounded in an attempt on his life by an assassin with a knife and pistol. The assassin was shot and seriously wounded.

Noted Ear Doctor Killed in Vienna

VIENNA, April 12.—(AP.)—Prof. Gustav Alexander, widely known ear specialist, who has lectured in the United States, was killed today in the street by a tailor's apprentice, who shot him three times. The assailant was captured, but police were unable to learn his motive.

500,000 WOMEN LISTED ANTI-DRY

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—Mrs. Charles H. Sabin today numbered the membership of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform at "over half a million voting women."

The chairman of the repeal-advocating group opened its third annual conference with a challenge to politicians and to women's dry organizations. She linked the Lindbergh kidnaping with bootleg activities, saying that "the answer to the selection of acknowledged criminals as aids in the baby-hunt lies in a Wickersham commissioner's statement that enormous revenues are enabling the criminal element to organize."

Calling attention to national finances, the chairman asserted:

"It is a sheer impertinence to ask the country to sidetrack prohibition for national budget balancing."

Toothpicks on Door Bring Divorce Suit

ST. PAUL, April 12.—(AP.)—Toothpicks guarded the front door when her husband went to work, Mrs. Carl W. Peters charged in a divorce action filed yesterday.

She said Peters placed them on top of the door. If they were disturbed during his absence he knew someone had been there and asked questions.

Seance Scores Politics, Two Held for Court

A seance in which politics was discussed with an inhabitant of the spirit world was described in Central Police Court today at a hearing of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Martz, who conduct spiritualist services at 106 East Ohio street. The two were held for court charged with fortune telling.

Mrs. Sarah McClanahan testified she and Mrs. Ida Rickenbrode, both policewomen, were present when Mrs. Martz summoned a spirit she called "Pat" and asked him:

"Tell us about the politics where you are."

In a weak voice from somewhere in the darkness "Pat" replied:

"The politics here is clean, not like the dirty politics in Pittsburgh."

Mrs. Nellie McDonald, policewoman, and City Detective Sigmund Gorsky testified, they had paid to have their fortunes told by Martz and his wife. Gorsky said he was told he was going to get a "big political job." The defendants did not testify.

10,000 CHOKING TO DEATH FROM GAS, DUST OF VOLCANOES

RESCUERS FAIL TO REACH TOWN

Lava, Fumes From Eight Eruptions Peril Wide Argentine, Chile Areas

By PERCY FORSTER
International News Service

BUENOS AIRES, April 12—Ten thousand inhabitants of the Argentina Andean town of Malargue, in the province of Mendoza, are reported slowly choking to death in the suffocating atmosphere from eight volcanos which continue in eruption.

Desperate but thus far unavailing efforts are being made to rescue them according to dispatches from San Rafael in the same province this afternoon.

RESCUERS BALKED

A second caravan of automobiles carrying tents and medical supplies of all kinds accompanied by physicians returned to the region of San Rafael near midday after encountering thick clouds of dust and ashes and heavy sulphurous fumes which rendered further progress not only perilous but actually impassible.

Airplanes will endeavor to reach the stricken town this afternoon but it is extremely doubtful that the attempt will succeed.

New expeditions are being organized to head for Malargue and an attempt will be made to reach the city from the south.

Molten lava crept into the city of San Rafael, to the north of Malargue, and broke through the floor of the Hotel El Commercio. In a few minutes the entire structure was destroyed by flames.

The continued fall of volcanic dust over the city of Buenos Aires and the entire Argentine republic gave everything a wintry appearance today.

BUSINESS PARALYZED

Only those compelled to do so are walking on the streets. Sore eyes and coughing are the order of the day and retailers report business completely paralyzed.

A two-hour walk through the streets of Buenos Aires this morning revealed only four women in the entire shopping district.

Leading physicians fear continuance of the dust fall will lead to an epidemic of trachoma, traqueritis and broncho-pneumonia.

On the other hand the dust appears to have driven off a plague of mosquitoes which have been molesting the capital for many weeks.

SANTIAGO DARK

SANTIAGO, April 12—(INS)—Santiago was in semi-darkness at midday today, due to the continued heavy fall of ashes from the Andean volcanoes.

Several research aviators, including Capt. Ralph Wooten, United States military attache, who flew over the disturbed district yesterday, were forced back by the sulphur fumes and thick smoke.

'Taking' Third

MRS. CHARLOTTE I. NIXON

NIXON 'BEAUTY' CLAIMS ESTATE

PHILADELPHIA, April 12—(AP)—The winner of the 1923 Atlantic City beauty pageant—Mrs. Charlotte Isabella Nixon—prefers a one-third share of the estate of her husband, Frederick G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, whom she shot to death last March, in lieu of the one-third income from the residue provided for her in the former theater owner's will.

This preference was disclosed when the "Miss St. Louis of 1923" elected to "take against" the will in a petition filed yesterday in Orphans' Court. This means she will take the share of the $1,000,000 estate she would be entitled to under the intestate laws of Pennsylvania had her husband died without making a will.

Under the intestate act of July, 1917, Mrs. Nixon, who had her name changed after she was acquitted of murder, is entitled to an exemption of $500 and one-third of the entire estate outright.

Kline Suspect Wins Rule on Venue Plea

PHILADELPHIA, April 12—(AP)—The State Supreme Court today allowed a rule to show cause why Robert A. Cunningham, of Turtle Creek, should not be granted a change of venue for his trial on charges of embracery.

Cunningham is scheduled for trial May 2 on charges of attempting to influence jurors called at the March term of Butler County Court for the trial of Mayor Charles H. Kline, of Pittsburgh, and his former supplies director, Bertram L. Succop. The rule is returnable April 25.

BAN ON HITLER URGED UPON HINDENBURG

Fear of Civil War Looms as Defense Minster Demands Storm Troops Be Disbanded

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service

BERLIN, April 12.—An emergency decree calling for immediate proscription of Adolf Hitler's "storm troops" was laid before President Von Hindenburg today by Minister of Defense Gen. Wilhelm Groener, it was learned by International News Service from a high authority.

Confronted by the most momentous crisis in his career, President Von Hindenburg was reported wavering and seeking to compromise, fearing that suppression of the brown-shirt "storm troops" would result in civil war.

The emergency decree, drafted by Gen. Groener under pressure from influential Socialists in Prussia and Bavaria, threatens Hitler, Capt. Roehm and other Fascist leaders with 10 years' imprisonment if they fail to dissolve the "storm troops" within five days after the proclamation is signed by the President.

The decree, it was learned, charges that Hitler's "private army" is incompatible with the safety of the republic and hampers Germany's foreign relations by giving France grounds to claim that eGrmany has failed to disarm.

WIDOW TO TRY OCEAN FLIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—(AP)—A proposed trans-Atlantic airplane flight she hopes to make with three men this summer was disclosed by Mrs. Clare Adams, of Stroudsburg, Pa., speaker at a meeting of the Philadelphia Woman's Club yesterday.

Mrs. Adams

Mrs. Adams, who has ridden on the Graf Zeppelin, the DO-X and other types of ships with well-known fliers, declined to divulge details of the contemplated flight. She said the men planned to have her act as interpreter in whatever European country they might land.

She is the widow of George L. Adams, wealthy manufacturer of Elkins Park, who died in 1929.

New Warrant Out For Mary Nolan

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—(AP)—Life is getting to be just a series of court sessions for Mary Nolan, screen actress, who, while on the musical stage, was known as Imogene Wilson.

A warrant for her and her husband's arrest, charging failure to respond to a summons to be examined concerning their assets, was in the hands of a deputy sheriff today. The case involves judgments against Miss Nolan and her husband, Wallace T. Macreary, for $783 worth of dresses and for furniture valued at $1,700.

Reds at Children's Story Hour Arrested

BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 12.—(AP.)—Police raided a children's story hour gathering today, rounding up an audience of youngsters from 10 to 12 years old who were listening to fairy tales and looking at pictures which the authorities said emanated from Moscow.

Six Communists in charge of the program were arrested on a charge of disseminating treasonable propaganda. The children were sent home.

GUNPLAY MARKS ELECTION ROW IN CHICAGO

Bystander Shot as Thugs Fire From Auto After Slugging Worker at Poll

CHICAGO, April 12.—(AP.)—A revolver battle between a political worker and gunmen cruising in an automobile past a South Side polling place climaxed a morning of minor election disturbances.

Henry Hess, 65, a Republican precint worker, was caught in the crossfire and taken to a hospital where he was immediately operated upon for a possible fatal wound.

Jack Kelly, a Democratic precinct captain, was taken into police custody, although he asserted he was forced in self-defense to fire upon the automobile. The gunmen first alighted and slugged Kelly, witnesses said, then got into their sedan again and fired as they drove away.

Police took 15 witnesses to the Woodlawn station.

Hess said he did not know whose bullet hit him, but that he was not the target.

The battle took place in the home ward of Michael Igoe, one of the Democratic candidates for the nomination for Governor.

LEITER, FAMED FINANCIER, DIES

CHICAGO, April 12.—(AP.)—The colorful Joseph Leiter is dead and the spheres of sports, business and finance have lost a leader.

Leiter, multi-millionaire turfman and capitalist, son of Levi Leiter, the merchant prince and partner of the first Marshall Field, died yesterday at the age of 63. Complications that set in with pneumonia after he was pronounced on the way to recovery from serious heart trouble caused his death.

Of massive figure and fierce countenance, Leiter was a familiar figure at nearly every race track of the nation and equally well-known in the halls of business and finance.

His first spectacular venture in business came in 1898 and made him a national figure. He tried to corner the wheat market and failed. That failure cost his father $12,000,000.

Despite the fiasco, the elder Leiter at death had sufficient faith in the son's business acumen to make him custodian of his vast $30,000,00 estate. His income at death was estimated at $1,000,000 a year.

Seek Missing Son Of du Pont Employe

WILMINGTON, Del., April 12.—(AP.)—Police of three states today were looking for 16-year-old Charles Chickering, whose disappearance was well publicized because of a first erroneous report that he was the son of the president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

Horace Chickering, the youth's father, is a technical investigator in the development department of the powder company. He reported his son's disappearance to authorities last night when he failed to return home from a hunting trip in his automobile.

'Ruined by Alimony Racket,' Suicide's Note Explains

CHICAGO, April 12.—(AP.)—If Garfield J. Schieferstein, 50, had waited a little while, life for him might have gone along smoothly.

April 15 was the date set by Judge Harry B. Miller for a hearing on his application for a reduction in alimony, a matter he had been attending to for 13 years, during which he paid out $32,500 for the support of his wife, Mildred, and their daughter, Dorothy.

But Schieferstein did not wait. Instead he went into a private garage last night, started the engine of his automobile and died from monoxide fumes. In a farewell note he said:

"I leave this world because I have been ruined by my wife and laws and courts that make the racket of alimony possible. I am in a position where I cannot meet my obligations even though I live like a hermit in one of my vacant flats, with but a bed and a chair as my only furniture.

"Two years ago she started to take my property away when I ran a few weeks behind. This she can do easily as the alimony is a lien on my property.

"I had the grief and she had the gravy. Goodbye world, you are too much for me."

SANDINO URGES U.S. TO AVERT CARNAGE

Asks Parents of Marines To Demand Recall as Election Warfare Looms

MEXICO CITY, April 12.—(AP.)—An appeal to the American parents of marines serving in Nicaragua to demand withdrawal of their sons before the "ghastly and useless carnage" of the approaching November elections, has been made by Gen. Augustino Sandino, Nicaraguan insurgent leader.

The appeal is carried in an open letter to President Hoover and the American people.

The letter was released here today by Dr. Pedro Jose Zepeda, Gen. Sandino's foreign representative, as final plans for the observance of Pan-American Day Thursday were completed. Sandino wrote:

"Many of your sons will not be aboard the American battleships leaving Nicaragua in November when the United States withdraws its fighting forces.

"These sons of American parents will not be going home. They will be in their coffins, or, worse still, their bodies will rot in Nicaraguan jungle.

"Patriotic Nicaraguans still recognize no government imposed by American Marines. The winners will not be recognized, the government will be overthrown and chaos will result."

Gen. Sandino stated he would disband his troops if the Marines would withdraw now.

MASSIE TO TAKE BLAME FOR SLAYING

day as the web of circumstantial evidence is woven closer about the four Americans. The state's case was expected to be concluded by the end of the week.

Six witnesses were on the stand yesterday to establish the abduction of Kahahawai and the finding of his body in a sedan driven by Mrs. Fortescue.

Today's testimony will strongly implicate all four of the Americans in the kidnaping and killing of Kahahawai, Kelley states.

SILENT EVIDENCE

Fully as important as the living witnesses offered by the state has been the silent evidence. This so far has consisted in the clothing worn by Kahahawai at the time of his death, including a simple blue shirt with a bullet hole near where the heart would be.

It was expected that Kelley would soon draw from his boxes of evidence the blood-stained sheet with which the body of Kahahawai was wrapped. The revolver that brought his death, and the rope with which the sheet was tied around the body.

Tensely the little court room has watched the piling up of evidence against the four accused "honor slayers." White women from the highest social strata of Honolulu, high naval officers and their wives and copper hued Orientals have sat silent as the state pressed its case.

The presence in court of the women of her own aristocratic social level has been a great consolation to Mrs. Fortesque. She has admitted to friends.

SLEUTH GRILLED

The conjecture that the state has formed as to the probable outline of the defense plans was based largely on the cross-examination of John Cluney, a detective.

Under deft questioning, Cluney said that Lieut. Massie wore a strained look at the time Kahahawai's body was found and the young naval officer was placed under arrest.

Darrow, master strategist, when asked if Lieut. Massie would shoulder the blame for the death of the native, refused to comment on what he termed the "guess work" of the prosecution.

That his defense will consist in a brilliant "coup" seemed more than likely, however. As if forecasting a surprise move on his part, Darrow told the court at the termination of Prosecutor Kelley's brilliant opening speech to the polyglot jury that he would reserve his statement.

Yesterday's star witness for the state was Edward Ulii, blood kin of Kahahawai. Ulii told of seeing the abduction of the native from the steps of the "Hall of the Chiefs" where the four Americans are now standing trial.

NAMES MRS. FORTESCUE

Dramatically he pointed to Mrs. Fortescue as the woman who led the abductors and literally "put the finger" on Kahahawai.

Today's star witness, according to Kelley, will be Yoshie Adachi, Japanese maid at the home of Mrs. Fortescue.

The Japanese girl, the prosecution contends, was directed the night before the abduction and murder not to report for work the next day. This proved premeditation, in the eyes of the state.

Other state witnesses will be Hercy Bond, a detective; Policeman Seymour, Dr. Robert B. Faus, city and county physicians; Tris Ohmura, employe of a garage from which the asserted murder car was rented; Vasco Rosa, who saw the sedan parked in the Fortescue driveway the morning of the murder, and Mrs. Anna Tarleton and Mrs. Helen B. Stickney, neighbors of Mrs. Fortescue.

Today's witnesses were counted on to fill in the gaps in the story of Kahahawai's death. The single weak link in the chain of evidence is the fact that there is no known eye-witness to the shooting.

FIX TIME OF SHOOTING

Among the other things that Kelley hopes to establish is the approximate hour of the shooting through the testimony of Mrs. Tarleton and Mrs. Stickney. They both have stated they believed they heard a shot in the Fortescue home, where Kahahawai was presumably taken after his kidnaping, about 9 o'clock on the morning of January 8.

Dr. Faus was to testify concerning the wound that caused Kahahawai's death. Kelley has told the jury that the native was sitting on the bed in Mrs. Fortescue's bedroom when the shot was fired.

The bullet, he said, took a downward course after severing the pulmonary artery and causing swift internal hemorrhages.

SCHWAB GLUM ON OUTLOOK

NEWARK, N. J., April 12.—(AP.)—Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, showed none of the unbounded optimism for which he is noted in discussing steel conditions and general business at the annual meeting of Bethlehem stockholders today.

He said that never in his 17 years in the Bethlehem Corporation has the outlook been as depressing or as unpromising as this year. But he added:

"Bad as things are, bad as things look and blue as everybody is at present, I am still optimistic on the outlook of the country and your company."

Mrs. Fortescue Serenely Faces Accusers

HONOLULU, T. H., April 12.—(INS)—Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, aristocratic American society matron on trial with three compatriots for the "honor slaying" of the native accused of attacking her daughter, has faced three accusers with all the courage of aroused motherhood.

Named by Prosecutor John C. Kelley as the virtual leader of the abduction of Joseph Kahahawai, the suspected native, she remained calm and aloof.

Pointed out by Edward Ulii, blood kin of Kahahawai, as the woman who literally put Kahahawai "on the spot," she betrayed no sign whatever of emotion.

And when George Harbottle, the detective who arrested her with two of the three male defendants, made his identification, she displayed a serenity that astounded the court.

Harbottle left the witness stand to point out Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and E. J. Lord, naval enlisted man, to the polyglot jury.

First he placed his hand on the shoulder of Lieut. Massie and then on Lord, saying:

"These are the men."

But when he came to where Mrs. Fortescue was sitting she arose calmly and stared full in his face.

He did not touch her, but returned instead to the witness box after mumbling his identification.

"I come here to seek renomination to Congress feeling I have the right to defend myself when someone wants to take advantage of me. I was friendly to Coyne up to three years ago and I believe anyone can get along with him if they will [illegible] him.

"But I have always been more or less independent. I was for Mansfield for County Commissioner and later for McGovern for County Commissioner. I have no quarrel with the Republican organization excepts that I object to the party being dominated by Coyne."

County [illegible] M. Barr [illegible] Independents [illegible] Sullivan [illegible] was reported [illegible] Barr [illegible] hour [illegible] Verona [illegible] Sullivan and [illegible] sidered [illegible]

BARR SCORES COYNE

Barr [illegible] stories [illegible] tended attacks [illegible] Coyne's personal and political [illegible] He said:

"I do not know anything about Coyne's personal life and I have no business discussing it. I am interested in sending to Harrisburg, men who will help in reducing taxes so that the people will have more money to devote for the advancement of their children. Coyne wouldn't support that for he is interested in getting more jobs.

"I am not going anywhere you have nothing to give me that I want. I am a County Commissioner by accident. They got down on their knees and asked me to run.

"I see by the paper that Paddy McKnight said he was not going to support M. J. Muldowney for Congress. I just got a note from the chairman saying that Congressman P. J. Sullivan has indorsed the Independents and that the Independents have indorsed Sullivan."

Barr detailed what had been uncovered about the voting machines and said:

"The election of Barr, Mansfield and McGovern last November will be useless unless you follow it by whipping Coyne, for he and his crowd will have another fight soon for Mayor and Council."

SPEAKS FOR BUTLER

Attorney Edward O. Spotts Jr. spoke in favor of Gen. Smedley D. Butler for United States Senator and said that Senator James J. Davis had [illegible] qualifications for the office except that he had [illegible] the Moose Lodge had [illegible] from the dues of members who had used the [illegible] for political purposes since 19[illegible]

Sp[illegible] Coyne's championing the cause of Davis and de[illegible]

"Coyne doesn't give a whoop about Davis. He has told that to friends of his and I believe it. What Coyne wants is to elect Frank L. Baldwin Auditor General, in which office Coyne has 100 jobs and wants to keep them."

H. P. Eb[illegible] candidate for the Legislature from the Third District continued the attack on Coyne.

WUERTHELE SPEAKS

E. L. Wuerthele, candidate for State Senator against Coyne said:

"I believe the Republican party should be thrown into the Atlantic and the Democratic party into the Pacific. During the war the Democrats stole everything they could see and when the Republicans got in they took what was left."

Former Morals Court Magistrate A. D. Brandon placed the blame for existing criminal conditions on the domination of police by ward chairmen and higher up politicians. He said the remedy lay in the independent voters electing their representatives to office.

Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Smith declared the Philadelphia organization is trying to control Allegheny County through an unholy alliance with the thrice defeated and discredited James J. Coyne. Smith said:

"Aware of the political resentment in the western end of the state against any forced leadership of Coyne, the Philadelphia organization cunningly appointed as its campaign manager one who had recently aspired to the bench.

"They failed to consider the overweening ambition and desire for the spotlight of Mr. Coyne who immediately supplanted the appointed chairman and had himself designated as 'generalissimo' of all the forces west of the Alleghenies."

REGULARS LIST LEGISLATURE SLATE HERE

Incumbents Supported for Re-nomination in Most Cases; 3 Districts Omitted

Candidates for the Legislature for the 13 Allegheny County districts, excepting the Fourth, Sixth and Tenth, have been slated by the local Regular Republican organization.

Six members of the last session did not file nomination papers. They are George H. Soffel, Sixth District; Samuel J. Grenet, Eighth; John Rhodes, Ninth; Carl C. Ba[illegible], Tenth, also Matt A. Dunn and Judge M. A. Musmanno, Twelfth.

The Regulars have selected as Rhodes' successor James K. Ruby of McKeesport, sponsored by William H. Coleman, Allegheny County campaign manager for the Regulars. The Independents have omitted slating a candidate for that district in deference to County Commissioner W. D. Mansfield, who is said to favor the nomination of Clarence C. Johnson of McKeesport.

"REGULAR" G. O. P. SLATE

First District—Joseph R. Lynch of 3569 Webster avenue and Walter E. Tucker of 713 Webster terrace, incumbents.

Second District—P. J. Maloney of 286 Fisk street and George C. Me[illegible] of 3514 Penn avenue, incumbents.

Third District—Charles T. Dwyer of 418 Mansion street, incumbent.

Fifth District—Max J. Spann, of 5731 Hobart street, incumbent.

Seventh District—James P. Rooney of 304 West Robinson street and James Wettach of 1545 Spring Garden avenue, incumbents.

Eighth District—Edward M. Hough of 2651 Perrysville avenue, to succeed Grenet and William F. Stadtlander of 3508 Perrysville avenue, incumbent.

STEEDLE SELECTED

Eleventh District—Frank E. Hoffman, of Mifflin Township, and Frank M. Reed, of Clairton, incumbents.

Twelfth District—Dr. Joseph G. Steedle of McKees Rocks, was the only incumbent selected. Dunn and Judge Musmanno who did not file were succeeded by John M. O'Rourke of Bethel Township, and Robert K. Boyer of Mt. Lebanon, while Burgess Fred C. Gangloff of Coraopolis, a member last session, failed to get an indorsement and was replaced by James J. Westwood of McKees Rocks.

Thirteenth District—Thomas W. Neely of Sewickley, incumbent, and W. L. Brown of Tarentum. The latter succeeded Louis W. Hagmaier, member last session, who failed to get an indorsement.

FIVE APPOINTED POLL OFFICERS

To fill election board vacancies at the coming primary, Judge Elder W. Marshall, in Quarter Sessions Court, made the following appointments:

Judge, First District, Springdale—William B. White, vice Anna V. Whitesides, resigned.

Judge, Ninth District, Twenty-first Ward—E. L. Page, vice John A. Naderhoff, resigned.

Judge, Sixth District, Sixth Ward—James Keenan, vice John M. Conway, resigned.

Majority inspector, Twentieth District, Fourteenth Ward—Morris Cohen, vice H. M. Studt, disqualified being a county employe.

Minority inspector, Eighth District, Sixth Ward—Adolph M. Lutz, vice George Grogan, resigned.

Medical Association Gives Coyne Support

The Allegheny County Medical Association has printed in its official bulletin a resolution asking its members to support the candidacy of State Senator James J. Coyne to succeed himself. The bulletin said:

"Senator Coyne has always supported legislation conforming with our high standards and has stood with us in our opposition to legislation that was thought to be inimical to the health of the citizens of Pennsylvania through the lowering of basic educational and licensing requirements to practice the healing art."

Indorsement of Butler Denied by Judge Parker

By MARK SHIELDS

Superior Court Judge William M. Parker yesterday denied that he had indorsed Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler for nomination as Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate.

Parker had been quoted as saying at a meeting in Franklin last Thursday, standing on a platform with Butler and Gov. Pinchot:

"I bespeak the candidacy of Gen. Butler."

The result was a considerable stir in organization circles here and throughout the state, Parker having been indorsed by the Philadelphia organization and the Republican state committee as a member of the slate which has Senator James J. Davis as its leading candidate.

There were [illegible] that reprisal might be [illegible] the Venango jurist, and [illegible] the organization elsewhere [illegible] as in Allegheny County, might be won to a unified support of Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, who had been refused a slate place by the state and eastern leaders.

Parker and Stadtfeld are on the Pinchot B[illegible] ticket.

Following a conference with County Commissioner C. M. Barr, Allegheny County Independent leader in the campaign, Judge Parker said:

"I was clearly misquoted in a Pittsburgh newspaper. The quotation did not appear in the Sun-Telegraph. I have adopted the only position consistent with my position on the bench, not publicly advocating the election of any candidate. I am following in this regard the code of the American Bar Association as a course of conduct for a sitting judge seeking election.

"What I did say was that there had been much criticism of men in public office from the President down, and I added: 'I bespeak a fair hearing for General Butler.'

"It should have been clear to any one present that I was indorsing no candidate, and I shall not do so."

Kroll for Reduction Of Utility Charges

Edward C. Kroll of the Sixteenth Ward, a World War veteran who has been a county assessor 16 years, has announced the platform on which he is running for the Legislature from the Sixth District.

He stated he favors a reduction of public utility rates and the granting of a state soldiers bonus. He is opposed to an increase in the gasoline tax and favors a reduction of automobile drivers' license fees from $2 to $1.

2 Merge Campaigns For Assembly Seats

Charles T. Coll and William G. Foley, Republican legislative candidates for the Legislature from the Eighth District, have combined forces and opened headquarters at 1905 Chateau street, North Side. They have scheduled four meetings, Wednesday night at Perry High School; April 18, Manchester School; April 19, Horace Mann School, and April 25, Conroy School. Each meeting will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Urges Law to Curb Property Seizures

Fifty per cent tax on the profits of sheriffs' sales would be imposed in legislation urged by Herman C. A. Hofacker, Legislature candidate in the Twelfth District. This money would be utilized by Hofacker for relief of the poor.

Hofacker charges that property is being seized on mortgages at unfair prices. Under his plan an appraisal would be made of actual value at the time of sale, with the difference between this sum and the price paid taxed 50 per cent.

Office Seeker Raps Dodging of Issues

John W. Williams, Republican candidate for the Legislature from the Fourth District, today announced his platform, saying that any candidate who attempts to conceal his position or refuses to work and vote for the best interests of his district should withdraw.

Williams favors local option on blue laws, legislation prohibiting increase in utility rates without hearing, state soldiers' bonus, unemployment relief, mothers' and old age pensions, adequate educational facilities for all children.

Engineers Indorse Tucker Candidacy

Walter E. Tucker, 713 Webster avenue, candidate for nomination for the General Assembly, was notified yesterday, he reported, that his candidacy has been approved by the state legislative board of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. In addition to the board's indorsement, Mr. Tucker was promised it would make every effort to aid in his election, it was said.

UTILITY SCORED BY CANDIDATE

Repeal of laws permitting jailing for debt or the selling of chattels of property owners delinquent in taxes is advocated by Lulu Mosby, legislative candidate in the Fourth District. She said:

"The present law on the subject is vicious, and should be repealed immediately.

"I favor lower public utility rates. The recent statement of the Duquesne Light Company, showing the highest profits in its history and the meager reduction of rates offered under pressure emphasizes the necessity of regulating utilities."

Other planks in her platform: Abolition of the Public Service Commission and the delinquent tax office; repeal of the Snyder act, state tax on chain stores, state unemployment aid and abolition of blue laws.

Independents Set Meetings for Tonight

Independent Republican mass meetings for candidates on the state-wide ticket and aspirants for the General Assembly will be held tonight in four sections of the city and county. Heads of the ticket are Gen. Smedley D. Butler, candidate for United States Senator; Ralph F. Flinn, for Auditor General, and Justice Joseph Stadtfeld, of the Superior Court, candidate for a full term.

The meetings will be held at the Pleasant Valley fire station, O'Hara Township, 8 p. m.; German Citizens' Hall, 3140 Brighton road, 8 p. m.; Osceola School, Osceola and Cypress streets, 8 p. m., and Buckingham Hall, William Penn Highway, 8:30 p. m.

Would Tax Wealthy To Aid Unemployed

High taxes on large incomes are urged by Alfred L. Herman, Legislature candidate in the Eighth District, as a means of raising revenue to aid jobless. Not advocating a dole, Herman declares that direct relief is imperative in advance of suggested work programs. Other planks in his platform:

Abolition of the Public Service Commission and investigation of utility rates; old age pension; permanent registration; retain the appointive school board; referendum on the Eighteenth Amendment.

Brotherhood Backs Moran for Congress

Ormsby Lodge No. 465, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, has indorsed the candidacy of Thomas C. Moran, seeking the Republican nomination for Congress from the Thirty-third Congressional District. Moran was notified of the indorsement in a letter from J. G. Hopkins, recording secretary of the labor organization.

Spann Favors State Income Tax Levy

Representative Max J. Spann, seeking another term from the Fifth Legislative District, addressed the Keystone Civic Club of Homewood last night in Baptist Temple, Frankstown avenue, suggesting new forms of revenue to offset the expected falling off in the regular channels. He said:

"To insure adequate appropriations to the most important function of government, the Department of Public Instruction, I would suggest if present revenues are not adequate to meet the demands, the enactment of an income tax law in this state, similar to the federal income tax law, exempting modest incomes from payment."

Save--but be Safe!

IT'S all very well to save all you can. But there's a danger point in saving, too! You pass that danger point when you buy gasolines of inferior quality—and put them in the tank of the car that cost you hard-earned money.

Save sensibly when buying regular gasoline. Buy Orange American—a gas of uniformly high quality—selling at regular gas price. You'll get more mileage than you will from any other regular gasoline—and you'll get fewer repair bills.

ECONOMY SEEN BY CREDIT MAN

Alexander N. Fraser, speaking to members of the Retail Credit Men's Association in the downtown Y. M. C. A. last night, expressed hope that satisfactory methods can be worked out to bring about reductions in costs of store service to customers.

He spoke on "Credit Methods and Collections" in conjunction with a credit forms exhibit dealing with methods employed in leading cities by firms in conducting business of credit departments.

The exhibit was arranged by W. B. McConnell, chairman of the credit methods committee, and J. A. Brown, T. I. Ford, J. R. Truesdale and Leon Michaels, members. Col. Franklin Blackstone introduced the speaker, and President B. J. Lindberg presided. With David H. Goldman, H. E. Wilson, Mr. Brown, A. C. Dunn and Mr. Truesdale they planned the gathering.

Managers of credit bureaus within a radius of 75 miles of Pittsburgh attended.

FILING CLAIMS FOR PREMIUMS

Civil action was to be filed today against 10 Pittsburgh insurance agents by George F. McCann, deputy of the liquidation division of the state insurance department, to collect unpaid premiums in the Pennsylvania Surety Corporation, declared insolvent and ordered dissolved by the Dauphin County courts in January, 1931. Names of the agents were withheld, Deputy McCann indicating his desire to settle the unadjusted claims without resorting to criminal action possible under the state insurance laws.

Premiums long past due, according to Deputy McCann, must be paid even though the company has been declared insolvent. Some agents, the deputy revealed, seem to believe the premiums can be returned or diverted into another company, but McCann denies this.

Waltz King's Romance

By MILDRED FILLMORE

Viennese waltzes [illegible] the ears of the patrons of the Cinema Theater this week in "Ein Walzer vom Strauss" [illegible] the composer of the famous "Blue Danube" [illegible] the best [illegible] mances [illegible] material [illegible] picturesque background [illegible] Froelich [illegible] the younger [illegible] Junkermann [illegible] to keep [illegible] the musical profession with its heartaches [illegible]

The [illegible] ways of the elder Strauss lead to his estrangement from his family and finally he [illegible] and starts [illegible] the way [illegible] Achieving [illegible] gets an engagement in [illegible] where the [illegible] lets him [illegible] sweetheart [illegible] When he returns [illegible] baker's son and the elder Strauss is dying [illegible] woes [illegible] position of the "Blue Danube."

It's a [illegible] film with both Froelich and Junkermann doing excellent work [illegible] tures this week [illegible] history lesson, a travelogue and a harp orchestra playing "Moses' Prayer" [illegible] are of exceptional [illegible] quality.

"Peaches" Browning Academy Star

Frances "Peaches" Browning opened a week's engagement at the Academy last night in her own show, "Peaches of 1932," before an audience in which women predominated. She surprised most of her listeners with her singing and dancing. Her first number was "River Stay 'Way From My Door," which was well received, and "Roses of Picardy." In "A Peach Orchard" Miss Browning was supported by the entire cast of 20 principals, the ensemble and the illuminated runway girls. Harry "Hello Jake" Fields and Eddie Kaplan headed the contingent of funmakers.

Guests Find 'Grand Hotel' Is Full of Trouble Like the World

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Everybody in this world has his troubles, as the philosophy alike of the cracker barrel sage and the pessimist who writes big books. It seems that "Grand Hotel" was written to illustrate the truth of this observation, and maybe the author had some idea of making her hostelry a symbol of the world we live in. One guest moves out, another moves in. Their [illegible] little woes and worries are the biggest events of the century's troublous course. They play their game, fair or foul, to win one more day of cheap and tawdry life, anything to keep a little longer hold on this ball of mud with the tentacles called nerves.

Mr. Seibel

"Grand Hotel," the play by Vicki Baum, is an epitome of the world, and the 36 hours occupied by the action is a cross section of human history in this post war age of feverish failure and empty success.

Such is the drama at the Alvin in its symbolic aspect; in its structure and action it is a glorified melodrama. It has that casual technique which Elmer Rice puts into "Street Scene" and "Counselor at Law," a technique that looks casual and yet is so intricate, so deliberate and ingenious. That technique requires perfect acting, and "Grand Hotel" has some of the most nearly perfect acting seen in Pittsburgh this season.

Especially is this true of Eugenie Leontovich, whose portrayal of the Russian dancer is a masterpiece [illegible] When this actress was last in Pittsburgh she had a role that showed her as a [illegible] [illegible] suppers of Aimee or Lotta. Now she reveals herself as a true [illegible] the buskins of a Bernhardt. As a study of the artistic temperament [illegible] female animal that [illegible] [illegible] of the drama.

and [illegible] B[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible]

TYPES OF DESPAIR

Various other types of despair [illegible] the large frame of "Grand Hotel." There is the big business man who must put across a big deal. He is not an exception [illegible] Siegfried Rumann [illegible] swollen boa [illegible] of the industrial jungle.

There is the starving bookkeeper who learns he is doomed to die and wants to get all he can out of the little life and the little money he has left. Sam Jaffe [illegible] There is the [illegible] played by Albert Van Dekker [illegible] There is the [illegible] stenographer of Paula Trueman, whose need of money modifies her convenient morals. All these people find their fates converging in the 36 hours of the play's action and rarely has there been more action fitted into so brief a space.

Once things begin to happen they do not stop or even hesitate. "Grand Hotel" is a busy place. The stage manager has his hands full keeping the guests on the go. And these scene shifts are just about as important as the [illegible] The drama is a string of [illegible] and lightning change [illegible] incidentally some one should investigate the queer [illegible] of the part of audiences that [illegible] darkness in the theater is something wildly humorous.

GRAND IN NAME ONLY

Aside from the infinite detail of the [illegible] making the Grand Hotel grand in name [illegible] The [illegible] even of the [illegible] is not so [illegible] as a [illegible] House. The American [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] which [illegible] [illegible] Vicki Baum has put together [illegible] [illegible] the producers [illegible] But if she has tried to draw a symbolic picture of the world we live in, he might well contend that this also is somewhat short of [illegible]

Certainly "Grand Hotel" is a [illegible] and tremendously effective drama which gives these players an opportunity to do some real acting. Among a cast of about 30 particularly impressive work is done by Walter Armitage, Romaine Callender, Fred Eric[illegible], Harry Hanlon, Stephen Irving and R[illegible]

Plays and Players

"Hay Fever," comedy by Noel Coward, which was [illegible] in New York and has [illegible] completed a run in Boston, comes to the Alvin next week with the original cast, headed by Constance Collier and Eric Cowley. It will be the final play of the Professional Players series. Seat buyers will find the box office open to them when [illegible] Thursday morning.

The box office of the Nixon will reopen Thursday, when the entertainment of car [illegible] will be "The Silver Domino," the 1932 production of the Cap and Gown Club. The [illegible] organization of the University of Pittsburgh. It will be the Nixon attraction all next week. There will be preliminary performances Thursday and Friday nights of this week in Syria Mosque for members of Syria Temple. The annual frolic of the [illegible] is being sponsored by the [illegible] Club of Allegheny County. Those of the past have been produced on an elaborate scale and "The Silver Domino" is promised to be up to the usual high standard.

Charles Butterworth, stage [illegible] who has been seen in many [illegible] the last year or so, will return to the stage in a revue to be produced in the summer. He is now working in the next Maurice Chevalier picture.

[illegible] will be seen in the [illegible] role with Helen [illegible] in "The Bride" movie.

Helen Vinson, from the stage, and Hardie Albright will be among the support of William Powell and Kay Francis in "The Jewel Robbery" film. Margaret Anglin will soon be seen on Broadway in a production of Ibsen's "Ghosts."

Tagore Fears World Has Too Much Speed

CALCUTTA, April 12 (AP). Speed is something the world has too much of, says Rabindranath Tagore, poet and philosopher. Tagore, who reached 70 recently, said the world's ceaseless passion for speed is slowly undermining civilization.

Viehman Is Directing Children's Play

Theodore Viehman, of the faculty of the School of Drama, Carnegie Institute of Technology, is directing "Racketty Packetty House," the second play in the Children's Playhouse series to be given [illegible] morning at 10:30 [illegible] Nixon under the management of Mrs. Rose Natalie [illegible] and Helen M[illegible]. In the cast are Dorothy Gillespie, Ruth Aston, Martha Bodwombe, Audrey Kelly, Gerard MacAfee, Edward Shaughnessy, Boyd Crawford, Henrietta Siskin, Betty Murdoch, Mary Power, Margery Lewine, Louise Miller, Eleanor Cook, Haven Bodwombe, Dwight Thomas and Elle Haith, nearly all students of drama at Tech.

Taking the roles of Flip, Trip, Nip, Dip and Rip are a trio of Shady Side Academy boys, George W[illegible], Andrew Wolfe and William Sloan, and two Arnold school boys, W. Lee Monro III, and Robert Dorworth.

Charlie Chaplin Sails For the Orient

Charlie Chaplin has joined the large group of screen stars who have succumbed to the desire to see what a war looks like. He and his brother Sydney sailed from Naples, Italy, for Kobe, Japan, last week on board the Suwa Maru. Before leaving Europe Chaplin is said to have bought the American rights to a 1,000-foot motion picture dealing with winter sports in Switzerland.

A WHOLE BOUQUET OF COMPLIMENTS

Writes J. C. Fairweather of Cincinnati: "Here's to you, William Penn. You're not perfect—perfection and humans don't go together. However, if fifteen years of world wide travel means anything to you, I'll say you conduct a darn good hotel. Your organization is friendly. Your rooms are clean—that's something in Pittsburgh. But your greatest asset is your desire to make the William Penn Home—and that's some contract."

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Two Gentlemen of Wisdom

I FEEL IN the collegiate mood today. I've been wanting to do another college yarn for some time, and, by golly, here's my opportunity. It's not the story of how Viviano ran for a touchdown in the last 20 minutes of play, nor has it anything to do with the time that the professor's matronly wife fell in love with the handsome freshman and sacrificed her scholarly husband's affections.

No, my friends, this is something brand new. I hope. If it means anything to you, which it shouldn't, I know the basis of the story to be absolutely true. Step right up and shake hands with Chris and Bill, the two collegians whom you will grow to know better (and probably like less) as the story progresses.

No ordinary humans were Chris and Bill. Not, at least, in their own opinions—which were, after all, paramount as far as they were concerned. Students at an engineering college in the East, they had studied together for the lengthy term of years necessary to complete the course. And, because they were thrown together so frequently, they became friends.

Friends, however, with reservations. Which is the only way most of us are ever friendly. They had been competitors in several sports and both were after the same honors of merit in the classroom. Thus, although they would sit together for hours and hours, they would argue. For each one felt in his heart that he knew far more than the other.

Those arguments were things of beauty. The same as many collegians, they thought they knew everything without knowing anything. Want to listen in on a few of those discussions? Why, certainly. Hellinger is nothing if not obliging. First listen to them as they discuss women.

"Women," said Bill, "can all be placed in one category. They are selfish and, except in very rare cases such as our respective mothers, extremely unfaithful creatures. And you know, Chris, that I have had plenty of experience with females of all types. I'm young but how I've lived!"

"No, my friend, you are making a severe mistake. You think you like Evelyn—and why? I'll tell you why. Just because she is in the Follies. The Follies! Even if a man were silly enough to think of getting married, would he look for a wife in such a place?

"Forget about love, Chris. It has no place in the life of any man who knows he will do things in the world."

Hark to Chris.

"There you go again, Bill," he returned peevishly. "Always getting personal. I know that love conflicts with the big things a man wants to do, especially in the engineering world. But if you've lived already, so have I. I've seen just as much of the world as you have—and you know that Evelyn is different from any woman you ever knew.

"My theory is this: If a man finds the right woman, she can help him in any undertaking he has in mind. Evelyn is that girl in my case. What if she is in the Follies? Didn't she tell me she's only in it for the experience?

"And what if she has been married three times? A man who has lived can always be broadminded. And the girl loves me. You bet she does. When I was in New York the last time she told me so. Why, if I received a commission to construct a bridge in Brazil, she'd be only too happy to give up stage life and go with me.

"Don't tell me about those things, Bill. I know."

Ah, how beautiful life becomes through collegiate eyes! Like a hunk of spinach . . .

Along what other line can we follow their chatter? Step up, ladies and gentlemen, and call your shots. What will you have? Science? Literature? Art? Oh, come to think of it, what would be the use of going into those conversations any longer? You know just about what they'd say.

Suppose, then, that we carry them to that glorious day last June when both men received their diplomas. And let's follow them as they walk slowly across the campus and sit upon a bench in the small park that lies right behind the main dormitory.

For a few moments neither man spoke, which was unusual. Finally Chris broke the ice, which was unfortunate.

"Bill," he said, "this is our last day. We've gone a long way together, and now we've reached the end of our first adventure. We've had our little fights and we've had our little arguments, but after all is said and done, they didn't amount to very much. You're still one of the best pals I have—and I figure that I'm the same way with you.

"Is that right?"

Bill nodded vigorously.

"Right you are, Chris," he returned. "And more than right. I'll never forget you as long as I live. And my one hope is that, no matter what I accomplish in engineering, you'll be just as successful."

Ever meet two men who considered themselves the best of friends, but who would fight each other at every opportunity? I don't mean physical combat; I mean that they tossed mental and verbal punches. And how do you suppose Chris felt as Bill threw him that last crack? Well, you're right. He gave out one of those laughs.

"That's very decent of you, old friend," he retorted. "I appreciate the spirit in which you said that. And I'm ready to give you the same break. My one hope is that, in spite of the fact that I expect to become one of the finest engineers this country has produced, you will be right up there with me."

Bill smiled—and changed the subject.

"What do you expect to do first?" he asked.

"Oh," replied Chris easily, "I've had any number of offers. I may go out to Arizona for a while, or I may take a job in South America. It really doesn't make much difference where you start as long as you know you're going somewhere in the future. And you, Bill? What are your plans?"

The other graduate shrugged his shoulders.

"I'm in the [illegible] as you are," he asserted. "So many things from which to choose that I don't really know what to accept. There are several concerns that want me in New York and I've had a very attractive proposition to go to California. I haven't quite made up my mind."

Both men stood up. There was a difficult silence. Then—

"Good-bye, Bill," said Chris.

"Good-bye, Chris," said Bill.

They shook hands. And that was all . . .

* * *

As I think I told you earlier in the story, that was last June. The two engineers never corresponded. Nor did they see each other until that fatal morning last December when they met in the toy department of a department store.

Both had been put on as extra help. Bill was selling toy construction sets. And Chris was selling roller skates! . . .

Best Remedy is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

35 Years of Work Celebrated in Sewickley

It would be difficult to imagine a more delightful program than that marking the thirty-fifth anniversary of the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club yesterday. The club celebrates only every five years, but into each occasion it packs the accumulated interest of the entire period.

Yesterday's affair was a luncheon in the Edgeworth Club and was attended by more than 200 women and one man, Gilbert Hays, whose activities on behalf of the organization in its early days rated him a membership. Nine of the guests were past presidents.

Mrs. John M. Phillips, vice president of the State Federation; Mrs. James G. Chalfant, district president, and Mrs. H. J. Fox, county president, were introduced by Mrs. Joseph M. Dury, the Valley Club's president, and then the program began with a witty description of Sewickley in 1897, which had been written by Mrs. Robert Wardrop but was read with keen understanding by Mrs. Tracey W. Guthrie. The various classes and organized groups that engaged the attention of Sewickleyans, the current events class that functioned for 34 years, "The Wheel," out of which evolved the present organization, picnics which were "standard performances," bicycle tours on which the riders annihilated time, china painting, even a word about fashions and the tight sleeves which retired their wearers from active life, all these were mentioned in the thoroughly enjoyable paper.

Mrs. Joseph M. Browne followed with an equally humorous and intimate resume of the club's activities in its 35 years—they discovered "the younger generation" in the early days too—and Mrs. Wallis J. Tener of Chautauqua, who is visiting here for a few days and is also a past president, summed up her paper on "Women's Achievements" by observing that "the woman of ideas and ideals is here to stay."

Speaking for the junior membership, Miss Alice Gundelfinger read a paper by Miss Emily Stuart on "The Woman's Club of 1957." Full of sound sense, the paper suggested a dramatic organization within the club as an inducement to junior joining.

Although Mrs. Dury had the last word—a most fitting and tender bit of original verse—Mrs. Guthrie closed the program proper by reading the "Grow old along with me" passage from Browning, which she had read at her inaugural.

Braddock Juniors

Miss Anna Gerwig, of Kirkpatrick avenue, North Braddock, hostess this evening for the spring party of the Braddock Junior Woman's Club, will be assisted by Miss Florence Davis, Mrs. William Elkins, Miss Clara Edward, Miss France Lloyd and Mrs. Eugene Gardill. For the entertainment of their mothers and friends who will be their guests the members have prepared a program under the general caption "Melodies of France." Mrs. Edna Rice will make an address of welcome. Miss Rebecca Gibson and Miss Edward will sing. Miss Gerwig will read from Edna St. Vincent Millay. Miss Mildred Cramer will present piano numbers and Miss Esther Yen will contribute a reading. Miss Davis' paper, "Politics and Will Rogers," which was voted by the club the best of the year, will be repeated by request and the whole original story written by different members will be read and concluded by Miss Marie McCleary.

Dorothy Jean Gosuch Engaged to Ohio Man

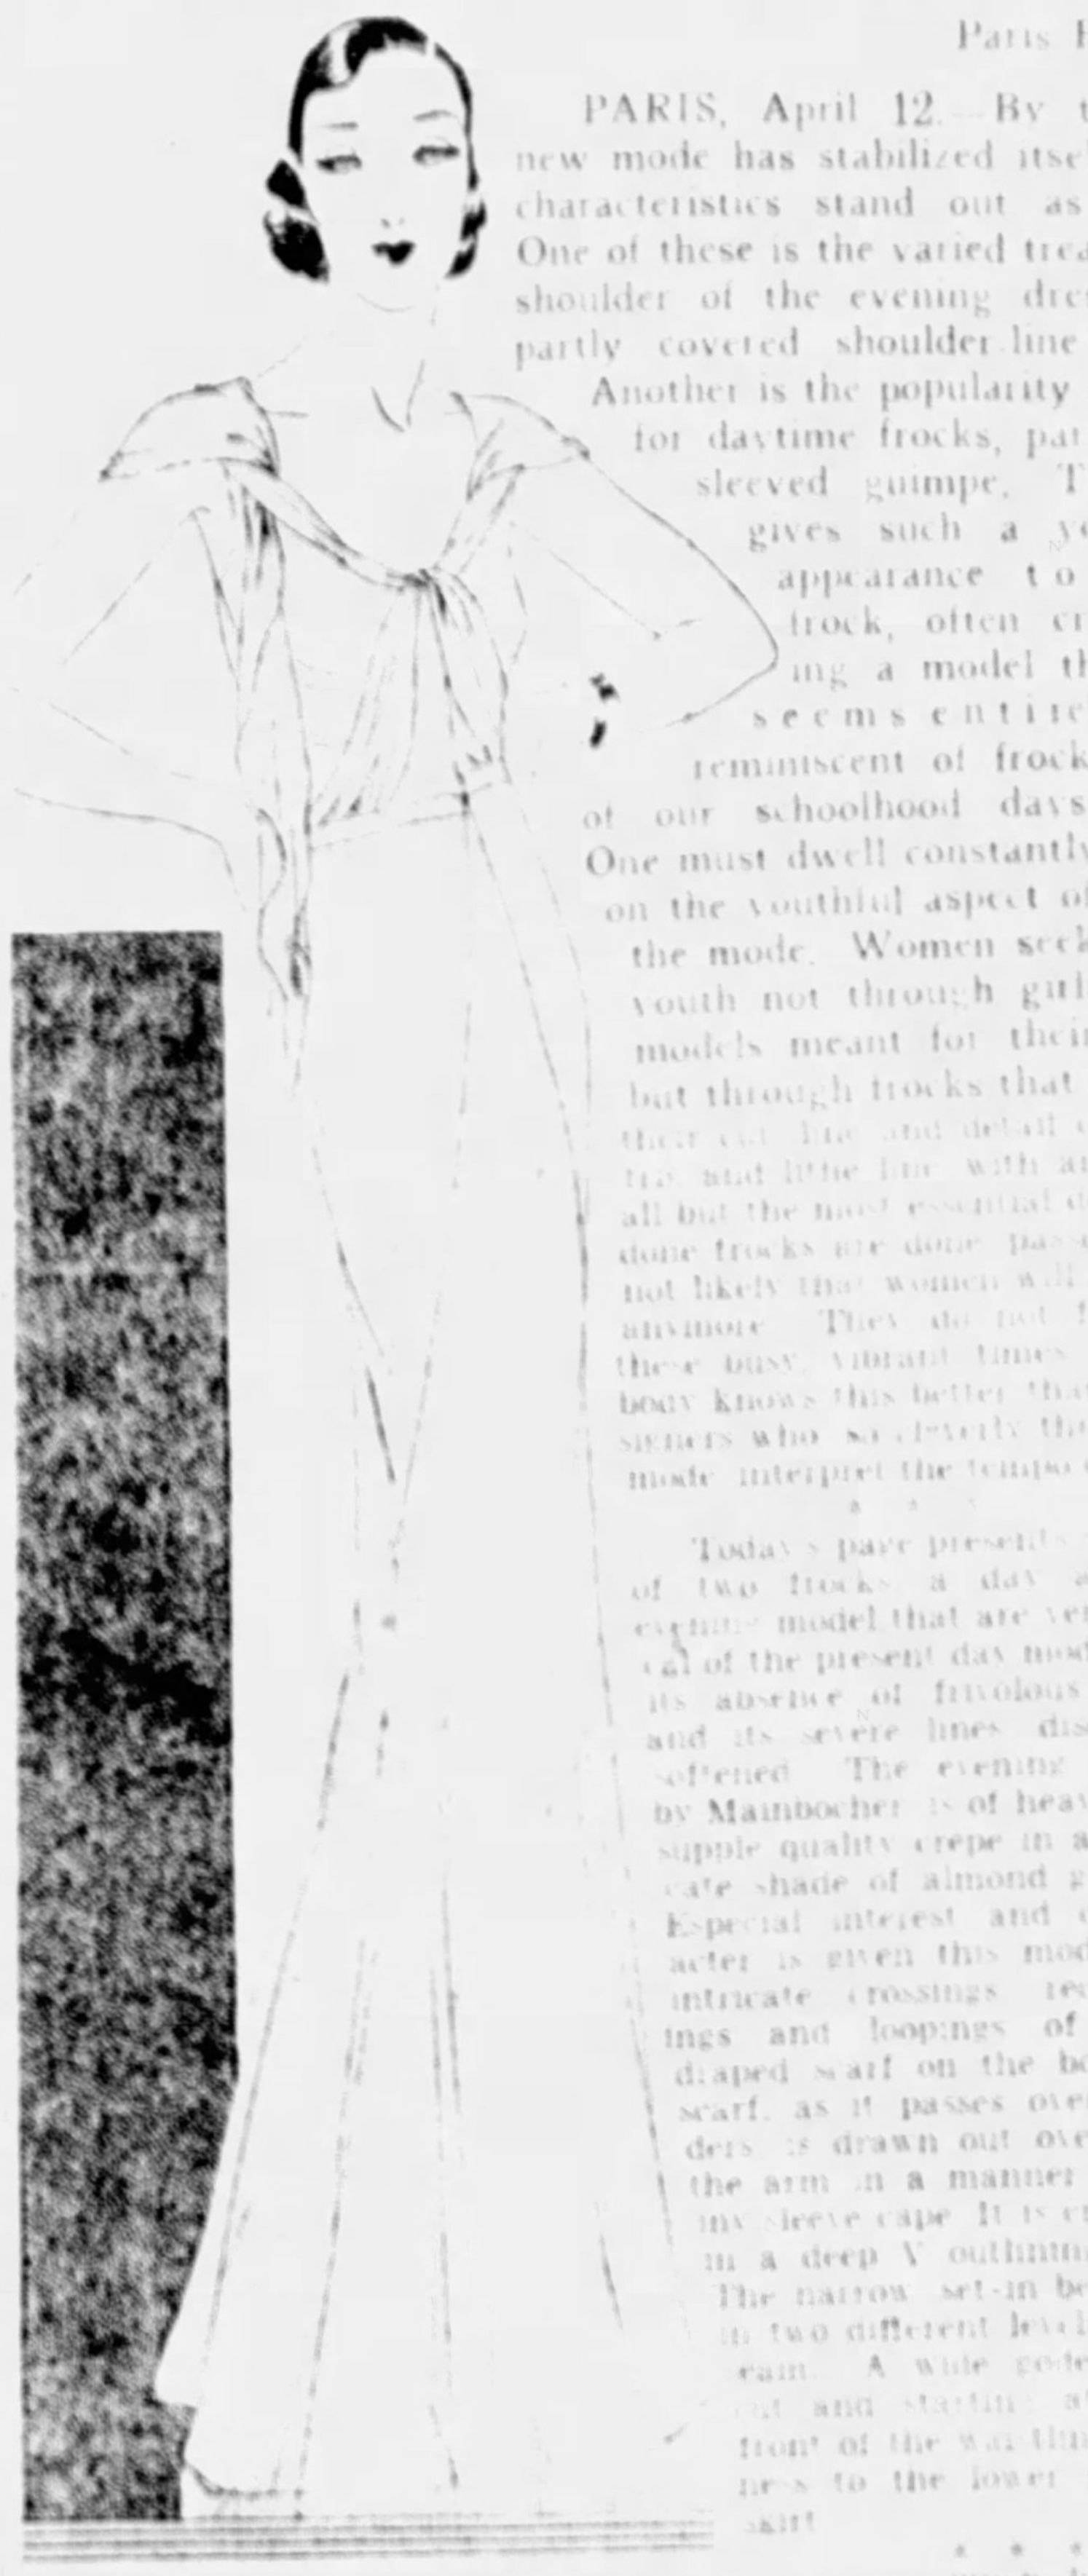
Mrs. Harriet Gosuch of Comrie street announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Dorothy Jean Gosuch, to Stanley [illegible] of Akron, O., formerly of Braddock, at a bridge tea in the Pittsburgher Hotel on Saturday afternoon.

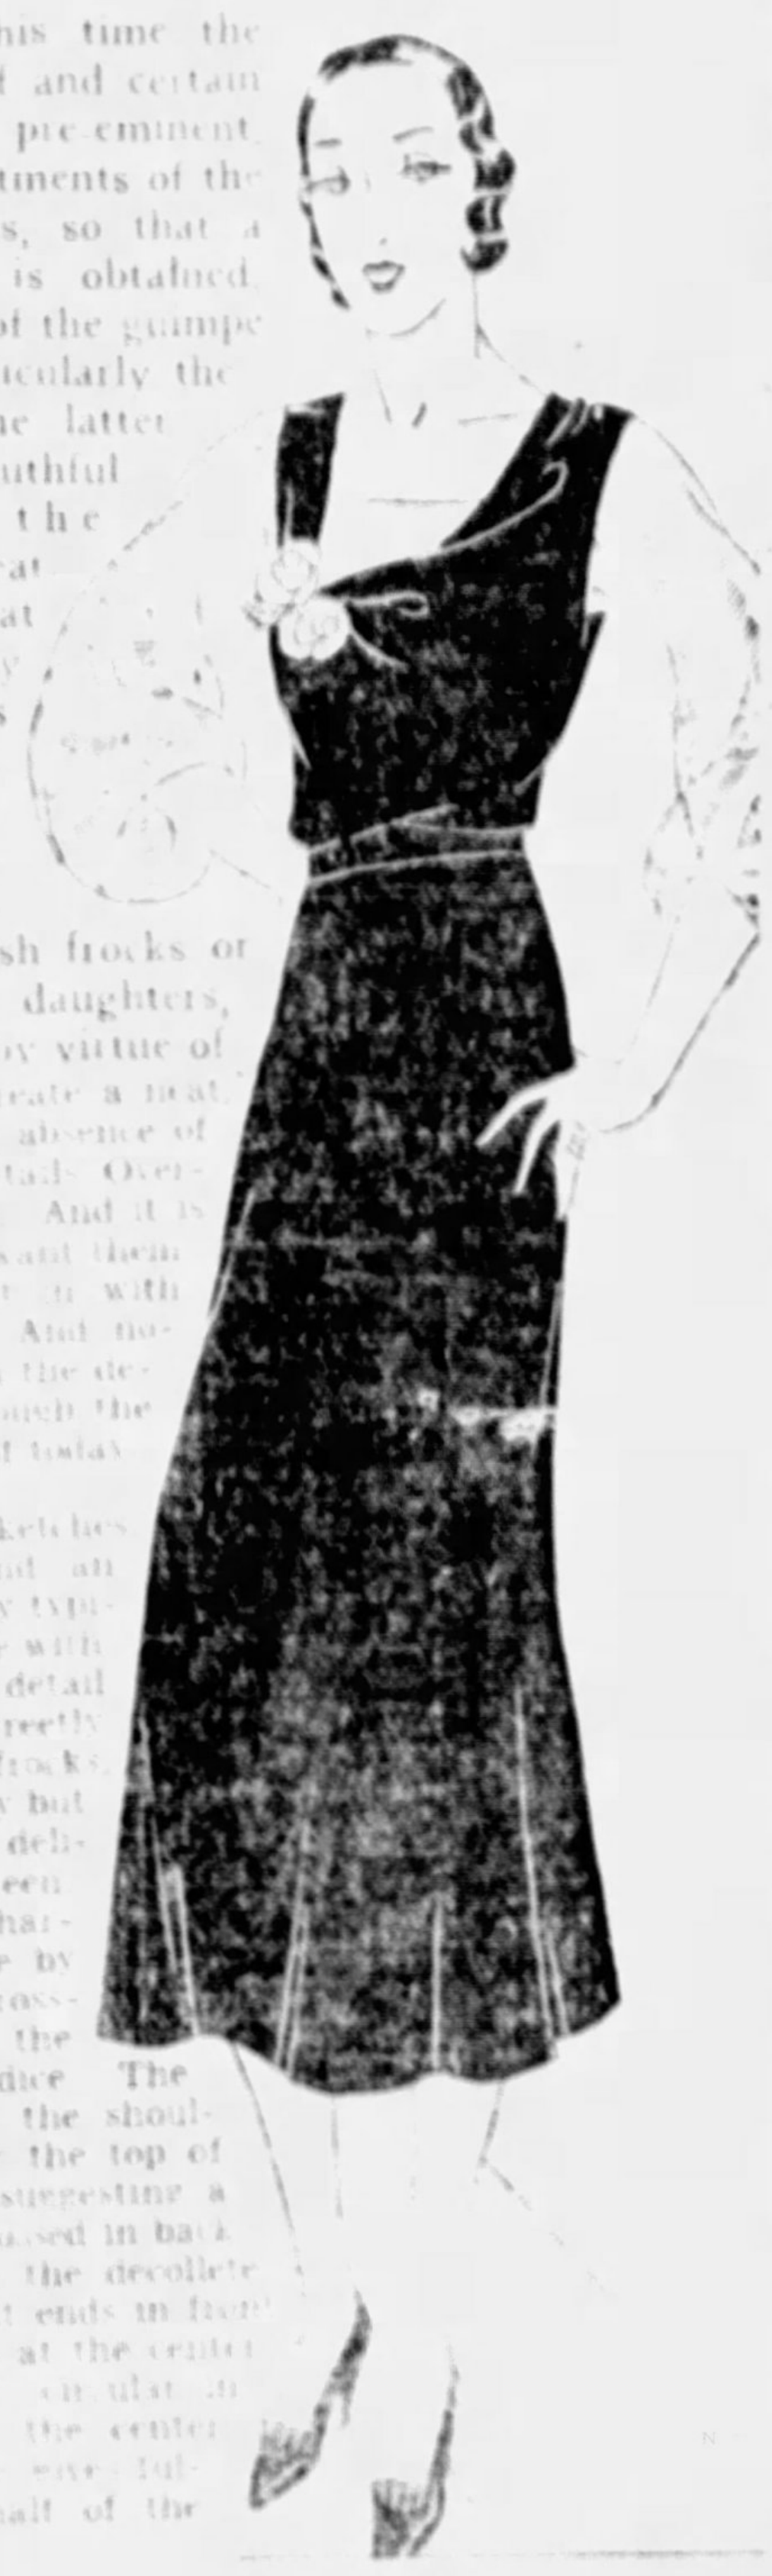
Miss Gosuch is a graduate of Slippery Rock State Teachers College and a teacher in the Braddock Public Schools. Her fiance is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh. No date has been set for the wedding.

NEWEST MODE ESTABLISHES POPULARITY OF THE GUIMPE

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.





PARIS, April 12.—By this time the new mode has stabilized itself and certain characteristics stand out as pre-eminent. One of these is the varied treatments of the shoulder of the evening dress, so that a partly covered shoulder line is obtained. Another is the popularity of the guimpe for daytime frocks, particularly the sleeved guimpe. The latter gives such a youthful appearance to the frock, often creating a model that seems entirely reminiscent of frocks of our schoolhood days. One must dwell constantly on the youthful aspect of the mode. Women seek youth not through girlish frocks or models meant for their daughters, but through frocks that by virtue of their cut, line and detail create a neat, trim and little line with an absence of all but the most essential details. Overdone frocks are done passe. And it is not likely that women will want them anymore. They do not fit in with these busy, vibrant times. And nobody knows this better than the designers who so cleverly through the mode interpret the tempo of today.

* * *

Today's page presents sketches of two frocks, a day and an evening model that are very typical of the present day mode with its absence of frivolous detail and its severe lines discreetly softened. The evening frock by Mainbocher is of heavy but supple quality crepe in a delicate shade of almond green. Especial interest and character is given this mode by intricate crossings, recrossings and loopings of the draped scarf on the bodice. The scarf, as it passes over the shoulders, is drawn out over the top of the arm in a manner suggesting a tiny sleeve cape. It is crossed in back in a deep V outlining the decollete. The narrow set-in belt ends in front in two different levels at the center seam. A wide godet, circular in cut and starting at the center front of the waistline, gives fullness to the lower half of the skirt.

* * *

THE AFTERNOON FROCKS of Bruyere are much liked because of the charm they achieve through smart simplicity. Sketched is a typical example. It is in black crepe marocain and the guimpe is of white organdie with white hand-embroidery in a modern pattern on the wide, puffed sleeves. Two crisp flowers of white organdie nestle in the folds of the draped bodice-front at one side. The skirt flares slightly from the knee down.

STORE BUYER'S IDEA WINS CUP

Hothouse on Roof Suggested in Contest

A suggestion that the roof of the store be used as a "hot house" for flowers today had won for H. E. Hecklinger, assistant buyer in the men's furnishings department at McCreery's, the grand prize of the Retail Institute, conducted under the auspices of the Research Bureau for Retail Training at the University of Pittsburgh.

Hecklinger was presented with the prize—a silver cup—at a dinner meeting in McCreery's last night marking the close of the spring course. The presentation was made by Arthur Kaufmann, vice president of McCreery's. Hecklinger's suggestion, made in a paper submitted in competition, was written on the subject "The Use of Idle Space in Stores."

Other prize winners were Ella Coleman, Joseph Horne Company; Raymond Birmley, Joseph Horne Company; Mary Mellinger, Joseph Horne Company; Mr. Hecklinger, McCreery's; Anna Koval, Kaufmann's; Pearl Schmidt, the Rosenbaum Company; Harry Dills, Boggs & Buhl; Betty Fink, Frank & Seder; Thomas Partridge, Gimbel Brothers; George Rudolph, Joseph Horne Company; Marianne Mulherin, Kaufmann's; Esther M. Petrie, Lewin-Neiman; Mary Lhota, McCreery's, and Jewel Davis, the Rosenbaum Company.

Edgar J. Kaufmann presided, introducing Dr. David R. Craig, director of the bureau, as toastmaster. The Rev. Dr. Robert McGowan, pastor of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church, and Dr. Vincent W. Lanfear, head of the downtown division of the University of Pittsburgh, were speakers.

Fake Relatives Rob New Kensington Man

Posing as relatives, two men are alleged to have entered the home of J. M. McLaughlin, 54, of 373 Freeport street, New Kensington, early today, bound him with a length of wire and ransacked the house of money and jewelry, according to a report made by McLaughlin at the Citizens General Hospital.

He was treated at the hospital for lacerations of the head and face, suffered, he said, when he fell from the front porch of his home in the darkness.

Says Engagement 'Broken in Big Way'

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 12.—(AP)—Mary Elizabeth Swinnerton, daughter of James G. Swinnerton, cartoonist, said here yesterday her engagement to David P. Winkler, Stanford University student, had been broken "in a big way."

She gave no specific reasons, saying:

"We filed an intention to wed March 16 at Redwood City, but I'm positive we won't use the permit."

Young People's Union To Present Comedy

A three-act comedy, "Listen to Leon," will be presented Wednesday and Thursday evenings in the Seventh United Presbyterian Church, Forty-fourth street, by members of the Young People's Christian Union. Delinquent Tax Bill System Held Faulty

A more modern system of billing property owners for delinquent taxes was suggested today to City Council by the Title Guaranty Company of Pittsburgh.

The organization pointed out that many property owners are unaware that they owe delinquent taxes until mortgages are transferred or properties sold. The title company suggested the Delinquent Tax Collector arrange an efficient method of billing. Council's Finance Committee will discuss the proposal.

More than Physical Courage is needed when teeth go

Actual pain is nothing compared with hurt pride

It is hideously embarrassing to lose even one tooth—one tooth in front. You stop in the middle of a sentence, in the midst of a smile, to cover up the ugly gap with a wavering, nervous hand. Much, much, MUCH worse than any pain you could have suffered when that tooth was pulled.

You should be more afraid to stay away from your dentist than to see him. Only a dentist can diagnose pyorrhea—and half the adult teeth lost are taken by this one gum disease. The trouble with pyorrhea is that it may be undermining your teeth for many years before you realize it.

Four out of five people past the age of forty have pyorrhea, so you can't "fool around" about it. You simply must have professional dental advice about twice a year and when you take up seriously the home treatment of your teeth, it will pay to use a toothpaste invented by a dentist. Dr. R. J. Forhan devoted a lifetime to pyorrhea treatment. His professional formula is used by thousands of dentists and his home formula is embodied in Forhan's Toothpaste. It's the finest toothpaste with an extra-protection feature. Don't let pyorrhea get started. Use prevention. Use Forhan's. It's never too early to start the children on Forhan's, the double duty toothpaste, at all drug stores.

Candidates' Stand to Be Known Thursday

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Mark Shields

A little more than two weeks ago the Sun-Telegraph mailed to every legislative candidate in Allegheny County a letter asking the attitude of each on four questions of interest to his constituents. These letters were addressed to all whose names appeared on a list secured from the State Bureau of Elections, representative of all parties, so no one would be overlooked.

Each letter was registered, and in each case a receipt was requested from the postal authorities to show that delivery had been made. In only one case out of the more than 250 letters sent was inability to deliver the letter reported.

It is assumed, therefore, that for two weeks the legislative aspirants have had time to study the questions and make reply. Many have not seen fit to state their positions. Some, it is known, wailed that the questions were "tricky," an excuse which will be properly ventilated when the clarity and directness of the questions is revealed Thursday, together with the attitude of those who replied, as well as the names of those who declined to reveal their views, if any.

In order that every candidate who desires may have his views set before his constituents, it is repeated that the questions and replies made will be printed in the Sun-Telegraph Thursday. And, to repeat, those who did not answer will also be noted.

A few have replied without answering the questions directly, explaining that they will follow the will of their constituents. That fact will be noted also, though how they can ascertain better the position of their constituents than to take a stand and rest their case on a frank position, one way or the other, is something beyond comprehension.

Statements' Conflict Befogging Situation

Announcement by Democratic State Chairman John Collins, National Committeeman Sedgwick Kistler, Judge Henry Niles, of York, and Roland Morris, candidates for delegate-at-large to the national convention, that they are not opposed to "any candidate whose name has so far been mentioned" for the Democratic nomination does little to change the complexion of the contest in Pennsylvania between the group committed to Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, and that insisting upon an unpledged delegation.

Each of the four, together with other statewide and district delegate candidates, of one party faction, has consistently refused to state a preference for any candidate, though each is known to look upon Smith as the Democratic leader, and is willing to follow his advice on party movements. The conflict in the statements of Smith and some of his former supporters does, however, befog the situation.

Senator Pittman, of Nevada, looked upon as a Smith adherent in the past, only a few days ago declared that efforts to make Smith an issue through use of his name in primaries was unjust to the 1928 candidate. Immediately Smith himself put out a statement that he was a real candidate.

As good an explanation as any is that Smith issued this letter to support the energies of friends who are engaged in battles within their state party organizations, and need the value of his name to furnish a rallying point. It is improbable that many of those in Pennsylvania who look upon him as leader would be enthusiastic over him again becoming a national candidate.

The joint appearance on the stump last night of County Commissioner C. M. Barr and Ralph Smith, Independent campaign manager for Allegheny County, is notice that in the remaining two weeks of the campaign there will be fireworks and an energizing of the Independent vote. Smith, heretofore bogged down in campaign detail, is a forceful speaker.

Another spur to the Independent movement is that finally the legislative candidates approved in each district have been named. This will cause resentment among some ignored, but it will furnish the opportunity for the average voter to concentrate his independent zeal if he wishes.

HOME WITH HER BABY

MRS. MARY EVA RATH, 22, COMFORTING HER SON, GENE, 1½

Mrs. Rath, pictured back in her home, 1322 Laketon road, Wilkinsburg, when she returned after her mysterious adventure, "a visit to a girl friend's." She left at 4:30 a. m., attired only in green pajamas and a coat, left the lights burning, the door open and her family asleep, starting a search. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

'KIDNAPED' WIFE RETURNS HOME

Mrs. Mary E. Rath, 22, whom her husband believed kidnaped from her home, 1322 Laketon road, Wilkinsburg, was back home today with her husband and their two children.

Mrs. Rath returned home last night and explained she walked out at 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning to visit a girl friend in East Pittsburgh. She was clad in pajamas and a light coat, her husband, Carl, 25, told police when he discovered she was missing. Mrs. Rath declined to tell why she chose so early an hour to make a visit. She said:

"There was a lot of fuss over nothing."

New Traffic Law To Ban 'Fix' Printed

Provisions of Pittsburgh's new codified traffic laws, which went into effect last Friday, designed to prevent "fixing," are published in today's Sun-Telegraph as a legal advertisement. The law centralizes tag control in the Controller's office. Tags are issued by the Controller to the police and each one must be accounted for, through Traffic Court. Today's advertisement carries a list of the fines for various infractions.

Pittsburgh Can Help Mellon If London's Too Dry

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Andy Mellon's first statement from London indicates he will wear knee breeches and serve liquor.

In that case, Andy, we would advise shin guards with the knee breeches.

All the London newspapers boosted Ambassador Mellon and casually mentioned his terrific wealth in big black letters three inches high.

Europe is real nice about money that way. It doesn't charge Americans anything for passport vises. Europe will let you in for what it can borrow afterward.

The reason we know Mr. Mellon will serv the ankle-twisters in the embassy is his own statement:

"I shall follow the bally customs of the jolly old country. I suppose I can get it here."

If Andy has any trouble obtaining it in London we will help him out by sending one of our Pittsburgh bootleggers over there.

BEATING SENDS OFFICER TO HOSPITAL

Battle Seen as Sequel to Muldowney-McKnight Row; Two to Face Trial Board

Plainclothesman John Nowack, of Oakland Police Station, is under arrest in Mercy Hospital today, where he was taken last night, his head and face severely cut and bruised from a street fight with City Detective Michael Carney.

The fight was believed to have been a "follow up" of the fistic encounter Sunday between City Councilman M. J. Muldowney and P. F. (Paddy) McKnight, who is a supporter of Congressman P. J. Sullivan, whose seat Muldowney, with the aid of State Senator James J. Coyne, is seeking.

CARNEY TELLS VERSION

Carney's story of last night's trouble follows:

"I was standing in front of a barber shop at 2209 Fifth avenue, reading a newspaper, when Nowack got off a cab and came over to me and asked me to take a walk with him.

"I asked him where and he said anyplace.

"I replied that I had to get a shave. He said, 'Come on and be a good boy and take a walk.' I didn't know what it was all about, but started to walk with him and when about half a block away, Nowack slugged me from the rear. I wheeled around and let him have it with my fist.

DENIES 'COWBOYS' AIDED

"The rumor has been circulated that 'Carney and his cowboys' beat up Nowack. That is a lie. There were no 'cowboys' around the fight and it was I alone who gave him the works.

"I don't know what it was about yet. It might have been because of the fight between Mike Muldowney and Paddy McKnight."

Carney and Nowack are well known as semi-professional football players. Both have been ordered to appear before the Police Trial Board.

Police Lodge Dance And Show Tomorrow

BABY RESCUED AS HOME BURNS

A 2-year-old girl was rescued and telephone service in Bethel Township was disrupted several hours when fire late yesterday destroyed the frame home of Harold Campbell near Mollenauer.

Campbell's youngest daughter, Mary, lying in a crib, was carried from the house by James Martin of the Castle Shannon Fire Department, and Michael Schultz, of Library, who leaped from a truck and rushed into the house. Another daughter fled to the home of a neighbor when the fire, caused by hot coals falling onto the floor from a grate, spread through the room.

The alarm was sounded by Fred Weber, of Mt. Lebanon, who was driving by the house. Mrs. Campbell was shopping at a nearby store at the time, firemen said. Chief A. W. Devlin estimated the damage at $2,000.

REQUEST SPACE AT FOOD SHOW

Record crowds are expected to attend the annual Food Show Domestic Science exhibition which will open in Motor Square Garden Monday and continue for two weeks. The show will be open in the afternoons and evenings except Sunday.

The offices of the Allegheny County Retail Grocers Association, sponsoring the show, have been flooded with space requests from national and local exhibitors according to J. V. Loughran, director of the show. The exhibition will be featured by lessons in household economics and culinary demonstrations by Mrs. Sarah E. Tomlinson. There will be gifts, novelties, prizes and music for those attending.

BELLEVUE BANK FIGURES DUE

Another meeting of depositors and stockholders of the closed Citizens Trust Company of Bellevue will be held in the borough hall Friday night to hear the report of the committee examining affairs of the bank, Attorney E. H. Wicks announced today.

This committee, headed by Thomas A. McNary, will report on the figures submitted by the State Banking Department. Attorney Wicks said those interested will be confronted with three propositions—whether a new bank should be organized, the old bank reorganized, or anything done at all.

Goodwill Group Opens Bundle Drive

The 3-day collection of old clothing for the needy opened today under auspices of the Goodwill Industries. Boy Scouts were stationed in all sections of the district to collect the bundles, which will be taken to the Goodwill headquarters at Liberty avenue and Twenty-eighth street, where it will be reconditioned before being distributed.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, April 12.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

After Wall street had been dead for a couple of years, and everybody that had so generously contributed to the funeral was just about to go to work and forget about it, why now the U. S. Senate, that investigates everything after its dead, is going to dig up the body and hold an autopsy. They will find out exactly what everyone else already knows, "deceased: Died from overgorging while the gorging was gorgeous." Yours, WILL.

FISHERMAN, 84, TESTS LINES

WILLIAM H. KISER, 84 . . . GETTING READY TO FISH FRIDAY

Ex-Tax Collector Has Followed Sport For 77 Years

Never having missed a fishing season since he was 7 years old, William H. Kiser, 84, of 2609 Graham boulevard, Wilkinsburg, is preparing for the trout season which opens Friday. He is one of the oldest applicants for a fishing license in Allegheny County.

Kiser, a widower for five years, was a borough tax collector for 18 years, retiring 19 years ago.

The veteran fisherman will be accompanied by his son, Charles W. Kiser, 61, and his grandsons, Edward, 25, and Paul, 21. As in past years, the trout fishing will be done in Potter County. While testing his lines and reels, Kiser said:

"Well, sir, I have never missed a season of fishing or hunting since I was 7. I hunted last year and enjoyed it very much, but my knees won't stand it any more. My favorite fishing is for bass. On a trip for bass my daughter, Mrs. Mamie F. Smith, who makes her home with me, goes along every year. She's a real fisherman."

241 ADDED IN THIRD REPORT OF WORKERS

County Division Making First Report in Battle To Care for Destitute Here

The third report of the progress in the Family-Help-Family relief campaign was made at noon today, showing an additional 241 families have been assured help.

This brought the total pledges to 1,603, and left 26,397 families yet to be cared for if the plan to aid the 28,000 listed with the organization is successful.

HARRIS SPEAKS

At yesterday's luncheon, Senator Frank Harris, sponsor of the plan, said:

"We have got to be courageous and cheerful. This campaign is going over and you men are going to put it over."

The third contingent in the campaign, the "right wing," under Thomas Fitzgerald, swung into action this morning to visit the 115 communities in the county outside the city. They began their work with a dinner last night in William Penn Hotel at which Fitzgerald presided. Speakers were Senator Harris, Roy A. McGregor, chief of staff, and Frank B. Bell.

RADIO ADDRESSES

Five radio addresses were to be made today in behalf of the campaign. Mrs. I. W. Hershey was to speak over KDKA at 3:45 p. m.; Councilman P. J. McArdle over WJAS at 5 p. m.; Councilman John Herron over KQV at 6:15 p. m.; Attorney Edward Tabor over WCAE at 7:16 p. m., and Judge Frank P. Patterson over WWSW at 8:20 p. m.

E. C. Stone, of the Philadelphia Company, delivered an address late yesterday over station WCAE, making an appeal to all residents of the county to help make the campaign a success.

APPEAL TO REALTORS

More than 100 realtors were to be asked today to contribute houses and apartments for use of those who have been evicted from their homes for non-payment of rent, Franklin C. Irish, head of a committee work on home relief, said yesterday.

Last night a number of homes had been obtained for unemployed who were turned into the street.

4 Carloads of Flour Arrive for Needy

The first shipment of free government flour for the destitute was being distributed today. It arrived last night and today was placed in the hands of the various social agencies. Four carloads, now on hand, will be increased by 20 additional carloads later.

TALBOT RELIEF BASIS SET

HARRISBURG, April 12.—(AP)—Attorney General William A. Schnader has ruled that only $3,000,000 of the $10,000,000 provided by the Talbot act for unemployment relief may be allocated to counties on the basis of the November survey made by the Department of Labor and Industry.

The remaining $7,000,000, he informed the Department of Welfare yesterday, must be allocated on the basis of the Labor Department's January table, or on a table showing conditions existing in March. The Attorney General's opinion was given at the request of Mrs. Alice F. Liveright, Secretary of Welfare.

Under the ruling, the December allocation of $1,000,000 and the January payment of $2,000,000 would be distributed to the counties in accordance with the November unemployment survey, which showed a total of 969,000 unemployed. This would assure each county an initial payment of slightly more than $3 for each unemployed person shown by the survey.

Early Closed Bank Dividend Unlikely

C. O. Thomas, the receiver of the closed Bank of Pittsburgh, indicated that prospects of another early payment to depositors were remote as a statement of the receivership of the bank was announced.

To date depositors have been paid $13,302,573, leaving $335,180 cash on hand. The net cash on hand after unproven claims and secured liabilities have been deducted, is $119,652, according to the statement. The bank previously paid depositors a 30 per cent dividend.

Wheeler to Speak For Roosevelt Here

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, one of the leaders in the movement to nominate Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, as the Democratic presidential candidate, will be in Pittsburgh tomorrow to address the Women's Democratic Club and confer with local Democrats enlisted in the pro-Roosevelt movement.

In the evening Wheeler will be the guest at a Jefferson Day dinner in Greensburg.

SCHOOLEY STILL BEDFAST

DETROIT, April 12.—Former City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley, of Pittsburgh, probably will be confined to the Henry Ford Hospital here for at least a week, physicians revealed today. His condition, they reported, has improved but not sufficiently to permit him to be moved.

Schooley is suffering from burns received when he stood too close to a fireplace in his Pittsburgh home and a bathrobe he was wearing was ignited. He had been confined to his home for months by a series of ailments before he received the burns.

On his way to Mt. Clemens, Mich., where he intended to take the bath treatments, Schooley's condition became so much worse that he was taken to a hotel for treatment and later to the hospital.

Two Slot Machines Seized in Raids

County detectives led by Michael Stabile and John Duderstadt, today reported raiding two confectionery stores, arresting Abe Opter when a slot machine was found in his store at 5086 Forward avenue, and Joseph Poli, in whose store at 2607 Murray avenue, they said they seized two slot machines.

Youths Get Terms In Fatal Stabbing

SALT LAKE CITY, April 12 (AP).—Gilchrist C. Booth, 17, pleaded guilty yesterday to the fatal stabbing of John P. Halvorsen, 52-year-old insurance salesman, in an attempted robbery and was sentenced to 25 years in the State Penitentiary. Joseph Medley, 18, pleaded guilty to being an accessory and was sentenced to five years.

Medley's sister, Carol, 15, was given a five-year term in the State Industrial School several weeks ago accused of luring Halvorsen to a rendezvous where her brother and Booth planned to rob him.

VARE ACCUSED BY PINCHOT IN PRISON CASE

Money and Influence Cited By Governor as Three Robbers Serve Only Month

International News Service

HARRISBURG, April 12.—Charging political interference with justice by William S. Vare, Philadelphia Republican leader, Gov. Gifford Pinchot today launched a thorough probe of the release of three youths from Huntingdon Reformatory where they had served only one month of five-year sentences for felonies.

The startling accusation that not only Vare influence was used to gain the unlawful release of the prisoners but also that a monetary transaction was involved in the deal was made by the Governor who released for publication today a letter he addressed to the board of trustees of the Pennsylvania Industrial School in which he demanded an explanation of its conduct in this case.

VICTIM BEATEN BY TRIO

The prisoners were Robert Fike, John Baker and Gutty Farine, said to be Plainfield (N. J.) residents. They were found guilty of beating an employe of a gasoline station unconscious, of robbing the cash register of the station and of the theft of several automobiles, according to the executive's letter. Federal authorities are now investigating their cases.

Gov. Pinchot declared he was in possession of definite information that Vare, operating through William R. Douglas, an employe in the Auditor General's office, and Samuel Spyker, of Huntingdon, induced Judge Thomas F. Bailey, of Huntingdon, to have Justice of the Peace I. N. Faust, of Mill Creek, alter the charge on which Fike, Baker and Farina were convicted.

VARE DENIES CHARGE

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—(INS.)—William S. Vare, titular Philadelphia G. O. P. leader, today vehemently denied charges of Gov. Gifford Pinchot anent the release of three prisoners from the Huntingdon Reformatory. He said:

"I never knew anything about this case. I do not know Judge Bailey. I never heard of the young men involved. The whole thing is a surprise to me."

William R. Douglas, former secretary to Vare, declared:

"If Mr. Pinchot had known the real facts I am sure he would have rendered more aid than I did to restore the three boys to their parents.

"It's just another effort of the Governor to get a little publicity."

Word was received today of the death last night in Bellefonte, Pa., of Robert Farrer, 71, for 20 years (until three years ago) a resident of the Squirrel Hill and Hazelwood districts. He leaves a son, Alfred, of Sharon, and two daughters, Mrs. Lillian Clawson and Miss Helen Farrer, at home.

Explorer to Tell Of Adventures in Talk on Radio Here

McCracken Recently Found Mummies in Aleutian Isles

HAROLD M'CRACKEN

Some of the adventures that make the life of an explorer interesting will be related by Harold McCracken, author and leader of the recent Siberian-Arctic expedition for the American Museum of Natural History in New York, in a radio talk over WCAE Thursday evening at 6:45.

McCracken, who comes to the Davis Theater in connection with the showing of the adventure film "Explorers of the World," starting Friday, will make only one radio appearance here.

One of the latest achievements of the explorer was a successful search for mummies in the Aleutian Islands. A chance conversation with an old hunter of mixed Russian and island stock gave him a clue.

McCracken was told:

"Ah, no mummy places, but I know where you may find some very old things."

Then he described an island out near the village of Kashega, "square like a box, with the north wind cutting through."

After a few days' search the island was found. It contained the explorers thought, nothing but skeletons. Facing disappointment McCracken prepared for the return of the party when by chance a member dug his pick into the spot, which revealed a log cabin containing four mummies.

In the cabin were woven grass mats of the finest quality, robes of seal and sea otter skin, harpoons, a double-bladed canoe paddle and a stone lamp to guide the dead on the last journey. In the midst of these furnishings the mummies were found.

They were almost perfectly preserved, tanned human bodies in cramped sitting positions, wrapped tightly in skin vestment and binding. The more carefully packed and better dressed doubtless was a chief. Beside him lay a man—perhaps an attendant for the spirit world—and a woman and child.

Opinions Differ About Hubby Helping With Housework

Is the big boy a selfish brute if he doesn't help the little woman with the household chores?

"Discontented" had a husband who wouldn't and she was convinced that he was.

We printed her letter and asked for opinions about her squawk. And did we get 'em? Oh, boy!

Well, let Alice fire the first salvo:

"That is a woman's description of the way her husband acts simply made my blood boil," she says.

"It certainly would be a shame to expect a little consideration and kindness from our husbands. Just two small children and a three-room house to look after merely requires about 16 hours work and [illegible] ance! And the poor dear husband's eight hours has come [illegible] down at the [illegible] waiter [illegible] relaxation [illegible]

"At present I know at least a dozen [illegible] married people and none of them has more than one baby and in each case the husband gladly and willingly helps his wife.

"One does the baby's washing before he goes to work. Another does the shopping for the house and she does the dishes. Another cleans the house over the week-end.

"These men all work hard during the day, but they realize their wives do too and they're glad to relieve them a little. It is a change of work for them and they [illegible] much [illegible] than the wives that they can do these things with little effort.

"There is just no use talking. Any man who [illegible] had a mate and loves his wife would want to help her."

DIFFERENT OPINIONS

"Housework done together is fun if you make it so. Most men care about keeping their wives [illegible] and [illegible] enough [illegible] company [illegible] make slaves of them. A man with any sense has a cheery word for his wife when he knows she has worked hard [illegible]

"Discontented should insist on hired help if her husband is so disagreeable and [illegible] won't help her. [illegible] up a few cigars and other luxuries [illegible] [illegible] sensible to lend her a hand when she's tired."

That's a hot shot, all right. And here's another view on the opposite side of the fence:

"I've just read that letter from Discontented who thinks [illegible] What did that [illegible] matter [illegible] if she didn't expect to do her part as good wife and mother.

HAS SEVEN CHILDREN

"She [illegible] ought to know [illegible] should be done by a woman who is a mother and a wife. I suppose she thought when she got married she was going to sit on a lace cushion [illegible] a throne or something and have nothing to do but look [illegible] A lot of them [illegible] married with notions like that.

"I have seven children and my husband and myself to do for and I do my own work [illegible] cooking, cleaning and everything that a woman should do to keep the home happy and pleasant.

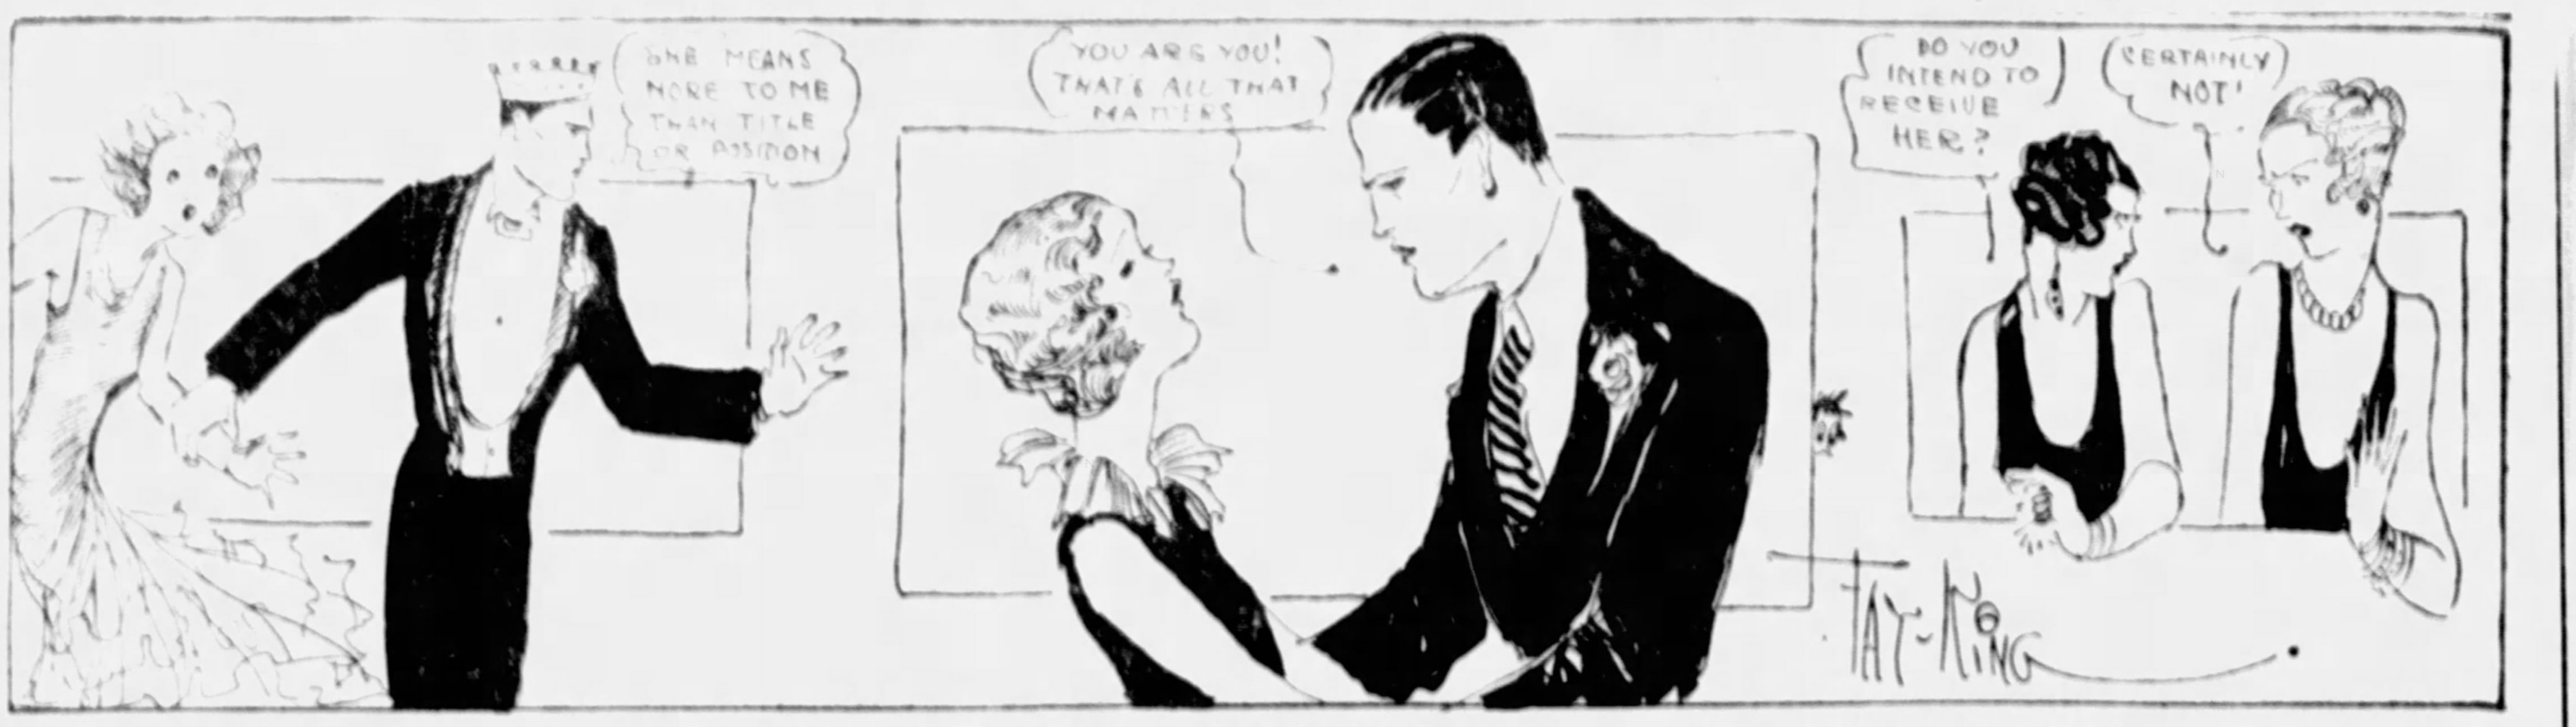
"I think that if Discontented would quit feeling sorry for herself and use her head she'd find that taking care of two children would be a [illegible] I don't think she deserves to have a husband when she [illegible] so much [illegible] feeling abused. He probably has plenty to contend with.

"I hope she will wake up for her own sake as well as for the sake of her husband and her babies. She says she is 27 years old and that is plenty old enough for her to have a few brains in her head. [illegible] I am only [illegible] myself but I [illegible] better [illegible] to be like she is."

There you are, [illegible] scattered two [illegible] on a heated question. What's your [illegible] point?

Do you think papa should help mamma or do you think he's done enough when he's brought home the bacon?

Men, Not Women, Provide Most of Romance in the World—Fay King



SHE MEANS MORE TO ME THAN TITLE OR POSITION
YOU ARE YOU! THAT'S ALL THAT MATTERS
DO YOU INTEND TO RECEIVE HER?
CERTAINLY NOT!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

Although women are supposed to be the more sentimental and romantic it is really the men who provide most of the true romance in the world.

For what is more romantic than for a man of riches, power or position to fall in love with a little Cinderella?

That has and always will be the essence of romance in fact and fiction.

And one would think that all his women folks would be thrilled at such romance, but, alas, it is the women who raise the barriers that too often wreck these pretty romances.

It is women who refuse to receive his wife. Women who are shocked at his choice. Women who refuse to see any chance of success in such a match.

Men approve!

Goiter Generally Can Be Cured Without Operation

In the front of the neck close to the Adam's apple is an important structure, the thyroid gland. When this gland enlarges we have the condition known as goiter.

Dr. Copeland

Simple goiter is caused by a deficiency of iodine in the diet and is common in regions where iodine is lacking in the drinking water or in the food supply. It is a frequent disorder of people living in Switzerland where the water lacks iodine. In our country it is most common in the Great Lakes region where school children as well as adults are afflicted. The condition affects girls more often than boys.

As a rule there are no disturbances in the general health and appetite and nutrition are not impaired, but simple goiter, if neglected, may produce serious ailments.

Goiter is easily and quickly recognized by the swelling of the gland in the neck.

Fortunately, since it is known that a lack of iodine in the water and food produces goiter, it may be prevented by the addition of iodine to the diet. In sections where goiter is prevalent health officials administer iodine to school children at definite periods. In some sections iodine in small quantities is added to the municipal water supply.

Iodine should never be used in the water supply, however, unless there is a definite iodine deficiency in the community. It should never be taken as a medicine, certainly without the consent and supervision of a physician. It is a harmless preparation when used scientifically, but can do great damage when taken unnecessarily.

Under normal conditions the body requires a very small amount of iodine. This is well taken care of by the food we eat. It is well to remember that shellfish, such as scallops and oysters, are an excellent source of iodine, and this food should be included in the diet at least once a week.

Never neglect any swelling or tumor-like growth of the neck. I am sorry to say that many individuals overlook the importance of this condition. They hesitate to consult a physician for they fear the "knife." This is one condition where it rarely happens that surgery is necessary. However, there are certain thyroid growths that require operation. In these cases delay is dangerous.

Household Hints

A little egg shell, crushed into a fine powder and shaken on to a scrubbing brush, will remove stains from white woodwork.

Tar stains should be rubbed with butter, left an hour or two, then washed out. Tea stains should be rubbed with glycerine a short time before washing.

While a fruit stain is still moist, cover it with powdered starch. When dry, rinse the article in cold water and wash in the ordinary way.

There is nothing better than salad oil for brightening polished leather. Warm slightly and apply to the leather with a chamois. Polish with a fresh chamois.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Witch hazel serves as a skin tonic and astringent. It is refreshing and can be applied at any time, though as a pore-contractor it works more thoroughly if used just after the face has been bathed in cold water.

One of the wonders of this season's cosmetic output is rouge of golden red. It comes in little jars for the cheeks and in stick form for the lips. Very chic on blonde or brunette, though one has to choose carefully the tint of the powder that is to be used with it. A deep ivory is friendly and amiable.

Civilization has given us bathtubs, synthetic blushes and all manner of good things that make for pulchritude. But there is one blessing that is not yet ours, and that is clean air. Hands, complexion and hair—like fine fabric—suffer from contact with dirt. To keep them in order, they must have considerable daily attention. And because there is so much scrubbing and renovating going on, there should also be a lot of lubricating done, hands and face cold creamed at night, the scalp given its quota of tonic oil 24 hours before the weekly shampoo. It's allus sumpin!

How Many Tricks Can B Win at No Trumps?

To show his surplus values B made an opening bid of 2 No-Trumps. A knew that his partner must have better than an ordinary bid of two or he would not bid so high when opening fourth hand. A had once passed; on that account he made a bid of 4-Clubs to show that he held one sure trick and a long suit. This unnecessary high response so encouraged B that he ended contracting with 6 No-Trumps. The opening lead was the 4 of Spades. How many tricks can B win against the best play left open to Y-Z?

♠ J 8 7
♣ Q
◇ J 7 4 3

♠ 6 2
♡ J 10
♣ A 10 9 8
◇ Q 6 2

♠ A K 10
♡ A Q 4
♣ K 5
◇ A 10 8

♠ Q 9 5 4 3
♡ [illegible]
♣ [illegible]
◇ K 9

A covered the lead with the 8. Y put up his J and B's K won the trick. Evidently the chances for fulfillment of the contract largely depends upon dummy's long suit. Perfect play will yield a grand slam against anything that the defenders can do. Never mind how B came out. Play the hand for maximum results and with minimum risk.

Lay down the K of clubs. Note that the Q falls at your right. Y may be false-carding, or the guarded J may be at your left. Lead the 8 of clubs. Do not attempt to drop the J. Overtake the 8 with dummy's 9 [illegible] be in the [illegible] hand in case Z holds the J. Before running off dummy's [illegible] have [illegible] out how hearts [illegible] Lead the J of hearts, let it run for a finesse when Y fails to cover. Lead the 10 and overtake with the Q. When that holds the trick you are assured of your small slam: two spade tricks, three heart tricks, one diamond trick and six club tricks, a total of 12 tricks are assured you. Think how a grand slam may possibly be made. Clubs will give you three discards. If Z has to hold both a guard to his Q of spades and to his K of diamonds, presuming that he has that missing card, you can make a grand slam by means of a squeeze, provided you do not squeeze yourself. You must discard before Z does, and you must provide against squeezing yourself. Here is the method to follow: Lay down your Ace of hearts. Lead your Ace of diamonds. Hold your A-10 of spades. Let dummy retain its Q of diamonds.

Next apply your squeeze. Lead your last club. Z's J must drop and A's Ace will win the trick. You have won eight straight tricks. Run off dummy's three winning clubs, discarding upon them your three diamonds and retaining your A-10 of spades. Dummy has left only the 2 of spades and the Q of diamonds. As the last club is led, giving your side 11 tricks, Z has left the Q-9 of spades and the lone K of diamonds. When it comes his turn to discard either he must unguard his Q of spades, making both your cards of that suit good, or he must let dummy's Q of diamonds win a trick in case Z lets go his K of that suit. Either way Z discards you must win a grand slam, one trick in excess of the small slam contract.

Children's Group Play

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

It is quite easy to see why very young children like individual play-projects and are confused and annoyed in group activities.

The infant has much experimenting to do with materials of play. He has much to learn in the manner of becoming master of buttons, rubber balls, clay, beads and a string of climbing and balancing his small body. These things are so taxing to his small powers of concentration, so absorbing in themselves, that he must overcome their difficult angles before he is ready for group play.

One mother overlooked the fact, however, that the time does inevitably come when children need play materials suitable to be used by two or several children.

Her one daughter, aged two and a half, had a companion of about the same age who came over often to play. The mother brought out toys for each, but it soon developed that what one had the other immediately wanted and the result was a series of howls and unhappiness.

When the mother one day happened accidentally to unearth a large ball, and later found the two noisily and happily bouncing it from one to the other, it dawned on her that toys for two were the new order.

Blocks proved a happy solution to further play hours with one child building a house a little way from the one the other child worked on, then the two children making a sidewalk between the two houses over which paper dolls stopped on friendly visits.

So if your two children or your lone child in play with visiting companions show signs of coveting the other's toy, and bickering is always evident, it may be well to provide toys which each child may use only in conjunction with the activity of the other child.

-:- Correct Manners -:-

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Introduction

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At a recent gathering a young girl introduced her sister's husband to a young man who had not met any of the family before, in this way: "Mr. A, may I present my brother."

Is this correct? Or would you say "May I present my brother-in-law" or "May I present my sister's husband"?

Technically speaking I maintain that her statement was incorrect.

M.

Technically speaking, her statement was incorrect but socially speaking she did what to me is the gracious and friendly thing for her to do. The "in-law" after any word gives it a forbidding sound, especially in the making of introductions. And since apparently she feels her brother-in-law in a sisterly way, it was charming of her to register this.

Place of Honor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly settle the argument given below?

A says that if you are giving a dinner party for more than four, the host keeps his place at the table, but the hostess gives up her seat and sits at the right of the guest of honor.

B says this is not correct, that the hostess keeps her accustomed seat and the guest of honor, should it be a gentleman, sits at the left of the hostess, and if the guest of honor should be a lady, she is put at the right of the host, regardless of how many are at the table.

Which is correct?

A. K. W.

A is not at all correct, and B is only partly correct.

The man guest of honor sits at the right of the hostess, and on her left sits the man to be given the second place of honor. The woman guest of honor sits at the right of the host, and on his left is the woman who is to be given the second place of honor.

SPORT COMMENT

Deal Weakens Cardinals. Orsini's Many Duties.

TRADE HELPS NATIONAL LEAGUE RACE

PESSIMISTS HAVE BEEN painting a gloomy picture for baseball in the season on which the curtain rises today, but probably it will be much like other seasons in the long run, with the same old rule holding good in the main—the winning clubs will draw the fans in profitable numbers and the losing teams will eventually find themselves playing to lean gates, perhaps somewhat leaner than usual. General interest, and consequently patronage, this year will depend more than ever on the pennant races being open ones and closely fought.

Chick Hafey

From this angle, the National League as a whole appears likely to profit by the trade put through just as the clubs were going to the post, whereby Leftfielder Chick Hafey, Cardinal holdout and batting champion of the Heydler loop, was transferred to Cincinnati in exchange for Harvey Hendrick, first baseman and outfielder, Pitcher Benny Frey and a bundle of banknotes. It gives the league a better balance by weakening a possible pennant winner and strengthening the weakest team in the circuit.

CLEARLY IT WAS not with the idea of strengthening their lineup so much as to punish Hafey that the Cardinal bosses made the swap. Any time two players are demanded for one, to say nothing of a financial consideration on the side, it is an admission that quality is being given for quantity, and quantity does not win ball games.

Hendrick is a useful player, but by no means a Hafey. Frey has won only 20 games since he joined the Reds in the fall of 1929. Though pitching power was the main factor in the Cards' success last year, there is no question that Hafey also played an important part in it. Perhaps the Cards can spare him and win anyhow, but it is clear they have lost some strength and that's going to help the race.

ON PAPER THE Reds would appear to have risen above their former tailend classification with Hafey added to such other acquisitions as Babe Herman, Wally Gilbert and Ernest Lombardi, but that remains to be seen.

Defensive as well as offensive strength has been lost in the going of Joe Stripp, Tony Cuccinello and Clyde Sukeforth, and long-distance hitters such as Herman, Hafey and Grantham cannot be expected to do so well in Cincinnati's big park with the less lively ball as they have done on smaller fields where fences and stands are nearer.

WHETHER PRESENTED AS honest competition or a hippodrome event, wrestling is tough on the system, and because he took part in so many as 140 matches last year, making $250,000, Jim Londos, who appears at Motor Square Garden tonight, is rated the superman among professional athletes. It is held that in many of his matches he takes more punishment than does a fighter, or a football, or hockey player. Boxers can't understand why he sometimes takes more than an hour to throw an opponent whom he could possibly flop in a few minutes, but that appears to make Londos a popular card. Last year he wrestled 19 times in New York and Brooklyn, seven times in St. Louis and Baltimore, six times in Chicago and Boston and four times in Philadelphia. He may meet the same men over and over again, but evidently he makes the crowds like it. In his 140 matches in 1931 he met only 38 wrestlers. Gino Garibaldi alone was encountered seven times. But repeated meetings of the same men is nothing new in the mat game. Strangler Lewis says he threw Londos 14 times in 15 years before Jim rose to the championship.*

John Ross Roach

THE LOPSIDED FASHION in which the Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the New York Rangers for the Stanley Hockey Cup is to cost one member of the American team his job. John Ross Roach, goalie, is definitely done as a Ranger, it is said, and will not be with the club next winter.

The fact that the Leafs were able to score 18 goals in the three games, or six to a contest, gave hockey followers in general the impression that there must have been something wrong with Roach. New York reports say there is no doubt of it. It is charged he broke training just before the series, failed to show up for the final practice session before the first game, and did not play anything like the hockey of which he is capable.

ROACH'S EXHIBITION IN the opening number is said to have been the poorest of his career. Instead of six goals the Leafs should have scored only three. Les Patrick, Ranger manager, ordered the other players to mitigate Roach's offense and try to encourage him. It didn't help. The Leafs went ahead to win the second game, 6 to 2, and the third, 6 to 4.

Even the opposing players criticized Roach. King Clancy, star defense man for Toronto, censured him severely. "If our goalie had done such a thing I'd have kicked his head off," Clancy said. "We hated to score on him in that first game. It was like tossing the puck into an open net."

PUBLIC SALE OF reserved seat and box seat tickets for the opening game of the Pittsburgh baseball season on Wednesday of next week, and also for the remaining three games of the inaugural series here between the Pirates and the world champion Cardinals, will start at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and continue daily. Reserved seats at $1.50 and box seats at $1.75 will be placed on sale at Frank Blair's cigar stand in the William Penn Hotel lobby, at Spalding's and at 6121 Penn avenue. Vice President S. E. Watters says indications point to a large attendance on opening day and the first Saturday game in particular, and advises fans to obtain their tickets early to assure good locations.*

PITT'S YOUNG BOXING coach, Joe Orsini, is finding life a little easier nowadays. During the boxing season, the former Clairton High School and Slippery Rock star was one of the country's busiest men, and he is glad that it's all over for another year. For Joe was not only the boxing coach at Pitt. That was only part of his big job.

Aside from his duties as tutor of the Panthers' first boxing team, and they were strenuous, he had not only to train the boxers but also to supervise the work of the seconds and officials of the meet; was a full-time student, taught four or five hours a day, and helped to earn

TONIGHT'S BOUTS

(Wrestling) — Jim Londos vs. Frank Speers, one fall to finish, and Gino Garibaldi vs. Floyd Marshall. Pat O'Shocker vs. Jim Clinstock. Abe Coleman vs. Steve Znoski and John Maxos vs. Jack Odell, 30-minute time limit bouts. Motor Square Garden.

Young Corbett vs. Ceferino Garcia, 10 rounds, Los Angeles.

Izzy Grove vs. Eddie (Kid) Whalen, 10 rounds, and Trader Horn vs. Jose Ramon, 6 rounds, New York.

Jeemie Londos is with us tonight.

Jeemie is heavyweight champion wrestler of the world—none less.

It is his first appearance here in many years and his first as champion.

Jim Londos

The outstanding performer in his realm, the local fans have been waiting to see Jim in action ever since the mat sport was revived in Pittsburgh last year, and indications are that the Motor Square Garden arena will be jammed to the bulging point when he steps out against Frank Speers, former Georgia Tech football star, in the main event of a five-bout show.

KEPT IN SECLUSION

Londos arrived in town this morning from Chicago, where he defeated Hans Kampfer, the German champion, in the Coliseum last night. He took up headquarters in a downtown hotel, where precautions were taken to keep his army of admirers at a distance. He is the idol of the Greeks, who have come to Pittsburgh from many miles around for this occasion.

Speers, the champion's opponent, has won two bouts here so far this season, taking a decision over Ray Steele and throwing Everett Marshall in recent shows at the Garden.

Gino Garibaldi, Italian, meets Floyd Marshall, American star, in the semi-final tonight; Jim Clinstock opposes Pat O'Shocker, the Irishman; Abe Coleman takes on Steve Znoski, and John Maxos is in with Jack Odell. The main bout will be one fall to a finish and the preliminaries will be limited to 30 minutes each with a decision at the finish in the event there is no fall.

SCIENTIFIC GRAPPLER

Londos is one of the most colorful personalities in the sports world. He has been champion for approximately two years and has been undefeated for almost three years. He is one of the most scientific grapplers on the mat, combining jiu-jitsu and cunning with his knowledge and use of catch-as-catch-can holds.

LONDOS TOSSES KAMPFER

CHICAGO, April 12 (AP)—Jim Londos, of Greece, added another victory to his wrestling string last night by tossing Hans Kampfer, of Germany, in 39:07 with a reverse body lock. Gino Garibaldi, Italian, won the decision over Pat O'Shocker, Salt Lake City, in 30 minutes, and Abe Coleman, New York, threw Hans Bauer, Milwaukee, in 21:07 with a flying tackle.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE MOST SHINING MARK OF HEROISM—Gaius Mucius, the shining mark of Roman fortitude, was captured by King Porsenna, of Clusium, and confessed that it had been his intention to assassinate the King in order to raise the royal blockade of Rome. He thereupon was sentenced to be burned alive, but before the sentence could be executed Mucius thrust his right arm into the blazing fire and held it there, without flinching, until the arm had burned completely off. The King, impressed by the proud Roman's indifference to pain, ordered Mucius liberated. Henceforth the latter became known as Scaevola, meaning "the left-handed." A GREAT POETIC STUNT — Hugo Harder's famous alliterative poem consists of 100 Latin hexameters and begins with the line "Cattorum canimus certamina clara canumque." Every word in the poem begins with the letter "C".

NEWTON WINS MEDAL HONOR

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 12—(AP)—H. H. (Tex) Newton, of New York, yesterday won the qualifying medal in the annual Mason and Dixon amateur golf tournament.

Intermittent showers and a heavy course made scoring conditions difficult, but Newton turned in a 76 to lead the field by a single stroke.

Tied for runner-up position were E. G. Livesay, of Columbus, O., and Jack Ryerson, of Cooperstown, N. Y., the defending champion and runner-up last week in the North and South Amateur at Pinehurst.

John E. Hines, of Garden City, N. Y., with a 79, was the only other player in the field to break 80.

GOLF PARTY THURSDAY

Members of the Highland Country Club will stage a golf dinner in the clubhouse Thursday night, the entertainment to be featured by movies showing Bobby Jones in action. A general discussion of club and playing rules also will be held.

MEINE STICKS TO DEMANDS

ST. LOUIS, April 12.—Heinie Meine is going to stand pat on his salary demands, and unless the Pittsburgh Pirates can see their way clear to meeting the star pitcher's salary figure, they are going to have to go along without his services.

A long conference between the holdout hurler and Manager Gibson last night failed to bring about any change in the relations between the star and the club. Some 10 days ago Meine and President William E. Benswanger held a conference here, Benswanger stopping off on his way to Texas to join the Pirate team. At that time, Meine refused to cut his demand, to split the difference or to arbitrate in any way.

Yesterday he watched the Pirates as they held their final drill at Sportsmans Park, shook hands with President Benswanger and met Manager Gibson for the first time. He dropped into the Pirate headquarters at the Kingsway Hotel late in the evening and was closeted with Gibson for a lengthy confab.

Heinie said after the session that he found Gibson to be a fine fellow and that he'd like to play ball for him, but that his business is such that he can afford to give up the game if necessary and that he is determined to stick to his original salary demand.

HOOVER MISSES NAT VICTORY

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—Henry Manush's double, scoring Buddy Myer in the tenth inning, gave the Washington Senators a 1-to-0 decision over the Boston Red Sox in the season's opener yesterday, played before a crowd of 15,000, including President and Mrs. Hoover.

Both MacFayden and Crowder allowed seven hits. The Senators' sturdy tosser outpitched his rival, however, striking out seven to one for MacFayden and not allowing a base on balls.

After throwing the first ball of the season and then stamping his feet against the cold for seven innings, President Hoover returned to the White House.

Mr. Hoover has seen Washington play five times since he has been President. Every time until yesterday they had lost.

ST. LOUIS, April 12—Larry French, portsider ace, will carry the hopes of the Pirates into the opening game of the National League season here today as the Bucs face the St. Louis Cardinals, world champions.

Manager George Gibson announced that he has decided upon his star southpaw pitcher as the best bet to get the Pirates off on the right foot.

French, who joined the club three years ago and since that time has been one of its most consistent winners, is in the best of condition and during the exhibition tour displayed plenty of stuff every time he stepped to the mound.

RHEM CARD SELECTION

Flint Rhem, a righthander, will be his mound opponent, Gabby Street leaning a little towards superstition in his hurling selections. Rhem has pitched in the past two openers and since they turned out so splendidly for the Cardinals, Street will have nobody but Rhem on duty today.

The St. Louis ace also is in splendid shape and all things point to a sensational mound duel. The park is expected to be jammed to capacity, the advance sale of tickets being heavy.

Both clubs appear confident as game time draws nigh. The Buccos, while not making any pennant predictions, are quite certain that they will be an important factor in the National League race. The team is in splendid shape and has been on the old anxious seat for the past week or so.

The Bucs are anxious to get a crack at the toppotchers and feel quite sure that they will give the Cardinals a taste of what to expect during the season in the series starting today.

MANAGERS CONFIDENT

Gibson has refused to make any prediction as to the possible finishing position of his outfit.

"The team is in the best of shape and will line up much the same as it finished last year. It has shown class and strength in both fielding and batting departments," he said.

"One thing I will say, and that is that the Pirates of 1932 will be known as a hustling ball club. When a club hustles as it should it will not take long for it to gain its true position in the race. I am going to allow the team to speak for itself during the campaign."

Gabby Street, on the other hand, was certain his team would retain its hold on the National League pennant for the third year.

"I am confident the Cards will win the pennant this year. Despite the loss of Hafey we will present a strong lineup, and in Jim Collins, who will replace Chick, we have a capable player who will prove just as valuable as Hafey."

Local Golfers Gain Championship Flight

GREENSBORO, N. C., April 12—(AP)—Led by Alan Smith, youthful Asheville golfer, who shot a 73 to win the qualifying medal, match play got under way here today in the annual Dogwood golf tournament for men.

Earl Stokes, Duke University student from Louisville, Ky., followed Smith home in the qualifying round with a 75, and clashes today with W. J. Palmer, of Sedgefield, who shot an 82.

Smith was paired today with Benny Goodes, of Burlington, N. C., who qualified with an 82.

Other championship division pairings and qualifying scores include:

C. D. Cramer, Pittsburgh, 80, vs. J. W. Carson, Sedgefield, 85; Bill Jennings, Sedgefield, 79, vs. W. B. Mason, Washington, 81; Paul Carter, New York, 80, vs. C. M. Bunker, Sedgefield, 85; J. L. Landis, Sedgefield, 80, vs. G. M. Hill, Pittsburgh, 85; William B. Curtiss, Washington, 77, vs. E. G. Michaels II, Sedgefield, 84.

LOCAL GROUP PLANS TO EXPAND NET SPORT

DAVIS RETAINED AS PRESIDENT OF P. T. A.

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Racquet [illegible] of the Steel City area braved the elements last evening to convene in crowded conclave for the annual meeting of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association at the P. A. A. Delegates argued, planned and pulled the net pastime over the coals in hectic fashion until very close to midnight and when finally the gathering dispersed the district court campaign was set off with handsomely [illegible] inauguration.

The new P. T. A. expansion program, [illegible] of local officials the past three months, was presented to the assemblage by President Phillips Davis and received with warmth aplenty. Following lengthy discussion it was decided that [illegible] move toward extension [illegible] work throughout the [illegible] included in association territory will take form of week-end exhibition [illegible] leading performers of the [illegible].

President Davis reappointed Bob Schmertz, Stanton Heights and Edgeworth [illegible], chairman of the ranking committee. Another reappointment includes P. G. Sullivan, P. A. A., as chairman of the sanction and schedule committee.

Chairman Frank Smith of the Western Pennsylvania Championships announced his tourney executive committee as follows: Phillips Davis, Austin Famatise, J. Howard Moore, John D. Beatty, W. McCook Reed, Robert C. Schmertz and Edward D. Seitz. Moore, veteran College avenue captain, has likewise been designated for the important post of official tournament referee.

Y. M. H. A. GETS BERTH

The lone new outfit inducted into the association at last night's seance is the Y. M. & W. H. A., which will sponsor a second division squad under the guidance of H. J. Milton and J. G. Tucker.

The association, in response to request from C. Lawrence Walsh, director of athletics in the Pittsburgh Public Schools, promised to place up a three-year trophy symbolic of the City High School team championship to be awarded to the survivor of the city sections of the lately formed Interscholastic Tennis Conference.

Tightening of Inter-Club League rules of play was the keynote of a measure adopted requiring prompt setting of dates for play-off of matches postponed because of bad weather. Reduced club assessments were ratified for the new fiscal year and a special associate membership for clubs to be admitted from outside of Allegheny County was created.

Nick Altrock

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 12.—Well, Griff has given that annual 14-karat baseball pass to President Hoover, and you have to give him credit for not going off the gold standard. In a year like this Griff might have got away with slipping the President a pass made of tin or pewter, but no, he has it made up in gold as usual.

Of course, Mr. Hoover don't need that pass any more than a paid-up card to a speakeasy. Because if he should show up at the park and find he'd left the pass at home on the mantelpiece, why he still could breeze right through the turnstile like One Eyed Connelly, without sending in word for the manager to get him through the gate.

So give Griff all kinds of credit for spreading himself this year.

The [illegible] broadcast, featuring the presence of President and Mrs. Hoover, was broadcast and Chuck was listening in. A pair of former Pirates formed the winning battery in the slab duel between Gen. Crowder and Danny MacFayden. Crowder was received by Roy Spencer. The gent who did the catching for the defeated team is none other than Charley Berry, football mentor at Grove City College.

When an athlete is pleased at a transfer from a world championship outfit to a potential tailender the mood reflects a bad taste as between said athlete and his employer. Chick Hafey seems not at all disappointed in the swap that sends him from the high-flyin' Cardinals to the Reds. Perhaps he will receive more money as he plays for the lowly tribe than he would had he remained with the champs.

Manager Dan Howley appears to have assembled a galaxy of [illegible] for Dan, the lively ball has been taken out of the game and fellows like Hafey, Herman, Grantham and others may not be so successful as they have been during the reign of the rabbit. Moreover, the club swingers who perform in Redland Field have to give the ball a fearful ride before it leaves the park.

SCHOOL NINES IDLE TODAY

By JULIUS LEVIN

Snow and cold weather prevented the opening games in the senior and junior divisions of the City High School League this afternoon.

C. Lawrence Walsh, supervisor of athletics in the city high schools, announced the postponement early this afternoon.

While the baseball teams are idle the basketball squads will continue their [illegible] indoors. In the senior group Westinghouse meets Fifth Avenue at Peabody, while Allderdice engages South at Fifth Avenue.

Westinghouse meets Latimer at Latimer and Langley plays Allderdice at Fifth Avenue in junior matches.

Yesterday Allderdice and Fifth Avenue scored victories in the senior group. Fifth defeated Allegheny 15-5, 17-19, 15-4, while Allderdice defeated Langley 15-8, 15-5.

Langley defeated Liberty 15-11, 15-3; Westinghouse defeated Overbrook 15-11, 15-7, and Latimer won from Gladstone by default of [illegible] games.

FRACTURED JAW FAILS TO STOP LEN HAWKINS

By JESS CARVER

Cecil Leonard Hawkins, West Virginia's rangy and hard punching light-heavyweight boxing star, captain of the Mountaineer squad and Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Conference 175-pound champion, isn't going to let a little matter of a fractured jaw keep him from making the U. S. Olympic ring team or from at least trying for a berth.

Big Len, who, by the way, isn't crazy to have the folks call him Cecil, won his first round bout at the Olympic tryouts at State College last week, but in the last round caught a wild swing on the side of the face and after the bout discovered he had a fractured jaw, necessitating his forfeiting in the second round. He exhibited so much class in his victory that he was named on the Olympic tryout squad despite the fact that he was kept out of the semi-final and finals.

The Tipoff

Ellwood City thought it had Buff Donelli, Duquesne University's freshman football and basketball coach, signed as all sports coach at the high school, but Buff decided he'd be better off stickin' with the Dukes, so he turned down Ellwood's offer. Now the school board is dickering with Stanzy Benedict, another former Duquesne luminary, who at present is coach at St. Joseph's High School in that city. Stanzy's basketball team won 73 out of 76 games during the past season.

Ralph Harden, former Aliquippa High School basketball star, who has been out of school for three years, may enter either Geneva or Westminster next fall. Harden is a crackerjack performer, capable of winning a berth in any varsity squad in the district.

Wash-Jeff and Penn State may meet on the gridiron in 1934. Acting Athletic Director Pete Henry and Bob Higgins, State's football coach, talked matters over last week during the Olympic collegiate boxing tryouts and a meeting in 1934 was proposed. If a date can be arranged to suit, the game is expected to go through.

LOCAL PINSTERS WIN PRIZES IN DETROIT

DETROIT, April 12.—Bowlers from the Greater Pittsburgh District carried off a goodly share of the prize money in the annual American Bowling Congress tournament which came to a close here yesterday.

The last wave of doubles and singles bowlers late yesterday failed to disclose the topnotchers. Charley Daw and Frank Benkovic, of Milwaukee, emerged as the doubles champions by virtue of their combined 1,358. It won for them a diamond medal apiece and $500 in cash.

Long's Sport Comment

his way in the evenings by refereeing at the various amateur glove meets.

ORSINI IS A full-time member of the faculty at Pitt, and at the same time is working for his degree. He is better than a B student himself and sees no reason at all why others can't make the same mark.

Joe made a start in the pro boxing ranks, but gave that up after a fair beginning, and now is never seen inside the ropes except in his capacity as referee, a job, by the way, at which he excels, having received favorable comment wherever he has worked.

Joe Orsini

ORSINI DOES NOT hesitate to stop a bout when he thinks that one of the contestants is taking too severe a beating, for he firmly believes that allowing a fighter to continue on nerve alone is the reason why so many ring performers become punch drunk. The Pitt mentor has seen the game as an amateur, as a pro, as a referee and as a coach, and declares he will take the college scrappers any time. The latter seldom fail to please, he says, and it is a treat to watch them in competition, though there are not so many slam-bang affairs as in non-collegiate amateur bouts, the collegians being more careful and having the advantage of good coaches, who endeavor to make them strive for good form rather than for mere slugging success.

FILIPINO EASY FOR YAROSZ

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor

Vincent Hambright, Filipino welterweight, of Cincinnati, proved a mediocre tuneup opponent for Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, in the main bout at Motor Square Garden last night following Ted's layoff because of a re-broken right hand. Ted won away off by himself despite the fact that he winced from the use of the bad fist from the seventh round on.

In only two rounds, the seventh and the ninth, did Hambright make any sort of a showing, and then he managed to find the mark with some of his wide swings, causing Ted to slow down momentarily and hold on. It was a tame affair, with Yarosz continually circling about and scoring at long range as he kept Hambright from lining him up for punches. There were no knockdowns and little if anything developed for the fans to get excited about.

Hambright weighed 146 pounds and Yarosz 149½.

PRELIMS

Mose Butch, local southpaw, 121, won by a technical knockout over Lew Franklin, of Philadelphia, whom he outweighed six and one-half pounds, when the referee called a halt after two knockdowns for counts of nine in the third round.

The referee and physician combined to stop the scheduled eight-round second bout when Sammy Chernoff, of New York, 129½, suffered a slight cut over his left eye late in the second round. The crowd booed the decision not to permit Chernoff, who was outweighed nine pounds, to come up for the third round against Louie Severo, of Meadville, who had an edge while the bout lasted.

Pat Leavy, Braddock Negro, making his professional debut, was knocked out in the third round by Eddie Guba, of Clairton, subbing for Danny Dundee, who was ruled out when he scaled in at 154 pounds against only 137 for Leavy. Guba weighed 141½.

BOXERS POORLY MATCHED

In the matter of weight, the boxers, aside from the windup principals, were the poorest matched of the season here.

The next show at the Garden will be staged on May 2, the food show occupying the premises from April 18 to 30, inclusive.

Toronto Fans Boo Maxie's Exhibition

TORONTO, Ont., April 12.—(INS)—Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, who will defend his title against Jack Sharkey in June, was a bit shaken today by the unfavorable reception he received at the opening of his exhibition tour here last night.

Thirty-five hundred fans booed the German vociferously as he sparred three slow rounds with sparring partners. He appeared to weigh more than his announced poundage of 194 pounds, was a bit slow and his timing was poor.

Schmeling punched Solly Weisberger, of New York, and Pedro Lopez, of Mexico, around the ring, but was extended by Jack Shaw, of New York, who made him miss badly.

Between Rounds

The boxing show carded at the Moose Temple tomorrow night, with Jimmy Thomas boxing Johnny Erickson and Jackie Wilson meeting Oscar Goldman in two 10-round bouts, has been called off. The only professional show remaining in the district, therefore, is the Battling Gizzi-Jackie [illegible] affair at the [illegible] Arena Friday night.

Maxie Strub meets Ottie Mosher in a 10-round return bout in Erie Friday night. Young Rudy was to box Charley Champness in the semi-final, but passed up the bout. He has a match in the making against Jimmy Belmont here. Freddie Fells and Eddie Pierzewski are in a preliminary of the Erie show.

Joe Ghnouly boxes Frenchy Kaiser and Jackie Horner meets Duke Trammel in 10-round bouts in St. Louis next Monday night. Dave Petry will appear in one of the preliminaries.

George Godfrey, the Negro heavyweight boxer-wrestler, meets Cyclone Jack Burke in a mat bout in Lorain, O., tomorrow night.

Entries from all over the tri-state district have been received for the Golden Gloves amateur tournament to be held in the Moose Temple Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. Entries close tomorrow night.

Outdoor amateur bouts will be held this summer by the Harvey A. C., of Beaver Falls. The Italian Civic Club of Meadville will promote monthly amateur shows in its city.

IMPORTANT MATTERS TO CONSIDER WITH RESPECT TO YOUR ESTATE

Financial Responsibility in an Executor

WHEN choosing an Executor to administer your estate, it is wise to bear in mind the fact that, in addition to the qualifications of experience, good judgment and impartiality which the dependable Executor should have, his financial responsibility is a factor which should not be overlooked.

The financial responsibility he is able to offer may affect in a great degree the efficiency and economy of his administration.

An institution like The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, acting as Executor, offers financial responsibility that is ample to assure the greatest protection of any estate, no matter what its size.

STOCK MARKET LOSES EARLY ADVANCES

Selling Shows Signs of Abating; Rail Issues Hard Hit; Steel Off

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP).—The stock market again refused to be deflected from its downward trend today, although selling showed signs of abating.

Coincident with vague rumors of constructive developments [illegible] Washington, the [illegible] the [illegible] ward [illegible] showing [illegible]

Santa Fe [illegible] slumping [illegible] losses of [illegible] in Union Pacific, New York Central, Southern Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line. Santa Fe had started the day with a [illegible] advance [illegible] the firmer price [illegible] Standard of New Jersey was persistently offered and lost about 2 points [illegible] that the annual report would show 1931 earnings of less than $1.40 a share. Several of the [illegible] utilities and [illegible] better than recently. Early advances of a point or 2 in United States Steel, General Motors, American Telephone and American Can were lost, but these issues sagged but slightly under yesterday's final prices.

It was suggested in some quarters that the fresh selling may have been in part a response to the figures on the short position disclosed in Washington by President Whitney of the exchange. These figures indicated a moderate shrinkage in the number of shares [illegible] during the first week in April despite the decline in prices. This theoretically at least indicated that the cushion [illegible] buying by the shorts had been reduced, thus weakening the market's technical position.

While [illegible] generally [illegible] over the [illegible] market [illegible] had [illegible] that a rebound must be in the making and advised that the bear side be avoided. Some even suggested cautious buying. Mr. Whitney's statement in Washington that recent liquidation represented a public effort to give the United States away occasioned considerable favorable comment in brokerage quarters. Nevertheless uncertainty over congressional moves and the belief that further sharp reductions in dividends will be seen in coming months left Wall street in a cautious frame of mind.

WHEAT SLIDES AFTER RISE

CHICAGO, April 12.—With drought unabated grain prices made a material new advance early today. One report from Dodge City, Kan., said that in a wide circle [illegible] Guymon, Okla., there was barely 40 per cent of a wheat stand, and that in a stretch of 50 miles scarcely a single field promised to be harvested. Opening ⅛ off to ¼ up, wheat afterward rose all around. Corn started unchanged to ⅛ off and subsequently advanced.

After a rise of about 1 cent a bushel, however, reactions took the wheat market back to around yesterday's finish. The sag was ascribed largely to profit-taking on the part of recent buyers. It was pointed out that the market had risen 7 cents in the last few days and that setbacks under such circumstances were natural.

FORM INSULL COMMITTEE

CHICAGO, April 12 (INS).—A committee has been appointed to represent the interests of security holders in connection with the proposed reorganization of three subsidiaries of the Middle West Utilities Company which defaulted on their interest payments due April 1.

The companies involved are the United Public Service Company, United Public Utilities Company and the Southern United Gas Company. All are Insull concerns.

Ralph A. Bard, president of the Chicago Investors' Corporation, heads the committee. Other members are Thompson Ross, Josiah Macy, James P. Hale and F. F. Kruest.

A statement to security holders said the committee was formed to establish a definite program for handling problems that may arise in connection with the proposed reorganization of the companies and to have interest defaults made good, if possible.

CHICAGO, April 12 (AP).—The Tribune said today a new concern backed by new capital is to supplant the Utilities Securities Company with its activities confined to distributing the securities of the various Insull interests.

BROKER URGES SALES TAX

NEW YORK, April 12 (INS).—America has nothing to fear from the sinister campaign against the American dollar now being waged by a group of unscrupulous European speculators, said Jules S. Bache, well-known Wall street banker and head of the banking house of J. S. Bache & Co., to International News Service today.

Bache sounded a warning against the present political and economic tendencies which encourage such attacks upon the American dollar by French and other speculative operators and declared that the speedy balancing of the federal budget was the first essential to the recuperation of domestic industry and trade.

He declared:

"Nothing can take the dollar off the gold standard except unwise legislation at this critical period. In my opinion the sales tax is the only feature that can stabilize the present unfortunate budget situation. There is little doubt in my mind that Congress will adopt it before adjournment."

Lone Star Scores Small Gain as Pressure Lifts; Air Brake, Electric Up

Prices were steady to firm in the early dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, with the trading volume showing further contraction. Lone Star Gas showed a firmer tone in the early market, with a fractional advance which carried the stock a full point above the low established in the wave of selling near the end of last week.

Relief from the heavy pressure which bore down on Lone Star Gas last week appeared to be reflected in the entire market. Over 50,000 shares of Lone Star were handled on the local exchange last week while about 23,000 more changed hands on the New York Curb. Lone Star preferred, which had not appeared in the market since last Tuesday, sold today at 70⅞, as against 75 on the previous sale.

The industrials were steady with volume considerably reduced. Air Brake and Westinghouse Electric were both up fractionally at the start. Harbison Walker was in new low ground at $8 a share, off two points from its last previous sale, recorded two weeks ago.

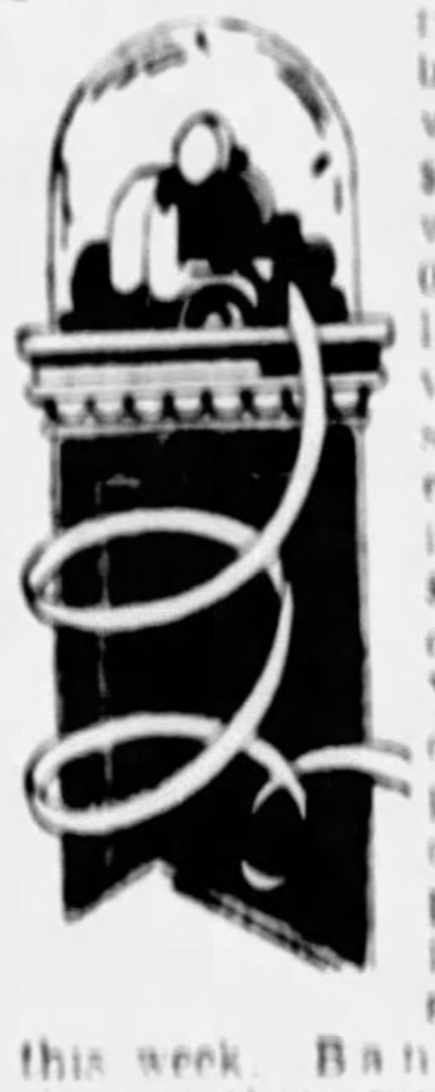
Reserve Report Shows Continued Liquidation Of Loans



Liquidation of loans and investments on a rather substantial scale is still going on, judging from changes shown in this week's consolidated condition statement of reporting member banks. Loans were cut by $151,000,000, of which $106,000,000 resulted from liquidation of advances backed by security collateral. Of the drop in security loans $70,000,000 occurred in New York while Chicago, which reported a sharp curtailment the preceding week, increased such advances slightly this week. Banks continued to shorten their investment in government bonds, reducing such holdings to $38,000,000, while investments in other securities increased by $8,000,000. Deposits, including government deposits, were down rather sharply, reflecting chiefly the shrinkage in loans.

Explanation for the selling which has been evident in the oil shares as a group recently is afforded by the weekly figures on crude production. The advance in quoted prices for crude in the mid-continent area evidently has acted as spur to output as might have been anticipated. The rise in crude output no doubt can be ascribed partially to seasonal conditions, but the indicated increase of 65,000 barrels a day in rate of output is by far the largest reported for any week since last summer.

On the showing of March quarter earning statements so far issued, Wall street has little reason for revising its estimate that the figures, by and large, will make a decidedly poor comparison with those of the first quarter of 1931. The statements of some of the larger corporations will begin making their appearance within the next week or two.

Lester N. Selig, president of the General American Tank Car Company, said today he was "fairly confident" that his company would pay a dividend in June, but he would not try to predict the amount. The company operated at a profit in the first quarter, but probably did not earn the $1 dividend for the second period, he said.

Stockholders of Northern Pacific Railway Company, meeting in annual session today, were told by the president, Charles Donnelly, that the directors' recent decision to put the dividend on a semi-annual basis had been prompted by declines in the road's earnings and those of Chicago, Burlington and Quincy. Northern Pacific receives substantial payments yearly from its holdings of Burlington stock. Mr. Donnelly ventured no opinion as to what dividend action would be taken at the board's June meeting, merely informing the stockholders that the question would receive consideration at that time.

President Frank R. Warren, of the W. F. Hall Printing Company, informed the annual meeting of stockholders that earnings since the beginning of the year indicated continuance of dividends on common stock. He said a change from quarterly to semi-annual dividends was made solely to enable directors to have accurate forecasts of earning upon which to base dividend action, and should not be construed as any intention to omit or pass dividends.

EUROPEAN TOBACCO OUTPUT

European tobacco production, excluding Russia, in 1931 declined about 14 per cent below that of the previous year, J. B. Huston, tobacco specialist of the Department of Agriculture reports. Available information indicates the decline in consumption in 1931 in continental Europe was about as great as the decline in production "and there are no recent developments that indicate an immediate improvement in consumption," Huston declares.

NORTH AMERICAN COMPANY

Electric output of North American Company subsidiaries for the 12 months ended March 31 showed a decrease of 4.33 per cent as compared with the preceding 12 months, Frank L. Dame, president, reported today. For the first quarter output was off 3.75 per cent.

SIMMONS COMPANY

C. G. Simmons, heretofore president of Simmons Company, has been elected chairman of the board, a newly created office. Grant G. Simmons, former secretary, treasurer and vice president, was elected president.

Forbes

Have Wealthy Owners Dumped Their Stock?

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

A SENSATION was created yesterday when the ticker printed what purported to be a list of the stockholdings of the directors and chief executives of the Electric Bond & Share Company as listed in their own names.

Sidney Z. Mitchell, the powerful utility leader who heads the company, was represented as owning less than 9,000 shares and all the others combined less than 2,000 shares.

It frequently happens that rich men do not carry in their own names stocks owned by them. They employ nominees, what Wall Street calls "dummies."

If the figures published do not give an accurate picture it most assuredly behooves those in control of Electric Bond & Share to give the public the full facts.

Nothing would be more calculated to arouse public indignation than revelations that the foremost financiers, capitalists, industrialists, utility leaders and others influential in the financial and business world had dumped their security holdings on the public during the distressing times the nation has been struggling through. There was no lack of encouragement from high places for the public to buy stocks when prices were five or ten or twenty times their present prices. The public did buy.

We hear a lot about this, that and the next wealthy man having been totally ruined financially. And unquestionably there have been many such financial fatalities.

There is much talk, too, of this, that and the next prominent man having rolled up millions of selling short. In normal times short selling is generally regarded as ethical. But any rich man who has waxed richer through knocking security values to still lower and more disastrous depths at a time when the nation has been prostrate and unemployment multiplying appallingly is not likely to be regarded by the American people as patriotic.

Prompt publication of facts on these matters might teach some of our pseudo patriots a salutary lesson.

Many Companies Found Market Operations in Their Own Stocks Costly

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

CORPORATIONS WHICH bought their own stocks during the past year have experienced large losses on most of these commitments. A few weeks ago the inadvisable features of purchases of this kind in most cases were discussed in this column.

Edward B. Smith & Co. have completed a tabulation of the results of the operations of a large number of leading industrial corporations in their own stocks. The survey shows that, disregarding the inroads made on working capital and other undesirable features of these purchases, large losses have been shown on the basis of present market values.

For investment, to support the market, for retirement, for employe stock purchase plans have been given as some of the reasons for these operations.

* * *

Operations at Losses In Nearly All Cases

THE STUDY DECLARES that with but few exceptions operations carried on for the first three purposes have been extremely unprofitable in the light of present prices and in the case of the last many corporations have found it necessary to assume the losses on employe subscriptions to company shares contracted at considerably higher levels. Of those companies whose annual reports have been reviewed, the indicated losses run as high as $6,000,000; a loss of approximately this amount is shown for Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company.

A few companies show profits on their holdings even at existing low levels for the averages.

* * *

Shrinkage Shown By Most Companies

THE COMPILATION WAS made as of March 31. Since that time there has been a large shrinkage in the prices of many of the stocks in addition to the losses shown. Among the outstanding companies included in the survey were:

No. 105

AN ORDINANCE Authorizing the execution of a contract with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in connection with the extension of Mt. Washington roadway from its present terminus to a point at or near South Ninth street.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works be and they are hereby authorized and directed to enter into a contract with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in the following language:

THIS AGREEMENT

MADE AND ENTERED INTO this ...... day of ......, 1932, between the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, hereinafter called "Railroad," and the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, hereinafter called "City."

WHEREAS, The City intends to extend the Mount Washington roadway from its present terminus at or near the junction of Manor street and Arlington avenue, to a point near South Ninth street, and in so doing it is necessary to cross the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company by a bridge and to [illegible] the City [illegible] certain property now owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and

WHEREAS, Certain plans have been prepared showing the exact location of said Mt. Washington roadway and its relation to the property of the railroad and the bridge which will be a part of the said roadway, said plans being on file in the office of the Department of Public Works, Bureau of Engineering of the City, being Plan No. 2425 of the Division of Surveys, Plan No. A-2651, Sheet 3 of 12, Division of Design, and Plan No. F-4157 of the Division of Bridges and Structures, which latter plan shows the general structure plan of the bridge, clearances and property of the railroad to be used and/or acquired.

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS AGREED BETWEEN THE PARTIES HERETO AS FOLLOWS:

1. The recited plans are made a part of this agreement as if attached thereto.

2. The Railroad agrees:

(a) That it will execute and deliver a deed or deeds conveying all the right, title and interest of the Railroad Company in and to all the following described parcels of land, as shown by parcel numbers 1, 2, 4 and 5 on said plan or plans.

(c) It is fully understood and agreed that the Railroad Company may reserve in said deed or deeds the right from time to time to extend, construct and maintain adequate slopes over and upon said parcels Nos. 1, 2, 4 and 5 for the purpose of protecting or supporting the tracks and roadbed of the Railroad Company at the established grade thereof. The Railroad Company shall not be required to procure the release of liens of any of its corporate mortgages or judgments against the said lands and that it shall not warrant against said liens.

(d) To permit the City to have access to said bridge over its property for the purpose of inspection, maintenance, repairs or reconstruction at all reasonable times during the existence of said bridge.

(e) To permit the City to construct and maintain, repair and renew at its own expense a 15-inch storm sewer from the proposed roadway to the south end of the existing concrete culvert under the tracks of the Railroad approximately 360 feet west of the center of South Seventh street, provided that the City agrees to construct and maintain, repair and renew at its own expense an additional 20-inch storm sewer from the south end of the above mentioned concrete culvert in a northerly direction across the property of the Railroad to a connection with the main sewer in Carson street, said storm sewers to be as shown on plan No. A-2651, sheet 3 of 12; the Railroad shall have the right at all times to make connections with the above mentioned sewers if it so desires.

3. The City agrees:

(a) That it will enact all ordinances necessary to carry into effect this agreement and to enable the City to proceed with the construction of said extension of Mt. Washington roadway.

(b) That it will fully complete the work within the lines as shown on said plans and will thereafter, at its sole cost and expense, maintain, repair and renew the same; that the bridge structure crossing the tracks of the railroad shall be at an elevation to provide a clearance of 22 feet above the top of the rails; that the specifications and plans for the work shall be submitted to the chief engineer of the Central Region of the Pennsylvania Railroad and his approval obtained before doing any of the said work.

(c) To pay the Railroad the sum of $100,000.00 in full compensation for the lands and easements to be conveyed as aforesaid upon delivery of said deeds.

(d) That it will exercise the greatest care and require any of its contractors to exercise the greatest care during all of the work herein contemplated for protection of trains, cars, and locomotives and other property of the railroad or property in its custody, as well as the employes, patrons and licensees of the railroad, to the intent that no loss, damage or injury shall occur thereto, and it shall require its contractor engaged in constructing said bridge and its supports upon, over and across the tracks and property owned or used by the Railroad, before the commencement of said work and until the completion thereof, to furnish and provide without expense to the Railroad public liability and property insurance in the amount of five hundred thousand dollars, protecting both the city and railroad as their respective interests may appear from loss, cost, damage and expense and claims and demands therefor to persons and property, caused by or in any manner growing out of the construction of said bridge and its supports, or attributable as a proximate cause to the fault, failure or negligence of said contractor.

4. The Railroad shall have the right to employ such flagmen and watchmen (who shall hereunder be construed as employes of the City) as it may deem necessary for the protection of its traffic and property during the construction of the said foundations and piers, and the said bridge over and across the tracks and property of the Railroad, and the City agrees to pay to the railroad upon the presentation of certified bills the entire cost and expense of such flagmen and watchmen.

5. It is further agreed between the parties hereto that the Railroad shall make application to and procure certificate of convenience from the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, evidencing its approval of this contract, and shall solely pay the filing fee therefor to said commission, and the City shall make application to and procure certificate of convenience from said commission evidencing its approval of the crossing involved in this contract and shall solely pay the filing fee therefor.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties to this agreement have caused the same to be duly executed by their proper officers the day and year first above written, the Railroad pursuant to a resolution of its board of directors dated ......, 1931, and the City pursuant to an ordinance of Council of the same approved by the Mayor and recorded in Ordinance Book, Vol. ...., page .....

No. 106

AN ORDINANCE Regulating traffic upon the highways and parks of the City of Pittsburgh and providing the procedure and penalties for and in connection with violations thereof.

ARTICLE I
SHORT TITLE AND DEFINITIONS

SECTION 101. Short Title.

Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That this ordinance shall be known and may be cited as "The Traffic Code."

SECTION 102. Definitions.

Wherever in this ordinance the following terms are used they shall have the meanings respectively ascribed to them in this section.

AUTHORIZED EMERGENCY VEHICLE. Vehicles of the Bureau of Fire, police vehicles, ambulances, and emergency vehicles of municipal departments or public service corporations as are designated or authorized by the Director of the Department of Public Safety and are marked as designated by the said director.

BUS OR COACH. A motor vehicle equipped to carry seven or more persons and engaged as a common carrier in the transportation of persons in either interstate or intrastate business or in both kinds of businesses.

BUSINESS DISTRICT. The territory contiguous to a highway when fifty per cent or more of the frontage thereon for a distance of three hundred (300) feet or more is occupied by buildings in use for business.

CENTRAL BUSINESS DISTRICT. All that territory included within the following limits:

Water street from Try street to the Point Bridge ramp, the Point Bridge ramp from Water street to the Manchester Bridge, the ramp leading from the Manchester Bridge to Duquesne way, Duquesne way from the Manchester Bridge ramp to Eleventh street, Eleventh street from Duquesne way to Liberty avenue, Liberty avenue from Eleventh street to Grant street, Grant street from Liberty avenue to Seventh avenue, Seventh avenue from Grant street to Bigelow boulevard, Bigelow boulevard from Seventh avenue to Washington place, Washington place from Bigelow boulevard to Fifth avenue, Fifth avenue from Washington place to Hooper street, Hooper street from Fifth avenue to Bluff street, Bluff street from Hooper street to the Boulevard of the Allies, Boulevard of the Allies from Bluff street to a point over Try street, Try street from a point under the Boulevard of the Allies to Water street. All boundary streets shall be considered as within the Central Business District.

CROSSWALK. That portion of a roadway ordinarily included within the prolongation of curb and property lines at intersections or any other portion of a roadway clearly indicated for pedestrian crossing by lines or other marks on the surface.

FREIGHT BUS ON CALL OR DEMAND. A vehicle engaged as a common carrier of freight in intrastate business and operating under a certificate of public convenience granted by the Public Service Commission of the State of Pennsylvania, or in interstate business, or in both kinds of businesses.

HIGHWAY. Every street, way or place of whatever nature open to the use of the public as a matter of right for purposes of vehicular travel. The term "highway" shall not be deemed to include a roadway or driveway upon grounds owned by private persons, colleges, universities or other institutions.

INTERSECTION. The area embraced within the prolongation of the lateral curb lines or, if none, then the lateral boundary lines of two or more highways which join one another at an angle, whether or not one such highway crosses the other.

MOTOR VEHICLE. Every vehicle, as herein defined, which is self-propelled.

OFFICIAL TRAFFIC SIGNALS. All signals not inconsistent with this ordinance placed or erected by authority of the City of Pittsburgh, its Director of the Department of Public Safety, or other official having jurisdiction for the purpose of directing, warning or regulating traffic.

PARKING. The standing of a vehicle, except police or fire department vehicles or ambulances, whether occupied or not, upon a highway otherwise than temporarily for the purpose of and while actually engaged in the loading and unloading of passengers or materials, or in obedience to traffic regulations or traffic signs or signals.

PEDESTRIAN. Any person afoot.

POLICE OFFICER. Every uniformed member of the Bureau of Police of the City of Pittsburgh authorized to direct or regulate traffic or to make arrests for violations of traffic regulations.

PRIVATE ROAD OR DRIVEWAY. Every road or driveway not open to the use of the public for purposes of vehicular travel.

RIGHT OF WAY. The privilege of the immediate use of the highway.

ROADWAY. That portion of a highway between the regularly established curb lines or that part improved and intended to be used for vehicular travel.

SAFETY ZONES. The area or space officially set apart within a roadway for the exclusive use of pedestrians and which is protected or is so marked or indicated by adequate signs as to be plainly visible at all times while set apart as a safety zone.

SIDEWALK. That portion of a highway between the curb lines and adjacent property lines or that part devoted laterally to pedestrian travel.

SIGN. Any device, mark, marker, board, plate or other contrivance designed for the purpose of guiding traffic or informing of a traffic regulation.

STREET. A highway where the roadway exceeds twenty (20) feet in width. The term "street" shall not be deemed to include a roadway or driveway upon grounds owned by private persons, corporations, colleges, universities or other institutions.

STREET CAR. Every device traveling exclusively upon rails when upon or crossing a highway, other than cars or trains propelled or moved by steam.

TAXICAB. A licensed public vehicle for hire designed and constructed to seat not more than seven persons and operating as a common carrier on call or demand.

TAXICAB CRUISING. Taxicab cruising is hereby defined to be the driving of any taxicab upon highways, except in the actual carriage of a passenger for hire, or except in driving to a specific location in answer to a bona fide call from a prospective passenger for hire, or except in going directly to the first authorized taxicab stand in his line of travel then unoccupied or partially unoccupied, or to a privately owned lot or garage used as the place of business or storage of such taxicab by the owner thereof. It shall further be considered to be the movement of taxicabs through highways in search of passengers so that the same point is passed twice in thirty minutes.

TIME STANDARD. Wherever hours are mentioned in this Ordinance they shall be construed to mean Eastern Standard Time or Daylight Saving Time as the same may be in current use in the City of Pittsburgh.

TRAFFIC. Pedestrians, ridden animals, herded animals, vehicles, street cars and other conveyances either singly or together while using any highway for purposes of travel.

TRAFFIC CONTROL SIGNAL. Any device, or a combination thereof, using words or colored lights, whether manually, electrically or mechanically operated, by which traffic is alternately directed to stop and proceed.

VEHICLE. Every device in, upon or by which any person or property is or may be transported or drawn upon a highway, except devices moved by human power or used exclusively upon stationary rails or tracks.

WAY. A highway the roadway of which does not exceed twenty (20) feet in width.

ARTICLE II
AUTHORITY OF POLICE

SECTION 201. Police to Direct Traffic.

IT SHALL be the duty of the police to enforce the provisions of this Ordinance, provided that in the event of a fire or other emergency or to expedite traffic or safeguard pedestrians, officers of the Police or Fire Bureaus may direct traffic notwithstanding the provisions of this ordinance.

SECTION 202. Emergency Regulations.

THE DIRECTOR of the Department of Public Safety is hereby empowered to make and enforce regulations necessary to make effective the provisions of this ordinance and to make and enforce temporary regulations to cover emergencies or special conditions.

SECTION 203. Obedience to Police.

IT SHALL be unlawful for any person to refuse or fail to comply with any lawful order, signal or direction of a police officer.

SECTION 204. Public Employes to Obey Traffic Regulations.

THE PROVISIONS of this ordinance shall apply to the driver of any vehicle owned by or used in the service of the United States government, this state, county or city, and it shall be unlawful for any said driver to violate any of the provisions of this ordinance, except as permitted in this ordinance.

SECTION 205. Exemptions to Authorized Emergency Vehicles.

THE PROVISIONS of this ordinance regulating the movement, parking and standing of vehicles shall not apply to authorized emergency vehicles, as defined in this ordinance, while the driver of such vehicle is operating the same in an emergency in the necessary performance of his duties. This exemption shall not, however, protect the driver of any such vehicle from the consequences of a reckless disregard of the safety of others.

SECTION 206. Persons Propelling Push Carts or Riding Bicycles or Animals to Obey Traffic Regulations.

EVERY person propelling any push cart or riding a bicycle or an animal upon a roadway, and every person driving or leading any animal shall be subject to the provisions of this ordinance applicable to the driver of any vehicle except those provisions of this ordinance with reference to the equipment of vehicles.

SECTION 207. Police Whistle Meanings.

WHENEVER a police officer's command conflicts with the meaning of traffic equipment, obedience shall be given to the officer. When a police whistle is used the traffic indicated by the officer shall come to a stop when the officer gives one blast of the whistle and proceed when two blasts are given.

ARTICLE III
TRAFFIC SIGNS AND SIGNALS

SECTION 301. Traffic Signs and Signals.

(a) The Director of the Department of Public Safety is authorized and directed to have placed and maintained official traffic signs and signals, provided that whenever the erection or installation of traffic signs and signals involves cutting into the surface of any roadway, the approval of the Department of Public Works shall be obtained prior to the carrying out of the work, and provided further that whenever the use of any new type of traffic equipment is proposed which will involve cutting into the surface of the roadway, the approval of the City Council and of the Department of Public Works shall be obtained.

(b) All official traffic signs and signals, except markings, shall bear the insignia "Pittsburgh Department of Public Safety" or abbreviation thereof.

(c) The Director of the Department of Public Safety is hereby authorized, and as to those signs and signals required hereunder it shall be his duty, to place and maintain or cause to be placed and maintained all official traffic signs and signals.

(d) No provision of this ordinance for which signs are required shall be enforced against an alleged violator if at the time and place of the alleged violation the sign herein required is not in proper position and sufficiently legible to be seen by an ordinarily observant person. Whenever a particular section does not state that signs are required, such section shall be effective without signs being erected to give notice thereof.

SECTION 302. Traffic Signal Interpretations.

(a) It shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle or other conveyance or for the motorman of any street car to disobey the directions of any traffic signal placed in accordance with the provisions of Article III, Section 301 of this ordinance unless otherwise directed by officers of the Police or Fire Bureaus.

(b) Whenever traffic at an intersection is alternately directed to stop and go by the use of traffic signals, the words or colored lights or combinations thereof shall indicate as follows:

1. Green or "Go." Traffic facing the signal may proceed straight ahead and make right or left turns, except where no such turns are permitted when so indicated by proper signs. Vehicular traffic shall yield the right of way to pedestrians crossing or who have started to cross the roadway on the green signal and vehicles lawfully within a crosswalk or the intersection at the time such signal was exhibited.

2. Yellow or "Caution" when shown alone. Traffic facing the signal shall stop before entering the nearest crosswalk at the intersection and no movement of traffic shall be made except the traffic then within the intersection and a "U" turn on a two-way street back of the intersection when so indicated by proper signs.

3. Yellow or "Caution" when shown with Green or "Go." Vehicular traffic shall be governed as indicated for the Green or "Go" signal when shown alone. Pedestrian traffic shall be governed as indicated for the Yellow or "Caution" signal when shown alone.

4. Red or "Stop." Traffic facing the signal shall stop before entering the nearest crosswalk at the intersection, and remain standing until Green or "Go" is shown alone. No movement or turns shall be lawful on Red or "Stop," except that [illegible] turns may be made [illegible] way back of the intersection when so indicated by proper signs.

5. Flashing Yellow. A signal when illuminated by rapid intermittent yellow flashes shall indicate "Caution."

6. Flashing Red. A signal when illuminated by rapid intermittent red flashes shall require the driver of any vehicle or other conveyance and motormen of street cars to observe the same regulations as for Through Stop signs and signs at Stop intersections as provided in this ordinance.

Section 303. Display of Unauthorized Signs and Signals Prohibited.

IT SHALL be unlawful for any unauthorized person to place or maintain or to display upon or in view of any highway any sign, signal or device which purports to be or is an imitation of or resembles an official sign or signal, or which attempts to direct the movement of traffic, and no person shall place or maintain any sign which hides from view or interferes with the effectiveness of any official sign or signal. Every such prohibited sign, signal or device is hereby declared to be a public nuisance and the Director of the Department of Public Safety is hereby empowered to remove the same or cause it to be removed without notice.

SECTION 304. Interference With Signs and Signals Prohibited.

IT SHALL be unlawful for any person willfully to deface, injure, move, obstruct or interfere with any official traffic sign or signal.

SECTION 305. Cross Walks, Authority to Designate.

THE DIRECTOR of the Department of Public Safety is authorized to establish and have maintained by appropriate devices, marks or lines upon the surface of the roadway, crosswalks at intersections and at other places where he may deem necessary for the protection of pedestrians.

SECTION 306. Safety Zones and Lanes for Traffic, Authority to Designate.

(a) The Director of the Department of Public Safety is hereby empowered to establish safety zones of such kind and character and at such places as he may deem necessary for the protection of pedestrians, provided that whenever the erection or installation of a safety zone involves cutting into the surface of the roadway, the approval of the Department of Public Works shall be obtained prior to the carrying out of the work, and further that whenever any new design of safety zone is proposed the approval of the City Council, and of the Department of Public Works shall be obtained.

(b) The Director of the Department of Public Safety is authorized to have lanes for traffic marked upon any highway and to designate lanes for traffic moving in a particular direction or at designated speeds.

ARTICLE IV
PEDESTRIANS' RIGHTS AND DUTIES

SECTION 401. Overtaking Vehicle Must Stop at Intersection to Permit Pedestrians to Cross.

WHENEVER any vehicle has stopped at a marked crosswalk or at any intersection to permit a pedestrian to cross the roadway, the driver of any other vehicle approaching from the rear shall not overtake and pass such stopped vehicle.

SECTION 402. Pedestrians' Rights and Duties at Controlled Intersections.

ON HIGHWAYS where traffic at intersections is controlled by traffic signals or by police officers, pedestrians shall not cross a roadway against a red or "stop" signal, and between adjacent intersections so controlled shall not cross at any place except in a crosswalk. A pedestrian crossing or starting across in any such crosswalk on a green or "Go" signal shown alone, shall have the right of way over all vehicles, including those making turns, until such pedestrian has reached the opposite curb or a safety zone, and it shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle or other conveyance or the motorman of any street car to fail to yield the right of way to any such pedestrian.

SECTION 403. Pedestrians to Use Right Half of Crosswalks.

PEDESTRIANS shall move whenever practicable upon the right half of crosswalks.

SECTION 404. Pedestrians Soliciting Rides.

IT SHALL be unlawful for any person to stand in a roadway for the purpose of soliciting a ride from the driver of any private vehicle.

STREET CARS AND RAILROAD TRAINS

SECTION 501. Operation of Street Car on Approach of Authorized Emergency Vehicle.

UPON THE approach of any authorized emergency vehicle or vehicles giving audible signal by bell, siren or compression or spark plug whistle, the motorman of every street car shall immediately stop such car clear of any intersection and keep it in such position until the authorized emergency vehicle or vehicles shall have passed, unless otherwise directed by a police officer.

SECTION 502. Driving on Street Car Tracks.

(a) It shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle proceeding upon any street car tracks in front of a street car upon a highway to fail to remove such vehicle from the tracks as soon as practicable after signal from the motorman of said street car.

(b) When a street car has started to cross an intersection no driver shall drive upon or across the car tracks within the intersection in front of the street car.

SECTION 503. Boarding or Alighting From Street Cars or Vehicles.

IT SHALL be unlawful for any person to board or alight from any street car or vehicle while it is in motion.

SECTION 504. Unlawful Riding.

WHEN ANY street car or vehicle is in motion no person shall ride upon any part of such street car or vehicle not designed or intended for the use of passengers. This provision shall not apply to an employe engaged in the necessary discharge of duty, or to persons riding within truck bodies in space intended for merchandise.

SECTION 505. Railway Trains and Street Cars Not to Block Highways.

IT SHALL be unlawful for the directing officer or the operator of any steam or street railway train or car to direct the operation of or to operate the same in such a manner as to prevent the use of any highway for purposes of travel for a period of time longer than five minutes, except that this provision shall not apply to trains or cars in motion other than those engaged in switching. It shall be unlawful for any street railway train or car to stop within an intersection or on a crosswalk for the purpose of receiving or discharging passengers.

SECTION 506. Street Car Stops.

STREET CARS shall stop to take on or discharge passengers only at such points as are approved by the Director of the Department of Public Safety.

ARTICLE VI
STOPPING, STANDING AND PARKING

SECTION 601. Sixty Day Trial of Regulations, Authority to Make.

THE DIRECTOR of the Department of Public Safety, by and with the consent of the Mayor, is hereby empowered to make a sixty day trial of any traffic regulation.

PROVIDED THAT in advance of its becoming effective, Council shall be notified in writing of such proposed regulation, with reasons for it, and provided that notice of such regulation by signs shall be given to the public in advance of its enforcement.

AFTER THE day the said regulation so becomes effective, it shall govern traffic for a period of sixty days thereafter, within which time there shall be introduced in Council an ordinance embodying such regulation or such part thereof as it may be desired to have continued in force, and such regulation as is embodied in such ordinance shall continue in force during such time as said ordinance shall be pending.

AND PROVIDING further, that if no ordinance embodying such regulation or any part thereof shall have been introduced in Council within said period of sixty days, or if any such ordinance shall fail of final enactment, then such regulation shall be no longer in force.

AND PROVIDED further, that Council may at any time rescind any such trial regulation by a written resolution presented to the Director of the Department of Public Safety. Upon receipt of such resolution, the Director shall immediately cause such regulation to be withdrawn and the regulation which applied prior to it, again enforced.

SECTION 602. Standing for Loading or Unloading Only in Certain Places.

(a) Subject to the provisions of Paragraph (b) of this section, the Director of the Department of Public Safety shall have authority to determine the location of passenger zones and loading zones. Appropriate signs shall indicate the location of such zones. Loading zones shall be effective only between the hours of 8:00 A. M. and 6:00 P. M. unless otherwise indicated by appropriate signs. Appropriate signs shall indicate the hours during which passenger zones are effective.

(b) Passenger and loading zones may be established at locations where parking is permitted, provided that no such zone shall be less than twenty-five (25) feet nor more than one hundred (100) feet in length, and that the total of the lengths of such zones on one side of a highway in any one block shall not exceed fifty (50) per cent of the block length. All such zones shall be for the use of the general public.

(c) It shall be unlawful for the driver of a vehicle to stop, stand or park such vehicle in any place marked as a passenger zone for a period of time longer than is necessary for the expeditious loading or unloading of passengers.

(d) It shall be unlawful for the driver of a vehicle to stop, stand or park such vehicle for a period of time longer than is necessary for the expeditious loading or unloading of passengers, or for the expeditious unloading and delivery or pick-up and loading of materials, in any place marked as a loading zone. In no case shall the stop for loading or unloading of materials exceed [illegible]

SECTION 603. Bus or Coach Stops to be Designated.

(a) The Director of the Department of Public Safety is authorized to [illegible] at such places and in such number as he shall determine to be of the greatest benefit and convenience to the public, and in no event shall any stop be made except where authorized in writing by the said Director, or in obedience to a traffic officer or to a traffic control signal, sign or marking, or to avoid an accident. The bus or coach company or companies [illegible] shall designate [illegible] signs or markings the location of such stops in a manner approved by the Director of the Department of Public Safety.

(b) From and after July 1, 1932, no driver of a motor bus or coach shall [illegible] such vehicle on any highway in a business district for a longer period of time than is necessary for the discharging or taking of passengers then ready to alight from or to board such bus or coach and for the expeditious loading of [illegible] permitted luggage, said time in no event to exceed five (5) minutes.

SECTION 604. Taxicab Standing and Operation of.

(a) Subject to the other provisions of this section, the Director of the Department of Public Safety is hereby authorized and required to establish taxicab stands on such highways in such places and in such manner as he shall determine to be of the greatest benefit and convenience to the public. Every such taxicab stand shall be designated by appropriate signs. All taxicab stands shall be open to any duly licensed taxicab.

(b) From and after July 1, 1932, no taxicab stand shall be permitted on any highway or at any location on any highway, when and where parking is prohibited.

(c) Any future prohibition of parking on any highway or at any location on any highway shall forthwith cancel any previous permit for a taxicab stand on such highway or at such location.

(d) No taxicab stand shall be granted or permitted between a safety zone or a street car stop and the adjacent curb [illegible] the Department of Public Safety shall indicate different lengths by signs and markings.

(e) Taxicabs, except when stopped by a traffic officer [illegible] signal, or to avoid an accident, or to receive or discharge passengers, are prohibited from standing or parking on any highway except at a designated authorized stand.

(f) Taxicabs shall not unnecessarily impede traffic on the highways of the City of Pittsburgh by cruising or by moving at a speed perceptibly less than that of the traffic going in the same direction.

(g) The number of taxicabs occupying a location for which a permit is granted shall not exceed the number named in the permit.

SECTION 605. Freight Buses on Call or Demand, Stopping and Standing of.

FROM AND AFTER July 1, 1932, no driver of a freight bus on call or demand shall stop such vehicle on any highway [illegible]

[illegible]

MURDER OF THE NIGHT CLUB LADY :-: :-: By ANTHONY ABBOT

Threatened Girl Is Resentful When Questioned About Man's Photograph

CHAPTER V

"Miss Carewe," he asked, "is this the bag you carried at Mayfair tonight?"

It was an envelope pouch of seed pearls.

"Why, no," answered Lola. "It does not belong to me—it is Christine's—my house guest. She must have forgotten to take it with her."

"Odd!" remarked Colt. "It's wet—as if it had been out in the storm!"

Lola looked at him curiously, as if searching for some deeper meaning to his words. Colt struck another match and lit his cigaret.

"Does your mother know of this threat against your life?" he now asked, apparently dismissing the pouch.

"No—please, and you must not worry her."

"Then why did you let her know the police were here?" demanded Colt.

"Well, she will have to be told, won't she?" demanded Lola, with unabashed inconsistency. Waiting for no reply, she led the way down a narrow corridor. Colt made no further comment as our party followed her.

We examined a breakfast room, a little library filled mostly with foreign volumes, many of them in paper bindings, a kitchen where Chung was laboring over an electric stove, and thence on into a guest room. Lola explained this was being used by Christine Quires, her closest friend. It was a prettily furnished room with four windows opening on a sheer drop of 23 floors to the street. There were temporary articles lying on the bureau in which Colt displayed more than an idle interest. In this room, as in all the others, Colt examined the closets and made a deliberate survey of all available hiding places.

ASKS ABOUT FRIEND

"How long has Christine Quires been living with you?" he asked, lingering at the door.

"About three months now."

"How long have you known her?"

"About three years."

"And where is she tonight?"

"Out at the new Lion's Paw Club. I had expected to join her there—until I read that note."

"Did she leave before you?"

"Yes."

Colt seemed about to continue this inquiry, then, glancing at his watch, thought better of it, and passed on down a corridor that led from the guest-room into another small room, reserved for Lola's mother.

At Lola's knock, the door was immediately opened and a tall old woman, straight and strong, stood looking at us. Her face was dark, shrewd and thoughtful,—yet a cheerful face, with arched brows, deep-set eyes, and small pointed ears. Of Mrs. Carewe Colt once said she had the strong body and the well-chiseled head of a lioness.

"You're home early, Lola," she murmured. "Why all these policemen——"

DISLIKES SERVANT

"So many jewel robberies, mother—I'll explain later. I was sorry to awaken you——"

"I was reading The New Atlantis again. Lot of good sense in that book."

She smiled at Colt as if she were imparting a secret. There was a faint foreign accent in her carefully pronounced words. Lola quickly presented her—naming her mother as Mrs. Carewe.

"You must sit down and rest yourself, Lola," insisted Mrs. Carewe. "You have been worrying too much. Chung is right. Chung has been talking to me tonight. He says we all think too much of death around here. He says death is not important. But he's a heathen. Even when he's right I don't like him. He gives me chills when he grins and talks the way he does. I don't like grinning people."

As the mother said this the sharp old eyes were turned directly upon Vincent Rowland.

"Mother, darling, I want to show these gentlemen your room. You don't object?"

The old woman shook her head.

"I have not objected all my life. There is nothing left for me to object to now."

And Mrs. Carewe sat down and returned calmly to her book.

UNUSUAL FURNISHINGS

The old lady's room was in reproachful contrast to all the wealth and elegance surrounding it. For herself Mrs. Carewe elected a chamber with bare walls—not even one picture adorned it. The bed was like a servant's cot of white painted iron rods, and with plain coverings of a cheap sort. There was one straight-backed chair, in which she now sat.

"We used to be poor," confided Lola, "and mother never changes."

Colt pried into closets, looked under the bed and glanced out of the window—far down the dizzy drop to the street.

"Would you like to see my room now?" prompted Lola.

If the mother's room had been a surprise, the daughter's was even more of an astonishment.

This cubicle, the most intimate and personal part of the establishment, was a gaudy contradiction of all that we had just admired in the drawing room. Behind Lola Carewe's bedroom door was stuffy, outmoded elegance. There was a rococo bed of gilded whorls and scrolls, with a rich brocade hanging high in canopy fashion, and huddled near it a knot of Louis Quinze chairs and bulbous dressers, chests and stools. Here too were florid hangings, and at the windows painted tin boxes of flowers, flag-poles and rubber plants. There were Dresden shepherdesses, painted clocks and oil paintings of valiant dogs rescuing unconscious little girls from high green waves. It was an inconceivable mixture of costly bad taste, beyond reconciliation with the rest of the apartment, a real mystery. I have often recalled our entrance into this strange room, knowing how near we were then to the fearful truth—and how little we suspected.

STUDIES PHOTOGRAPH

With a grave air, Thatcher Colt moved about the room, lingering finally before a framed photograph on the dresser. It was the picture of a pleasant-featured young man—hardly more than a boy—with straight features and a bright smile. Perhaps he seemed a bit weak around the mouth, but if so, it must have been the weakness of generosity and gallantry. His deepset eyes under curved brows shone with mischief, his pointed ears gave him an alert air, and the curly masses of his hair seemed blown in the winds of impulse.

Intently Colt stared at the picture. For so long a time did he consider it that Lola, who had been showing the rest of us a Gobelin tapestry, walked over to the dresser.

"Is there anything else you would like to see, Mr. Colt?" she asked.

The Commissioner looked at her with a puzzled expression.

"I am interested in this photograph," he told her.

Through narrowed lids, Lola regarded the photograph.

"You have never seen that face before, Mr. Colt."

"You seem very positive."

"He has never been in America."

"But I have been in other countries."

GIRL IS RESENTFUL

Lola was unmistakably agitated. Two patches of color reddened over her cheek-bones, spilling under the even line of her rouge.

"Still, you have never seen him," she insisted.

"Would you mind telling me if he meant much to you?"

"Less than nothing. I do not wish to discuss him any further."

"Forgive me. I have no wish to pry into your personal affairs, but the present dangerous situation makes that necessary."

"He means nothing to me now—I have told you that twice."

"Yet someone has been kissing his picture."

Lifting the frame, Colt pointed to two faint red spots—the mark of rouged lips—pressed against the glass. Lola laughed with an affectation of disdain.

"My maid is having romantic fancies," she exclaimed. "What can this picture have to do with your investigation?"

"You have many admirers—but one man's picture only, in this entire apartment. Is he living?"

"Whatever may be behind this threat against my life, that man had nothing to do with it!" declared Lola passionately.

"At least I should like to know his name," persisted Colt.

"Well, then—his name was Basil."

"Basil! And the last name?"

"Oh—I have forgotten."

"Very disappointing. Do you recall where you knew this good-looking young Basil?"

"In Paris."

"Now, Miss Carewe, be reasonable and tell me—would Basil have any reason to desire your death?"

Lola's face grew white. Uncertainly she stood for a moment, her fingers twisting a small lace handkerchief. Then, without a word, she turned and left the boudoir. Quickly Colt followed her into the living room, to find Lola before the fireplace, quivering, indignant and resentful.

"Mr. Colt," she exclaimed shrilly, "all this is too distressing. I feel so cold I am shuddering. I shall have to bid you all good-night."

"You promised me, Miss Carewe——"

"I can't help that!"

Close to tears, Lola brushed by us, returning to her own room and shutting herself in. Colt's manner remained unperturbed. With no sign of displeasure, he turned to the girl operative.

Synopsis

At 11:30 on New Year's Eve Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt arrives at the exclusive Mayfair Club in response to a mysterious summons from District Attorney Merle Dougherty. The latter informs Colt he believes Lola Carewe, known as "The Night Club Lady," widow of Gaylord Gifford, the cotton millionaire, is the "higher-up" responsible for numerous jewel robberies perpetrated recently which baffle the police. Though her husband died practically penniless, Lola lives in luxury. She arrives at the Mayfair accompanied by Vincent Rowland, an attorney. Following a spirited discussion Lola sends a note to Colt, urging him to join her, stating that a life is at stake and she must speak with him. Colt joins her party. Lola voices the fear that she will not leave the Mayfair alive, adding that her dog and parrot were mysteriously killed. And tonight, she received a note threatening death before 3 a. m. Accompanied by detectives and one woman operative, Colt goes with Lola to her apartment. Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother; Chung, the Oriental butler, and Eunice, the maid, are present. Colt warns Lola she should not be in any room, alone, at any time. The Commissioner picks up a white object from the living room mantelpiece.

Now Go On

"That man has nothing to do with it," she declared passionately.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Assigned Difficult Task

Lillian looked truculently at Dicky as she said that only I could cajole my mother-in-law into taking the job of caring for Baby Faith during the absence of Katherine at the bedside of the wounded Chinese, without her suspecting that we all had decided on her doing it.

"All right, all right," Dicky said. "Come on, Harry, let's get out of here. Mere men are quoted at about 119 below par around this dump." He marched out in disgruntled fashion, taking Mr. Underwood with him, but at the door he turned, gave us a wink and a cheery wave of the hand before closing the door upon us.

"Bless 'em!" Lillian said, looking after them in a fashion half affectionate and half exasperated. "The longer I live, the more I subscribe to the old wife's theory that 'you neither can live with 'em or without 'em.' But that's beside the question, at least they've cleared out and left us free. Any little job you want me to take over while you're tackling your mother-in-law?"

"Yes, I have," I said promptly. "I wish you'd look over this first draft, and tell me whether there's anything you'd like to have changed in it."

"Are them your real feelings?" she asked, with a little laugh, "or do you think you simply have to give a teething ring to the baby?"

"Nothing of the kind," I returned indignantly. "You know that I value your judgment and Dicky's and Harry's more than those of a dozen Phil Veritzens. And I've been so close to this thing that I can't see the 'woods for the trees.' I need someone else's viewpoint. Won't you tackle it?"

CHALLENGED BY BOYS

"You little hypocrite!" she said affectionately. "You know very well I'm simply crazy to give it the once over. Hand it over and then go and tackle your mother-in-law with my blessing."

I picked up the manuscript from my desk and handed it to her. Then with the feeling of going to execution which I always have when facing a difficult interview with my mother-in-law, I went out of the studio veranda and crossed the orchard to the house. As I did so, I heard a sharp "Who goes there?" from the upper veranda and saw Roderick and Junior grinning down at me.

"Are you a friend?" Junior demanded, and Roderick chimed in with "Advance and give the countersign."

"But I haven't learned it yet," I said, smiling.

"Then I'm afraid you'll have to be hanged at the yardarm," Roderick said.

"Aw! that's not quite fair!" Junior expostulated as seriously as if Roderick's threat had been real. "We ought to give her a chance to guess."

"All right!" Roderick agreed. "I don't care. Let her guess!"

"It's a name you know, and like a lot," Junior prompted, and something vibrant in his voice gave me the clue.

"Baby Faith?" I said, and smiled at the light which shone in his eyes.

SCOLDED BY MOTHER

"She got it the first thing," Junior shouted, dancing up and down. "You can come in now," he added, just as his grandmother appeared behind him.

"What do you mean by yelling like that?" she demanded. "It's a mercy you haven't wakened the baby. For goodness sake, Margaret, do you mean to say that you've been standing there and letting those children yell at you in that fashion when you know the baby is asleep?"

"I didn't know," I said meekly. "I do hope the baby hasn't wakened."

"Come up! I want to talk to you."

I lost no time in obeying her command, for it was virtually that. So swiftly indeed did I run up the steps that I was quite breathless when I reached her room, and she looked at me critically.

"What's the matter with you that you're out of breath like that?" she demanded. "You're not fat enough to puff. Are you sure your heart's all right?"

There was such real concern in her voice that suddenly I felt armed for the interview before me. No matter how cantankerous she was I knew that I had a reserve of her very real affection for me upon which I could fall back as on a wall.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Battalion Chief George Spahr, of the First District, talked to the youngsters Saturday at the regular meeting of the Harris (Downtown) chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club. He explained to the youngsters just what to do and how to act in case of a fire, either in their home or in school.

Evelyn Hughes, 13 years old, stopped the show with her singing and dancing. The children called her back time and time again, until this little miss came out and promised the youngsters that she would be back next Saturday with more dances and songs. Not until then would the youngsters let her go.

BELMAR CHAPTER

The boys and girls of the Belmar chapter were entertained last Saturday by the Arsenal chapter Junior Komic Club Minstrel Show, consisting of the following boys and girls: Bernadine Dressler, Josephine Baran, Josephine Lang, Alberta Fundy, the Richard sisters, Rose Vin, Beronica Walsh, Mickey Little, Francis Cain, Laura Jacobs, Al Dressler, John Hilliard, Howard Morris, Steve Delost, Eleanor Johnson, Jeanne Lesnik, Betty Racke and Russell Niggel.

These children gave their first performance about three weeks ago at their own theater, and proved such a success that arrangements have been made for them to visit many of the other chapters and entertain the youngsters at the regular Saturday morning meetings.

The boys and girls in and around Greensburg are fast learning that the regular Saturday morning meetings of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, which meets at the Grand Theater in Greensburg, is the place for more than two hours of fun and entertainment.

NEW MEMBERS

Here's the names of the boys and girls that joined Saturday: Betty Clark, Mary Agnes Mannick, James Ash, James Crainboli, Ned Potts, Charles O'Neil, James Lewis, William Mannick, Henry Trice, Annezeo DeMarino, Joseph Goldberg, Donald Gault, Sam Allegro, Arthur Morris, Lloyd Borstelmann, Bob Clemens, Ned Conner, Roberta Sterrett, Sara Troy, Billy Campbell, William Thomas, Vincent Bafumo, Louis Dimasi, David Fleming, Norris Friedlander, Laird Byerly, Joe Allegro, James Piazza, Charles Reed, Billy Wise and William Morris.

Remember, if you are not a member of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, and want to attend the big free show to be held at the Stanley Theater on Sunday, May 15, you still have time to join. All you must do is to attend four of the next five regular meetings and you'll be the guest of the Sun-Telegraph and Warner Theaters at the Stanley Theater, May 15. Go to any of the Warner Theaters, where the Junior Komic Club meets on Saturday and enroll. The manager will give you your membership card and button.

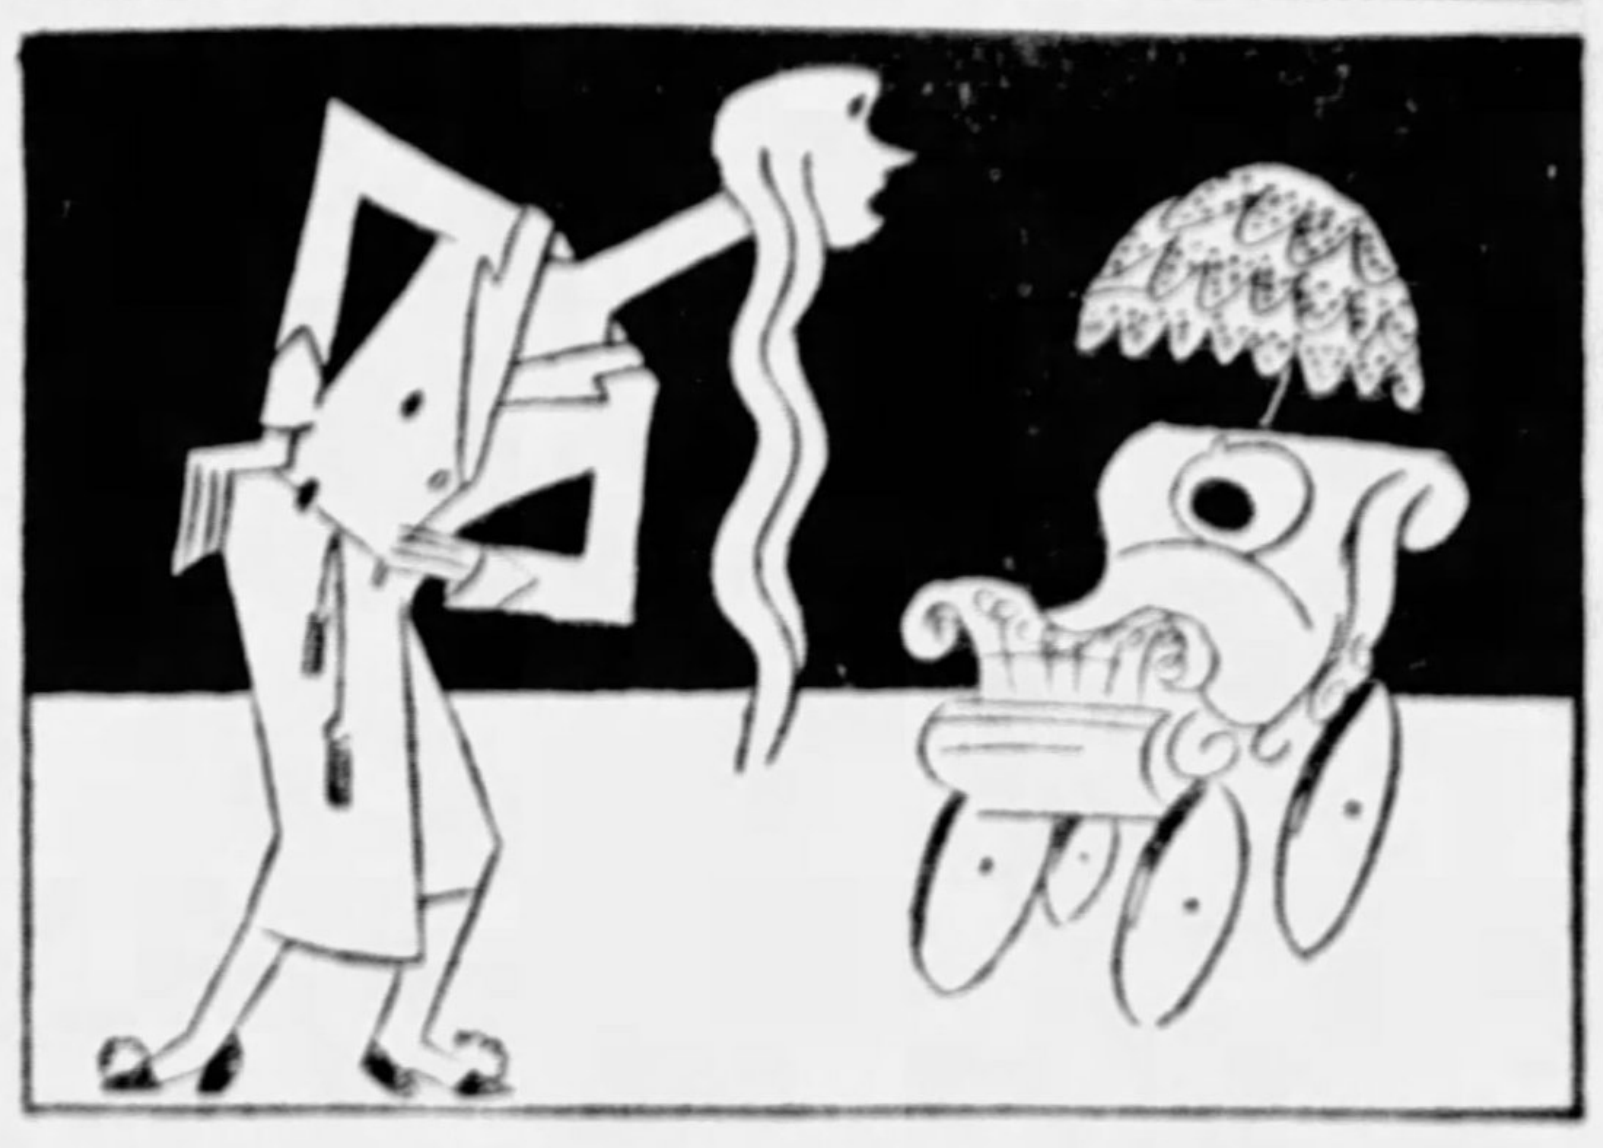
SYMPATHETIC LULLABY



Howl on, baby! Since there's nothing I can say to shame you,
I might just as well admit it's hard for me to blame you.
I would raise a racket, too, when feeling sore or nervous,
If I found that it produced a little better service.
There's time enough for you to learn how to remain a stoic,
When only yawns will greet your howls, no matter how heroic.
So howl, baby howl! Howl while it stirs up action;
For some day howling, little brat, will not have that attraction.

Diversified Industries

The Pittsburgh District Has Variety in Its Manufactures But Would Benefit by Greater Variety.

Pittsburghers may well take pride in the report on this district's industrial resources, as disclosed by the biennial census of manufactures conducted by the federal government.

The area comprised in Allegheny, Beaver, Washington and Westmoreland counties turned out more than $2,000,000,000 worth of manufactured products in 1929, we learn. The 2,587 manufacturing establishments in the area employed 227,221 wage earners and 33,050 salaried officers and employes that year, with a total payroll of $445,802,000.

The figures bear eloquent witness to the greatness of Pittsburgh as a manufacturing center.

The industries enumerated in the report are varied, but the community would be better off if they were more varied. Pittsburgh is a little lop-sided in the preponderance of its metallurgical industries.

Cities with greater diversification fare better in times like these.

He Has Been Punished

Pauletta, Sentenced to Hang for Homicide Committed 18 Years Ago, Has Suffered Enough.

Frank Pauletta, Coverdale coal miner, has been sentenced to die on the gallows in West Virginia 10 days hence for a homicide committed 18 years ago.

Gov. William G. Conley probably will not let him be hanged. He has promised "some sort of relief." Gov. Conley might well release Pauletta on parole.

The man has suffered enough and has proved by 18 years of good conduct that he can be trusted to behave himself in a law-abiding manner.

The punishment involved in the death penalty lies in the mental torture of awaiting execution rather than in the killing itself. So far as physical suffering is concerned most persons who die natural deaths in bed experience more of it than felons who are executed. Pauletta has already suffered the mental agony of awaiting the noose. In imagination he has died on the gallows a thousand times.

He had been sentenced to death when he escaped 18 years ago, and ever since then his life has been one of incessant torment and apprehension.

Judge M. A. Musmanno and others who have investigated Pauletta's course in the meanwhile state that he has worked hard, been good to his wife, and has been respected by his neighbors.

It is to be hoped that Gov. Conley, taking these things into consideration, will be merciful.

On Two Payrolls

County's Employment of a City Pensioner Raises Some Questions as to Sound Public Policy.

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern offered as his excuse for recommending the dismissal of Dr. John R. Conover as county medical director that several men serving under Conover were on the county and state payrolls at the same time. (Conover denied it).

Now it is reported that McGovern has had one man who draws a retirement pension of $125 a month from the city placed on the county payroll at $250 a month. He takes the job of a county employe recently dismissed in a movement to reduce expenses.

The case raises some questions as to the soundness of the public policies involved.

Why should the city permit an employe to retire on a pension of $125 a month after 20 years' service when he is still so valuable and so far from being incapacitated that the county employs him at $250 a month?

When so many able men are unemployed why should the county place on its payroll a retired city employe who draws a pension?

Slot Machine Raids

The County Detectives Deserve Credit for Their Activities Against Gambling Devices.

A story to the effect that 500 slot machines are in operation in Allegheny County has brought from Chief George W. Murren, of the county detectives, a demand that their location be disclosed. Murren promises to seize every such machine that is brought to his attention. Fair enough!

There is reason to believe that it is the city police rather than the county detectives who are lax in respect to confiscating gambling devices and prosecuting those who are responsible for their installation.

The county authorities have a pretty good record in this matter. According to Murren they have destroyed 1,000 slot machines valued at $100,000 during the last four years, among them 150 seized since the first of the present year.

The persistence of the slot machine owners in continuing to install their machines in the face of this perennial campaign calls for rebuke in the form of heavy prison sentences. They must be taught that it is a crime for them to prey in this manner on the weakness and gullibility of those so unsophisticated as to throw their money away in the crooked devices.

Time for Gardening

If You Have Suitable Land, Which You Will Not Use Yourself, Let Others Use It.

Mayor Kline's proclamation calling on the people to start daylight saving April 24 is a reminder that gardening time is about here.

There is no better employment for office workers in the evening, with daylight saving in effect, than to cultivate a small plot of land. It makes a pleasant hobby and the exercise is healthful. And a great deal of satisfaction is to be found in the vegetables and flowers that one raises oneself.

It is to be hoped that the garden acreage in Pittsburgh and the suburbs this year will be the largest we have ever had. Gardens offer a good plan by which the unemployed can obtain food without heavy outlay of money.

Persons with suitable land who do not intend to till it themselves will be doing a kind deed if they will let others use it.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 12.—Superstitions of the theater are as pronounced as those among the voodooists of Southern swamps. Performers will laugh—from the teeth out—at such frailty but scarcely one ignores them. A dressing room whistler even wrinkles the brow of Otis Skinner.

All Barrymores dread a stray cat and Mrs. Fiske was upset by a floral gift of lilies. Any number of musical comedy producers regard an effeminate chorus boy as an omen of good fortune. An owl is reputed to have found roost in the flies the night before the Iroquois holocaust.

William Rock was so flustered when a cross-eyed person sat in the front row that once in Chicago he skipped a performance. Many fortune tellers are supported almost entirely by a stage clientele. Marshall P. Wilder traveled with a horse shoe to be nailed over his dressing room door.

Beerbohm Tree, Bernhardt and Cyril Maud were most superstitious of all the international idols. Eddie Dowling and scores of others cross themselves in the wings before making first entrance of the evening, as an act of prayer, and not, as some suppose, superstition. The late Bert Savoy carried a $2 bill the day he was felled by a lightning bolt.

The most superstitious actor is the dialect comedian, Jack Pearl. He chuckles about it, but if someone touches his ear lobe he will chase until exhausted to return the touch. And nothing prevents him from picking up hairpins jokers often "plant" on the stage during a performance.

Charlie Chaplin never fails to "count" white horses with a wet thumb and palm pat. Tom Mix has never appeared in a film without his white gloves ribbed in black. Roscoe Arbuckle attributes much of his trouble to an umbrella opened in a hotel room one fateful day.

Raymond Hitchcock used one rabbit's hind leg for makeup purposes during his long stage career. George M. Cohan wears a faded green robe at his first nights. Lou Holtz worried about returning home for a forgotten article on way to a premiere and the curtain stuck. William Gaxton carries a gold piece. And this it thuses.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Why do we all laugh when the comic strip wife hits her comic strip husband over the head with a milk bottle because he wants to go out and have a good time with his cronies?

Sherwood Anderson thinks it is because we like to see men humiliated by women; and worse yet, he declares that American men particularly like to watch the poor comic strip husband's plight!

Mr. Anderson couldn't believe this at first. He thought men should be properly furious when they saw the ugly wife in the comic page giving her husband and his money the run-around. Surely this should incite millions of husbands to rebel against millions of homely, stupid, extravagant, bad-tempered wives!

But, instead, he saw those millions of husbands chuckling and applauding whenever the funny page husband was carted away in an ambulance. Something must be wrong! He asked an editor about it.

"Don't your readers ever get weary of it?" he asked. "I mean, of the men always being pounded in this absurd way by the women, by the wives? Why is it always so one-sided? Don't your readers ever get sick of it?"

"We don't dare to stop it," the newspaper editor said. "We would lose half our subscribers."

"But why not, now and then, let a husband beat up his wife—not in fact, you understand, but in the comic strips?"

"It wouldn't do; they wouldn't stand for it."

"You mean the women wouldn't stand for it?"

"No, I mean the men wouldn't."

"They want to see some other poor devil getting his?"

"Yes, sure."

And this amazing situation has come about, says Mr. Anderson, because women are really getting the upper hand.

They're getting the upper hand, because they can stand modern life better than men can stand it.

Instead of being fragile, women are really tough. They can endure a lot. They have resources inside themselves that speed and strain and competition and conflict cannot touch. Really, they thrive on high-tension conditions. But men don't thrive under them. They crumble—become emotionally impotent.

Compare laughing, husky factory girl laborers with tired, colorless boy laborers!

America is being run by women —women in homes, women in offices, women in schools, women in factories. Women even get along with machines better than men do. Machines do not destroy the identities of women as they destroy the identities of men.

The modern American woman is more verile than the modern American man. If the country is to be saved, the women must save it.

That's Sherwood Anderson's idea. I wonder if you agree with it.

How about the women of your acquaintance?

Do they boss their husbands? Can they endure more than their husbands?

How about the women in your office? Are they more tired by the end of the day than the men, or less? Are they still ready for excitement, while the men are fagged?

How about YOURSELF?

If you're a woman, what do you secretly think of men?

If you're a man, what do you secretly think of women?

An Open Letter to Bankers

By B. C. Forbes

TO bankers, investment bankers, international bankers,

Gentlemen:

You have incurred a very grave responsibility.

Are you prepared to meet that responsibility honorably, bravely?

You, more than any other group in America, were responsible for the speculation, the recklessness, the inflation which led to the present plight of this country.

Without your active aid, there could not have been foisted upon the American people the tens of billions of dollars of foreign bonds and domestic stocks during the frenzied boom.

It was you who sponsored the unprecedented outpouring of securities now worth less than 20 cents on the dollar.

It was you who underwrote such bloated obligations, it was you who advertised them to the public, it was you who readily loaned untold billions to encourage their purchase.

WITHOUT your colossal co-operation, the public could never have been saddled with such an overwhelming weight of "investments."

Hardly one of you uttered one word of warning, one syllable of caution.

Thus did you foster the grossest inflation America has ever known.

What are you now doing to check the grossest and most disastrous DEFLATION America has ever suffered?

How ready are you to loan money on these same securities today?

Are you as actively fighting deflation as you stimulated inflation?

Is it not the undeniable truth that you are as eager at this moment to cast out of your institutions the very same securities you eagerly drew into your institutions three years ago?

Are you not now doing just as much to bring about the DESTRUCTION of market values as you formerly did to INFLATE market values?

Did you keep your organization as "liquid" when quotations were at absurd heights as you are now doing when they are at absurd depths?

THE public well know that you did not.

You were very daring leaders when you should have been holding back. You are holding back now when you should be inspiring leaders.

Please realize, gentlemen, that you are on trial at this moment before the bar of America.

The evidence thus far is not moving the American public to reach a verdict of not guilty.

You have had laws passed and public money furnished to aid your circumstances; you have had laws interpreted to deal leniently with your institutions. How much aid, how much leniency are you extending to the public?

It behooves you, particularly the most influential among you, to bestir yourselves, even at the cost of serious sacrifice, to avoid having rendered against you a final verdict of guilty.

Unless you can quickly convince the public more successfully than you have heretofore convinced them that you are capable of staying the catastrophic trouble you played a leading part in creating, unless the appalling melting away of the people's wealth can be swiftly stayed, unless you rush in credit to arrest contraction in security values, and the attendant contraction in business and unemployment, other measures more drastic than the Glass bill to fix your responsibilities and regulate your action will surely be passed in state and nation.

PECULIAR WOMEN

By Winifred Black

A woman that I know is puzzled. She's living in a new house, in a new street, in a new village down by the sea. She loves the sound of the waves breaking on the shore. She dotes on the songs the wind sings in the chimney. She has a whole box full of bulbs, that she's going to plant the minute the weather shows signs of saying, "Yes, child."

But she's puzzled over one of her neighbors.

Not the one next door. She's all right, though she is a trifle grand and overwhelming in her manner, if you know what I mean. That woman next door has a way with her, though—such a way that she persuaded the electric light man to climb down from the pole in front of her house and come in and help set up the kitchen range, which was rather complaisant of him, when you come to think of it.

And the grocery boy lays the fire in the fireplace for her when he comes to deliver the groceries, and the milkman is especially careful not to jingle the bottles when he comes around to her house in the early morning. He wouldn't disturb her for the world.

The man down the road who looks after the toll gate is all right, too. He and his rosy, good-tempered wife have a neat little cottage by the gate. They tell wonderful tales of the deer that come down from the forest in the night and act as if they wanted to come into the house and get warm; and they have a regular troupe of wild rabbits that come up out of the meadow about noon every day, and eat the carrots his rosy wife puts out to them. They are cheerful, contented folks—the man at the toll gate and his wife.

But it's the woman on the street above that puzzles my friend. That woman on the street above owns the lot next to my friend's house. She came down the other day and said she thought she'd fence in the lot, and she asked my friend if she'd pay half the cost of it.

"Why, I don't believe I could do that," said my friend. "You see, I don't like fences. I'm waiting for the weather to change so we can start a hedge; and while the hedge is growing, I'll put in some sweet peas and things and—"

"Oh," said the woman who owns the lot next door. "I hate hedges; they take so long to grow."

In a couple of days a man came and started to build a queer, ugly, unusually tall fence; and the next day my friend met the woman who owns the lot, coming from the grocer.

My friend said "good morning," in her usual "Oh, isn't it lovely?" way.

The puzzling woman didn't say good morning at all. Instead she said, "I forgot to tell you that when you start those sweet-peas and that hedge and things, you'll have to be careful not to let any of the flowers droop over on our side of the lot."

And on she went, without another word, and with her face all screwed up in the meanest kind of a knot.

I don't wonder my friend is puzzled. Can you imagine anyone who is worried for fear the petal of a fragrant flower should fall on her lot?

What a queer, muddled, quarrelsome, unpleasant place this world must seem to a woman like that; mustn't it?
